Methodists Vote On Church Site

The outcome of a preferential and unofficial vote taken Sunday to select a site to rebuild the First Methodist Church, which burned March 23, is not expected to be released for at least two weeks, L. M. Standley, chairman of the building committee said today.

The purpose of the preferential vote was to get a better opinion of the congregation, Standley said.

The official vote of the congregation's members, 18 years old and older, will be taken Aug. 11.

The preliminary vote taken yesterday has not been tallied and probably will not be available until after the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, returns from vacation Aug. 4, Standley said.

About 600 members voted for one of three sites following a 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Sikeston high school cafetorium.

Sites presented by the building committee were:

Rebuild the church on its present site at North New Madrid and Harris streets;

Place it on a seven - acre site at the north end of the North Y on Highway 61.

Place it on a 20-acre plot east of highway 61 north and north of the Trinity Baptist church.

A general discussion was held on the three sites before the vote was taken.

The preferential vote will be studied by the building committee, which will report it to the congregation later.

Any member not present at the meeting yesterday may mail his preferential vote to the church office.

Three Politicos Campaign In Sikeston Area Today

Three men seeking political offices are actively campaigning in the Sikeston area today.

Bob Robison, Cape Girardeau, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the 10th congressional district representative post, will be in Dexter today after an hour visit to Sikeston this morning.

Vernon Landgraf, Cape Girardeau, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 10th district, will visit here throughout the day.

Bill Morris, Kansas City, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant governor, will visit throughout the day and have a reception between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Sikeston Country Club.

Robison could be a dark horse in the race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Representative. David Rolwing, Charleston, and Bill Burlison, Cape Girardeau, are thought to be the front runners.

Robison, however, ran against incumbent Paul Jones in 1964, and won more than 10,000 votes. He said today he assesses his chances as being as good as anyone in the race despite a limited campaign budget and little advertising exposure.

Born in Parma and reared in Cape Girardeau county, Robison, 35, has a bachelor of science degree in social science and a masters degree in educational administration from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His business background includes serving for two years as office credit manager with the Associated Discount Corp. in Cape Girardeau, where he signed and okayed credit for a half million dollars a month.

Bob Robison

Robison formerly authored a political satire column for the national VFW magazine. He formerly taught the U.S. Constitution, American Democracy and Missouri History from 1961- 62, at the college in Cape.

If elected, Robison would employ the brunt of his staff in the areas of agriculture, business, education and labor and situate them within the 10th District, rather than in Washington, D. C., he said.

The chief problem both in the district and in the country, Robison says, is the present situation existing in agriculture. Farm policy should be changed to allow farmers to produce without any limitations, he said.

The U. S. could be the breadbasket of the world and use the excess production to feed starving countries.

But, he added, a selling job has to accompany the foreign aid and strings should be attached, so that receiving nations will know the U. S. is helping them.

More vocational education also is needed both in the district and throughout the country, he said.

Education is the singlemost factor that needs to be stressed and supported to improve the country as a whole, he commented.

Robison said he is against the present system of welfare, and would like to see the system help disadvantaged persons find employment to be self sufficient. He is against cradle to

Youth Dies Of Stabbing

Irvin William, 15, Sikeston, died early Sunday morning of a knife wound in the chest cavity.

Sikeston Police Chief Arthur Bruce said the youth was stabbed with a pocketknife by a 14-year-old Sikeston girl shortly after midnight Saturday at 203 Felker St. in Sunset Addition.

The identity of the girl is protected by the state juvenile code. She is in custody and has been transferred to Scott county juvenile officers, Chief Bruce said.

The stabbing followed an argument involving two other juvenile boys, chief Bruce said.

Pathologist Dr. Stephen Parks, Sikeston, examined Williams' body and issued the opinion that he could not have lived more than three or four minutes after the stabbing occurred, Coroner Gene Nunnelee said today.

No inquest will be held, Nunnelee said. Nunnelee was called at 12:07 a.m. Sunday and arrived at the scene at about 12:20 a.m. Williams was found lying on his back in the yard at 203 Felker and was pronounced dead there, Nunnelee said.

Police officer Isiah Dunn arrived at the scene shortly after the stabbing occurred, and called police headquarters and the Fred Smith ambulance.

Pemiscot county officers reported they thought they heard a shot, according to the state patrol, and in investigating at 3 a.m. Sunday, found Leeks in his truck, mortally wounded.

Authorities are seeking a 21-year-old Caruthersville man who was reported last seen Saturday at 9 a.m.

She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for the cuts on her left foot and elbow.

Watson Outlines Severe Postal Service Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) - Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson outlined today a severe cutback in postal services which he said would be required by a forced reduction in personnel.

Watson told the Senate Post Office Committee the cutbacks would include:

The beginning of a reduction to four-day delivery weeks on residential routes.

The closing of 500 third-and fourth-class post offices by the end of August.

Elimination of Saturday residential services.

No extension of delivery service to newly eligible homes or services.

Watson said these cutbacks would be necessary unless congress exempts the Post Office from a government-wide personnel reduction program. The government-wide cut in federal employment was part of a package which included spending cuts and imposition of a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Watson said the program would mean a cut of 83,000 workers from the postal service's work force of 741,000 over a four-year period. Meanwhile, he said, the volume of mail will increase from 84 billion pieces annually to 93 billion.

Long Gun Mail Order Ban Before House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, which has virtually killed President Johnson's hopes for a gun registration law this session, turned today to the proposed ban on mail order sales of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Amendments for licensing of gun owners, another Johnson proposal, also were up for action before a final House vote on gun controls, possibly late in the day.

The bill would add long guns and ammunition to the congressional ban on mail order sales of pistols, which was part of the recently-passed omnibus crime bill. It also would prohibit over-the-counter gun sales to juveniles, and nonresidents except those from adjoining states.

Cong Launches New Wave of Terrorism

SAIGON (AP) — A new wave of Viet Cong terrorism hit Saigon and two provincial capitals Sunday, killing 13 Vietnamese and wounding 92.

Intelligence sources have said terrorist attacks might precede the threatened third major enemy offensive of the year, but the lull in the ground war still continued.

Twelve Vietnamese were killed and 91 wounded in the weekend bombing of four theaters, one of them only a block from national police headquarters in Saigon. A large explosive charge set off outside the Saigon theater killed four persons and wounded 52. Also in Saigon, a minor official was assassinated and a 17-year-old boy seriously wounded.

A hand grenade was thrown into a group of militiamen watching a traveling troupe perform in Phu Cuong, a provincial capital 15 miles north of Saigon. Four persons were killed and 23 wounded, including two of the performers.

Terrorists set off bombs outside two theaters in Ben Tre, another provincial capital in the Mekong Delta 50 miles southeast of Saigon. Government headquarters said four persons were killed and 16 wounded.

Vietnamese informants say at least 1,000 Viet Cong troops have infiltrated the capital city in preparation for the third major offensive of the year expected within the next two months.

Allied defenses around Saigon were promised more reinforcements today with the arrival of the first contingent of a new infantry division from Thailand. Some 1,500 troops of Thailand's 12,000-man Black Panther Division arrived at the U.S. Army's Newport port facility just north of the capital.

The Thai division will have a dual mission: to block enemy infiltration into Saigon from the northeast, where elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division are said to be based, and to smash Viet Cong guerrilla bands in Bien Hoa province, east of the capital, easing the threat of enemy harassment against allied military installations there.

Along the northern frontier, an outnumbered U.S. Marine force hurled back a North Vietnamese battalion near Khe Sanh Sunday. The enemy opened up with mortars before launching a ground probe at dusk, U.S. headquarters said. While Marine artillery pounded the North Vietnamese, the defending Marines unleashed heavy automatic weapons fire.

When the fighting died down two hours later, the Leathernecks counted 19 enemy bodies outside their positions and reported 10 of their own men wounded.

East of Khe Sanh near Con Thien, Marine fighter pilots and artillery wiped out most of a 30man North Vietnamese unit that was spotted moving in an open area. The U.S. Command reported 22 North Vietnamese bodies were found.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 10 Viet Cong and capturing 21 others during sweep through the Mekong Delta, 70 miles southwest of Saigon. Government losses were put at three dead and seven wounded. The South Vietnamese uncovered a sizeable weapons cache that included 30 bazooka-type rockets, 50 mortar rounds, 70 blocks of TNT, 3,000 pounds of rifle ammunition and 25 rounds of 7mm recoilless rifle ammunition.

Soviets Turn Down Czech Rebuttal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party today rejected th defense by Czechoslovak party leaders of their liberal course and demanded again that the leaders in Prague come to the Soviet Union for a showdown meeting today or Tuesday.

Reports from Prague indicated the demand for a meeting on Soviet soil would be rejected. The Czechoslovak leaders were reported willing to meet their Soviet critics, but only on their own territory.

Pravda rejected the Prague leadership's denial last week of charges made against it by the Warsaw meeting of the Soviet Union and its four hard-line allies-East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary.

The Soviet party paper accused the Czechoslovak leaders of playing down the threat to the Communist system in Czechoslovakia. It warned that the Soviet Union regards the defense of communism everywhere in the East Bloc as its business.

Echoing the charges of the Warsaw meeting, Pravda said the "right-wing, anti-Socialist forces in Czechoslovakia, encouraged and supported by imperialist reaction, are bringing matters to a liquidation of the guiding role of the Communist party in society, to undermining the Socialist state and system, to the restoration of the capitalist order. They have captured the mass media—the press, radio and television—and are using them for anti-Socialist propaganda trying to fan hatred for the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries."

Czechs on Prague's steering agreed that Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek should not go to Russia to meet the Soviet party leaders.

"Dubcek shouldn't give in," said a girl student. "We're with him all the way. If they want something, let them come here."

The reply to the Russian invitation was believed being delayed until all the 16,000 Russian soldiers who took part in Warsaw Pact maneuvers that ended June 30 have left the country.

By Sunday, the day they were officially scheduled to leave, most of the Russians were reported in Eastern Slovakia, presumably en route home. It appeared that all of them could not be out of the country before Wednesday, even if there were no more delays.

Czechoslovak Interior Minister Josef Pavel denied reports published in Soviet and Bulgarian newspapers of new arms caches found in Czechoslovakia near the Polish border. He said in a statement broadcast by Prague radio that there was general belief a cache discovered earlier near the West German border was put there by someone trying to embarrass the new leadership.

Many Czechoslovaks believe the arms, found near a Soviet troop camp, were planted by the Russians. Pravda reported the discovery before Czechoslovak officials announced it.

McKeithen Says Wallace May Send Election to House

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen said today third party candidate George C. Wallace is the presidential favorite in at least six states now—"certainly enough to throw the election into the House of Representatives" if the Republicans and Democrats run a close race.

McKeithen said he supports Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic nomination and for the White House. But he spoke no ill of Wallace, saying his praise for Humphrey is "about as much as you'd expect from a governor from the Deep South who's not too far from Alabama."

He told a news conference that at this point, Wallace "is the high man in our state.

"It's possible for Vice President Humphrey to overtake him," said McKeithen, here for the 60th National Governors' Conference.

McKeithen said he believes that two major parties will reach an agreement on how to proceed should their candidates be denied a majority of the electoral college in the election. If that happened, the choice of a president would be made by the House of Representatives with each state casting one vote. Congress members of both parties have proposed an agreement to support th candidate who obtains a plurality, regardless of party.

McKeithen said Wallace now is the presidential leader in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, is potent in the border states, and has support outside the South, too.

McKeithen said one Western governor, whom he would not identify, told him Wallace could carry his state.

Two New England governors disclosed that they had advised Humphrey he needs some dramatic political initiative to fuel his White House campaign, and one of them said he had suggested it be Humphrey's resignation as vice president.

Gov. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont said he suggested resignation to Humphrey as a declaration of political independence from President Johnson and the administration. He said he told Humphrey his major campaign problem is that "you can't be your own man" while serving as vice president.

But he said Humphrey replied he could not resign the job to which he was elected.

Hoff and Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine, both former supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination, met secretly with the vice president in Washington one week ago.

They told of that meeting in interviews at a national governors conference marked by talk of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as a potent choice for second spot on a ticket headed by Humphrey.

Curtis, who did not join in Hoff's suggestion that Humphrey resign, said Kennedy's nomination for vice president might provide the drama and appeal he believes the Humphrey campaign now needs.

While Hoff and Curtis talked critically of the Humphrey campaign, they did not translate this into any hint of support for the vice president's chief rival, Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Hoff said he is uncommitted, added: "I have been stewing because I love Hubert Humphrey." Curtis said he leans toward support of Humphrey for the nomination.

They said Humphrey's nomination is not inevitable, but both expressed reservations about McCarthy.

"Perhaps, I've been around politics just too long to be too idealistic," Curtis said, "because I think it's going to take more than just an expression of ideals that Sen. McCarthy has to run the country."

"There is a certain remoteness about him," Hoff said of McCarthy, "and I guess I would call it a lack of leadership."

WOULD HE DO BETTER IF SENT TO CONGRESS

A study of records in Circuit Court and Magistrate Court shows that Cape County Prosecuting Attorney Bill D. Burlison has made appearance on only eight occasions in the last 11 months.

Practically the entire burden of pursuing the state's interest in cases before the courts has been borne by Mr. Burlison's two assistant prosecuting attorneys, Richard E. Snider and Gerald H. Johnson.

Since last Aug. 1, about the time Mr. Burlison filed for Congress from the 10th District, he has represented the state on only five occasions in Circuit Court and on only three occasions in Magistrate Court.

Records do not state precisely the prosecuting attorney's appearances as legal officer for the County Court, but the minutes mention him on only 10 occasions to indicate his presence.

It is not certain that Mr. Burlison was present in all of those instances, since in come cases mention refers only to filings or orders which did not necessarily require attendance.

The appearances recorded in the Magistrate Court record were on Nov. 20 and Nov. 27, 1967, in the handling of routine matters; May 3, 1968, in a motion to quash.

Instances of appearance recorded in Circuit Court were on these dates: Aug. 2, 1967, three cases; Sept. 18, 1967, call of docket; Feb. 27, 1968, three cases; March 5, 1968, motion; March 19, 1968, three cases.

Since Cape County advanced to second class the prosecuting attorney's office has been reorganized with two assistants instead of one as in previous years.

Mr. Burlison receives $9,600 a year as prosecuting attorney, plus the salaries of two secretaries. One of the latter is paid $365 a month by the county and the other $225 a month.

The prosecuting attorney also is allowed $720 rental allowance annually for himself and $480 rental allowance annually for one of his assistants.

Total remuneration for the prosecuting attorney, including the three salaries and his rental allowance, comes to $17,500 a year.

Mr. Snider, a former prosecuting attorney, is Mr. Burlison's chief assistant, handling cases in Circuit Court. He is paid $6,600 a year and $225 a month for a secretary, plus a rental allowance.

Mr. Johnson, who is assigned to the Magistrate Court, is paid $3,600 by the court. He receives no secretarial allowance.

The county budget also allots these expenses for the prosecuting attorney's office: Supplies and postage, $740; telephone and telegraph, $300; service and repairs, $100; travel, $100; trial expenses, $450; professional meetings, $100; books, binders, $550; new equipment, $50; miscellaneous, $50.

The total Prosecuting Attorney budget for the current year is $33,416.08.

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE
(July 22, 1916)
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY DIES

They had a time with him beyond that pearly gate:
They took his measure for a harp, but Riley wouldn't wait.
"I've got my music here," said he,
And he held a pen for all to see.
And while they watched, he wrote a word
He sang a note far sweeter than they'd ever heard;
And then he wrote a line that sounded like a chord.
While Peter ran to talk it over with the Lord.
Don't hear much of Riley any more,
But he's busier than he ever was before,
Playing music while all the host of Heaven sings;
Using words instead of those old - fashioned harps with strings.

—George L. Kress

He was impractical in many small ways - if he traveled alone he was almost certain to take the wrong train or get off at the wrong station; he aspired to be an actor, but never went far in that profession; he became editor of the town paper in Greenfield, Ind., and said "in a few months strangled the little thing into a change of ownership."

A teacher gave up hope of advancing him in mathematics, and advised him to read good literature; he left school at the age of 16 and took up painting, graduating into "house, sign, and ornamental painter," thus for two years traveling with a company of other youths, and they covered all the barns and fences in Indiana with advertisements, calling themselves "the Graphics."

Of his first teacher, he wrote:

"She was a little old woman, rosy and roly - poly, who looked as if she might have come tumbling out of a fairy story, so lovable was she and so jolly and so amiable. She kept school in her little Dame - Trot kind of dwelling of three rooms, with a porch on the rear, like a bracket on the wall, which was part of the playground of her 'scholars,' for in those days pupils were called 'scholars' by their affectionate teachers."

He absorbed about all there was in the McGuffey Readers, but the most important part of his education was his visits to the courthouse with his father, where he became familiar with the manners and speech of Indiana country folk, which showed up consistently in his poems.

Stung by jeers of poetasters who are best forgotten, and to demonstrate his theory that to make a poem successful it was necessary only to prove its author "a genius known to fame," he wrote some verse in the style of Edgar Allan Poe, under the title of "Leonainie." It was published in the Kokomo Dispatch, and the hoax was so successful that the editor was pressed by scholars and book collectors for evidence of the original manuscript.

Throughout his life this incident was a source of embarrassment to him, but it is to be hoped not much embarrassment, for anybody who can gull the experts and critics deserves a few extra diadems.

He's remembered for "The Old Swimmin' Hole," "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," "When the Frost Is On the Pumkin," and dozens of others; he and Bill Nye were platform favorites in a golden era of America; of him, James Russell Lowell, presiding over a conclave of famous writers of the period, said:

"Today, in presenting him (Riley), I can say to you of my own knowledge that you are to have the pleasure of listening to a true poet." This was in the presence of George William Curtis, Mark Twain, George W. Cable, Charles Dudley Warner and Edward Eaggleston.

Commerce Appeal

"Keep the faith" has been used to describe many causes. Some are worthy. Some are not. It also has been weakened by use for trivial causes.

But human values persist and words, however blunted in constant, often ill-advised use, still have meaning.

These thoughts come to mind in reflection of the heroism, the high sense of duty and the valor of the nation's 39th medal of honor winner.

The citation was awarded posthumously to 1st. Lt. George R. Sisler, 30, of Dexter for his brave deeds in combat Feb. 7, 1967. His dedication to the army's Green Berets and to the men in his command was in the finest tradition of the special forces.

Every medal of honor winner, a distinction not taken lightly, has performed "above and beyond the call of duty." Here again is a phrase that has been diminished by trivial or unworthy application but still holds meaning.

In describing Lieutenant Sisler's courageous action deep in Vietnam enemy territory it means that he was not required to do any of the things he did to earn the coveted medal.

He would not have been criticized for failing to act. His military record would have been unblemished by such a failure.

The penetrating force he led was surrounded by a company sized enemy force on three sides.

He charged through heavy enemy fire to rescue two of his wounded men, killing three enemy.

After a new burst of enemy fire, wounding more of his men, Lieutenant Sisler single-handedly charged into the enemy onslaught, firing his weapon and silencing a machine gun with a grenade that he tossed.

This heroic action forced the enemy to withdraw.

It was while moving about the field, directing air strikes against the fleeing force that he fell mortally wounded.

Lieutenant Sisler kept the faith. He knew what he was fighting for. He acted with the utmost bravery and needless of the danger he faced.

The nation is grateful for his life and his courage and it is deeply in his debt.

We are warned by the big steel mogules that the steel imports imperial American economy.

What has become of American know-how when this country could produce more and better of anything for less money than our foreign competitors.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One in every seven Americans will be admitted to a hospital sometime this year.

Canadians seem to be the most talkative people on earth —and we're a close second. The average annual number of phone calls per person in our northern neighbor nation is 664; the number in the United States is 648.

Looking for a bargain buy in a nice neighborhood? A swank East Side Manhattan apartment house is offering a 24-room coop apartment for sale at $750,000. But that's only for the key. You also have to pay maintenance and upkeep costs of $48,000 yearly.

You may not be getting more youthful, but the chances are that you're driving a younger car. The average age of passenger cars has dropped from 5.9 years in 1965 to 5.63 last year. There are now approximately 98 million vehicles using U.S. highways and fighting for parking spaces.

The high price of prosperity: It's getting more expensive to retire. The Institute of Life Insurance estimates the annual cash requirements of a retired couple who want to live in moderate comfort—assuming they probably already own a car, their own home and most major household appliances— varies from $3,200 in a small Southern town to $4,200 in a big metropolitan area. The most costly retirement mecca: Honolulu, $4,400.

Quotable notables: "If you watch a game, it's fun. If you play it, it's recreation. If you work at it, it's golf."—Bob Hope.

Hungry mouths: UNICEF estimates that two-thirds of the world's children—300 million—are undernourished. One reason malnutrition is so dangerous to the very young is that the brain doesn't reach 80 per cent of its full size until the age of 3, and lack of proper nutrition during this critical period can retard its development permanently.

Mottoes for moderns: "Nothing is impossible for the man who doesn't have to do it himself."

Reassuring: Many elderly people dread the prospect of having to undergo cataract surgery. However, all cataracts don't require an operation. A study of 1,000 people over 65 with vision problems found that only 5 per cent needed surgery.

It was Charles Kingsley who observed, "If you wish to be miserable, think about yourself: about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, what people think of you; and then to you nothing will be pure."

COLLEGE BOWL SCHOLARSHIPS

The unique national television program, The College Bowl, sponsored by General Electric Company, is nearing its first $1,000,000 in grants to higher education as the program celebrates its tenth anniversary.

At the end of last year 315 colleges and universities, with 353 different teams and 1,413 students, had participated in this series, answering 11,238 questions. The contestants were selected from 49 states and the District of Columbia. Of these competing teams only 26 survived the competition to chalk up five victories, the maximum number achieved. After five victories the team and trophy are honorably retired, and new contestants are selected.

ABOUT YOUR CLOTHES: If you own any clamp trouser hangers, be sure to use them. The weight of the trousers, hanging from the cuffs, will stretch out most wrinkles . . If ties get perspiration stains at the knotting area, allow them to dry out completely and then use plain water on them . . ANOTHER HOOVER COMMISSION?

Many years ago, the Hoover Commission saved taxpayers millions of dollars by pinpointing wasteful or unnecessary federal spending. Representative Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and [illegible] Committee, has [illegible] uncontrolled government spending. He now calls for a new Hoover-type Commission to make sweeping reviews of domestic spending programs, old and new. He points out that whenever a new President has been elected" . . . a new program is enacted and added on top of the programs of other Presidents . . . " The result has been soaring costs, as well as duplication and overlapping of manifold federal programs.

On question that Representative Mills believes should be considered by his proposed investigative commission is, "Whether state governments, and private enterprise, should take over some of the chores Washington does . . . " As far as many millions of citizens are concerned, the answer is already plain without the help of a commission. The trend toward centralized government and government in business threatens both economic and political liberty -- and should be reversed now.

GROWTH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Conspiracy theory exploded in king murder case· FBI finds probable source of Ray's lavish funds was robbery; · CHE Guevara diary is authentic.

WASHINGTON -- It now looks as if the FBI has exploded the generally prevalent theory that the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King involved a conspiracy.

The conspiracy theory has long been held, as a result of the large amounts of money spent by James Earl Ray, the suspected killer, and the manner in which he was able to travel around the United States, Canada, and Europe. It was believed his operations would have been impossible without help from other conspirators who were out to murder King.

For instance, Ray rented a safe deposit box in the Birmingham Trust National Bank, August 30 of last year, and suddenly began passing out crisp $20 bills. He paid $499 for dancing lessons. He also paid $395 for mail - order photographic equipment that he didn't know how to operate.

He shelled out money for a bartending course, though he showed no interest in working behind any bar. He also took a course in lock - picking from a correspondence school in Michigan, which cost about $400.

His white Mustang cost $1,995, which he paid for in cash. He drove it from Mexico to Montreal, from Los Angeles to New Orleans, and always seemed to have enough cash.

Occasionally Ray slipped $20 tips to bar girls and prostitutes.

All told, Ray spent an estimated $10,000 in seven months. Yet during this time he never held a job. After the King murder, the suspect went to Canada and then to England where he also seemed to be in the dough. He had plenty of money to spend on clothes and airplane fare.

So the big question was: Where did he get the money?

For a long time the FBI toyed with the possibility that Ray was financed by a white supremacy ring. He had boasted to fellow prisoners that he intended to make a big "score" on the outside and that he might try to collect a rumored $1 million bounty that a business group supposedly had offered for the death of Dr. King.

SOURCE OF MONEY

Now, however, the FBI has found a robbery where Ray probably got his money. On July 13 the Bank of Alton, in upper Alton, Ill., was robbed of $22,000. Alton is across the Mississippi River from Missouri, and it was from the Missouri State Pentitentiary that Ray escaped on April 23, 1967, three months before the July 13 robbery in Alton.

The holdup was pulled off by two robbers who wore stocking masks. Their faces could not be identified. However, the FBI has been checking very carefully and one of the robbers answers the description of James Earl Ray. He had the same long hair, the same height and the same physical makeup.

At first the FBI was inclined to be skeptical. However, rechecking the Alton Bank robbery has convinced them that Ray was involved and that this was where he got the money on which he lived so extravagantly prior to the King murder.

The idea that a group conspired to murder King and paid Ray to do it has now been dropped.

Note 1: The FBI has also traced a British bank robbery to Ray from which he got more money.

Note 2: Arthur J. Hanes, the American lawyer who turned up in London to defend Ray, has been connected with various other cases involving racial violence. He was the attorney defending the Ku Klux Klansmen in the Viola Liuzzo case, has a flair for publicity and it's believed he went to London on his own. There is no evidence that he is being paid by conspirators.

CHE GUEVARA DIARY

Some authorities have questioned the authenticity of the CHE Guevara diary which he kept before his death in the Bolivian mountains. We can report that the diary is completely authentic.

Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro got hold of it by purchasing bootleg excerpts from Bolivian officials, then piecing the excerpts together. A few pages were missing from the version which he released to friendly publications around the world, including Ramptarts magazine in this country.

Parade Magazine's enterprising editor, Jess Gorkin, organized a consortium of publications which sought to purchase the rights to the diary from the Bolivian Government. Gorkin sent Andrew St. George, a bring - em - back - alive correspondent, to Bolivia to translate the diary and research the story behind it.

Actually, some of the other documents captured with Guevara are much more revealing than his diary. He lugged them around the jungle in a waterproof jungle pack and a portable field safe made of special, high - impact plastic.

The papers included the outline of a book Guevara planned to write on the evolution of man's political thinking, going back to the ancient Greek phosophers; also an original short story entitled, "passing the test," which he wrote in the jungle.

The bloodthirsty Guerrilla leader also packed poetry with him to occupy his leisure moments. His favorite poet apparently was Ruban Dario, although some verses appear to have been written by Guevara himself.

He also rated his Cuban officers in a confidential "rating book," which indicates he may have found the characters for his short story among his own Guerrilla band. In a typical comment on one officer, Comandante Marcos, Che wrote: "He will not perform at the expected level, he is undisciplined anti- study and arbitrary."

H.L. Hunt Says

U.S. NUCLEAR SUBMARINE POLICY

Testimony by Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover before the House Appropriations subcommittee recently revealed that the Defense Department is following a very dangerous policy with regard to the construction of new nuclear-powered submarines.

Admiral Rickover testified that in less than five years, the Soviet Union could surpass this country in nuclear submarine strength. Yet the Defense Department has refused to authorize the building of any nuclear submarines after 1970.

Rickover stated it would be "highly dangerous to allow the deterioration of our submarine capacity that would result if no submarines are constructed after fiscal yaer 1970," adding "Our survival could well depend upon what we do in this vital area."

Admiral Rickover, director of the Navy's reactor division, says there is little doubt that the Soviet Union is working to expand substantially their submarine program, both in quantity and in quality. He pointed out that the entire Soviet submarine fleet has been built since World War II, while two-thirds of the United States submarines were built during that war and are about 25 years old. He added that the Defense Department has not given the approval needed for the development and testing of a new submarine.

Most military experts are agreed on the vital role that nuclear submarines play in safeguarding this country's security. Admiral Rickover said: "We must produce whatever it takes to counter the Soviet submarine threat." If the United States is to maintain its capacity to resist communist aggression, the officials in the Defense Department should heed this sound advice. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A Modern Prophet Israel's Prime Minister Talks of Miracles

By Victor Riesel

Jerusalem: -- From the Mount of Olives one can look down on desecreation. Down the gentle slope sacred tombstones have been ripped from a cemetery laid out by ancient Hebrews whose devout patriarchs believed that from these heights the Messiah would enter Jerusalem nd the dead would be resurrected.

Mockingly, the Jordanian Arabs tore up the gravestones and heaved them crazily in all directions. Some stones were used as the pavings for Arab roads.

Others, marking the resting place of families of antiquity, were hauled off to make foundations and walls for toilets.

And at the Wailing Wall a companion tells me of the days before 1948 when Jewish families here in the old eastern section were beaten as they went for prayers at what remains of the Temple's West Wall. As they prayed stones were hurled at them and garbage deliberately strewn at the base of the towering, tannish bastion of King Solomon's antiquity.

One's heart would have to be made of black basalt rock not to feel a sense of resurrection when, after a few minutes drive across this small and now united city, the visitor sits with the big, good-humored Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol.

He is in his shirt sleeves. And soon a round of tea in a glass appears for everybody. Outside the open window, newly planted trees sway in winds which blew across these seven hills eons before Abraham came up out of Ur.

In the distance is east Jerusalem from where I had just come, after a visit with the leaders of Histadrut, the General Federation of Labor in Israel. It had opened an office there in the House of Qutub on Rashiedin Street.

To this house of Jewish labor now are coming Arabs seeking counseling on problems of marriage, children, as well as of bread and butter, and the payment of debts. The Jewish labor leaders do their best.

They run Hebrew language courses to cut down the communications barrier. They send lecturers into Arab homes for family gatherings, to move these people closer to Western modernism.

They run folk dances for the young Arabs and job training and development of special skills for the very same population which once stoned the Hebrews.

When the labor and industrial officials of Histadrut followed the young, swift-triggered Israeli troops into the eastern Jerusalem area, once seized by Abdullah, the late grandfather of today's "little king," the Israelis found Jordanian Arabs working a 64-hour, 7-day week for $10 to $12.

The Arab worker had no rights, no job security, no welfare, no pensions, no health clinics no sick pay, no holidays, no vacation -- no nothing. Just toil and trouble.

So the Israelis opened their labor headquarters on Rashiedin Street -- and began resurrecting the Arab toiler from his hunger, nothingness.

It is from this Ristadrut headquarters in east Jerusalem that I drove to Prime Minister Eshkol's headquarters. As we talked for an hour over tea, the erudite premier appeared to be the strangest "conqueror" the world has seen -- before or after King David.

Levi Eshkol literally wants to beat the tanks and fighter craft and Sten guns into plowshares. There are parts of his tiny land which desperately need cultivation and immigrants. But these in turn need peace.

Peace in turn means the force, especially in the air, to match hat the Soviet Union is pouring into the United Arab Republic.

Israel cannot afford a single invader. It cannot barter real estate for time. It cannot again permit its Tel Aviv megalopolis to lay under the ground gunsights of Jordanian artillery, or the streets of Jerusalem to be a hand grenade's distance from the enemy.

And so Prime Minister Levi Eshkol, as does Defense Minister soldier-archeologist Moshe Dayan, talks energetically of buying 50 F-4 Phantom jet fighters from the U.S.

To date, America has refused to sell these jets to Israel.

"We want no charity," the Prime Minister said. "We want what Churchill wanted when he said just give us the tools. We wwnat no credit. Thank God, today we are a solvent, going nation. We will pay the $4 million apiece for those planes.

"We want the right to defend ourselves against the force now being supplied to the Arabs by the Bolsheviks. We want nothing else but friendship.

"When I was at the ranch of your President, I told Johnson that we wanted no mothers or wives weeping for sons and husbands dying on our soil. We simply want the power to neutralize the enemy. We'll pay cash on the barrelhead -- not like the Arabs who ask for long-term credits and never pay."

It was not an angry tone. It was not the tone of one who said that the world in general or the U.S. in particular owed anything to this Biblical nation.

"Israel wants peace and friendship," said Eshkol.

But what his country needs now are 50 craft which skilled American machinists can turn out in a matter of weeks.

And what if these jet fighters are not sold to Israel by the U.S., I asked.

Prime Minister Levi Eshkol looked out over the Judean hills and sighed.

"Three times we've beaten back the enemy," he replied philosophically. "Three times there have been miracles. It could be they're habit-forming."

Then I left this man of peace and drove to the Negev to see what miracles his people have wrought in ancient deserts.

Gibson, Koosman Show Shutout Form

By The Associated Press

Jerry Koosman split a pot with Bob Gibson when the New York Mets stacked the deck at St. Louis ... and Jim McAndrew got caught in the shuffle.

Gibson hurled his 10th consecutive victory and seventh shutout Sunday as the Cardinals spoiled McAndrew's major league pitching debut by shading New York 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Koosman, deliberately held out of a direct confrontation with Gibson, then pitched the Mets to a 1-0 victory, setting a club shutout record in the process and matching the St. Louis ace's 13-5 season mark.

McAndrew, who battled Gibson to a standoff until Bob Tolan tagged an inside-the-park homer in the sixth inning, wasn't around to see Met Manager Gil Hodges' gambit pay off in a split with the National League leaders.

The Mets returned the 24year-old right-hander to their Jacksonville farm club after the first game

Second-place Atlanta bowed to Pittsburgh 6-0 and fell 10½ games behind the Cardinals. The Cincinnati Reds slugged Philadelphia 12-6 for their fourth straight triumph and climbed into a third place tie with the Phillies and San Francisco Lqiants—63 games off the pace.

The Giants divided a twin bill with Houston, dropping the opener 2-1 in 10 innings and taking the nightcap 6-1. Chicago cuffed Los Angeles 7-2 in a single game.

Baltimore swept Detroit's American League leaders 5-2 and 4-1; Minnesota took two from Oakland 7-5 and 10-0; the New York Yankees stopped Cleveland 8-4 after a 4-1 loss to the Indians; the Chicago White Sox beat California 5-1 before falling to the Angels 7-0 and Boston split a pair of 4-3 verdicts with Washington.

Gibson, unbeaten since May 28, scattered seven hits and struck out 13 in outlasting McAndrew under a blazing sun at St. Louis.

Koosman stayed at the head of the Mets' talented young mound staff with a brilliant four-hitter in the nightcap. He struck out 12 on the way to his fifth shutout—a Mets season mark.

New York nicked Nelson Briles, 11-7, for the game's lone run in the sixth, when Cleon Jones singled, took second on an infield out and tallied on a single by J.C. Martin.

Home runs by Willie Stargell, Donn Clendenon and Jose Pagan propelled Pittsburgh's Steve Blass to his seventh straight victory and gave the Pirates a sweep of their threegame set at Atlanta.

Stargell got the Pirates started with a three-run first inning blast off Milt Pappas and Blass checked the Braves on seven hits, bringing his season record to 8-2.

Lee May, Jim Beauchamp and pitcher Tony Cloninger belted homers and Leo Cardenas stroked a single, double, triple and sacrifice fly, good for three RBI, as the Reds buried Philadelphia under a 15-hit barrage.

Cloninger went seven innings before giving way to relief ace Ted Abernathy and picked up only his second victory against five setbacks.

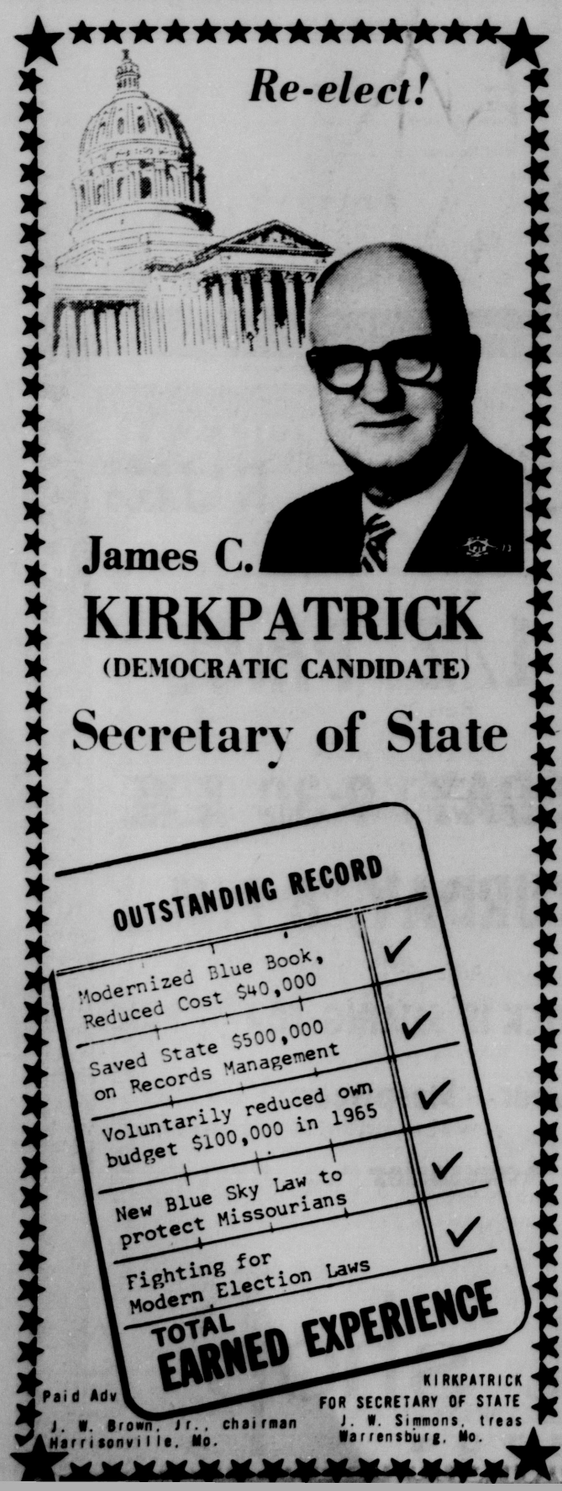

Dick Simpson's run-scoring single in the 10th sent the Astros past the Giants in the first game. Southpaw Mike McCormick throttled the Astros on six hits in the nightcap while rookie Bobby Bonds triggered San Francisco's attack with three hits.

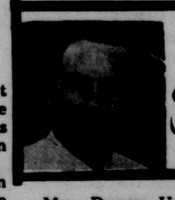

With Willie McCovey nursing a knee injury in the second game, the Giants brought Willie Mays in from the outfield to play first base for the first time since 1954. He handled eight chances without a flaw.

Billy Williams poled a pair of two-run homers and delivered another run with a sacrifice fly as the Cubs trimmed the Dodgers behind Bill Hands, 10-5, and reliever Phil Regan.

Glenn Beckert, who had run his hitting streak to 25 games—tops in the majors this year—in Saturday night's loss to Los Angeles, cracked a triple and three singles and drove in the other two Chicago runs.

A 22-game basketball schedule, including a pre - holiday tournament, has been lined up for Arkansas State University's Indians next year, announced J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, athletic director, Wednesday.

The Indians will open the season Dec. 2 hosting the University of Tennessee Martin Branch and will end the campaign Feb. 24 at Lamar Tech.

Included among the 20 games are home - and - home games with defending NCAA college division champion Kentucky Wesleyan. Also on tap are road games with Air Force Academy and the University of Denver. Both are newcomers to the Indians' regular season schedule.

Another team back on the Tribe schedule for the first time in several years is Union University, a regional finalist in last year's NCAA tourney.

ASU will also participate in a tournament at Jackson, Tenn., hosted by Union University Dec. 20-21.

Other teams on the Indians' non - conference schedule will be the University of Tennessee Martin, Southeast Oklahoma, Southeast Missouri and Southwest Missouri.

The Tribe will begin Southland Conference play Jan. 11 by hosting Lamar Tech. The Indians finished third in last year's league play and will be setting their sights on a higher position this year.

Coach Marvin Speight will return only four lettermen from last year's 6-17 team. Seniors Ronnie Brown and Dave Velander, who shared a starting guard spot with Phil Young, are the only upperclassmen returning. Young, a sophomore, and classmate Alton Barnes round out the Tribe's experience.

"Next year's team will be the most inexperienced I have had in my five years at A-State," said Speight. "We will have to depend heavily on men up from the freshman team and new recruits," he added.

The schedule is:

Mrs. Karen MacGee of Kansas City owns her fourth Missouri women's amateur golf championship after her fifth trip to the finals.

The 28-year-old housewife edged Mrs. Barbara Berkmeyer, 24-year-old St. Louis school teacher, 2 up in 36 holes Sunday as they played sterling golf despite 95-degree heat on the Moila course.

Mrs. MacGee was 2 under par at 74-74-148 and Mrs. Berkmeyer had 77-75-152, 2 over par.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was down one hole in the afternoon round but Mrs. MacGee ran her advantage to 5 up with a string of good chip shots and birdies. Mrs. Berkmeyer made another rally and cut the margin to one with a birdie on the 32nd hole. They split the remaining holes.

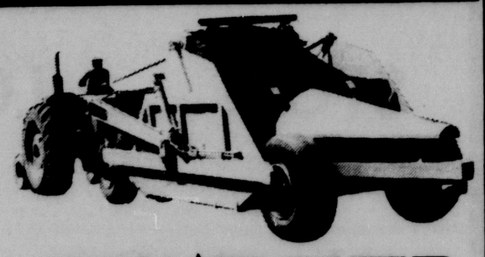

On the last hole, Mrs. Berkmeyer's second shot missed the green and she came within two inches of sinking a 50-foot up-hill recovery shot that would have sent the match into a playoff.

Mrs. MacGee's first time in the finals was in 1959 when she lost to Judy Torluemke, now a professional. Since then Mrs. MacGee went all the way in 1960, 62 and 64.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was the champion in 1965.

Next year's tournament will be June 23-28 on the St. Louis Greenbriar course. Mrs. Helen Wainwright of Greenbriar was elected president of the Missouri Women's Golf Association.

Namath's Backup Gets New Uniform by Trade

NEW YORK AP - It was a week early, but Mike Taliaferro is well satisfied with his birthday gift - a new uniform.

The veteran quarterback, who will be 27 Friday, will be wearing a Boston Patriots outfit this fall when the American Football League season opens.

That's just the way Taliaferro wanted it. After playing behind Joe Namath for three years with the New York Jets, Taliaferro asked to be traded for an opportunity to win a starting job.

The Jets obliged Saturday by dealing him to the Patriots for 38 - year - old veteran Babe Parilli, who shared the starting job with Don Trull last season. Taliaferro will battle Trull for the job.

"Trull will start out a little ahead, because he was with us half of last year," Patriots' General Manager - Coach Mike Holovak said, referring to the 1967 mid - season trade that brought Trull from Houston. "But Taliaferro will get every chance to win the job."

Taliaferro needs only three more games on active duty to become eligible for the Afl pension, but he shrugs that off.

"To get the pension I have to live until 65," he said. "I'm thinking of now."

Taliaferro had little chance to play behind Namath, who set a pro passing record of 4,007 yards last season, breaking Parilli's mark of 3,465 in 1964 when he was the AFL's all-star quarterback.

Taliaferro, of the University of Illinois, managed only 20 passes, completing 11 for 96 yards after suffering a shoulder separation in a preseason game.

Parilli, a 14-year-veteran of the National Football League, the Canadian League and the AFL, had heard the cheers of 1964 turn to boos last season. He completed 161 passes in 344 attempts for 2,317 yards and 19 touchdowns and had 24 interceptions as the Pats finished last in the Eastern Division.

"Babe still has a great arm and has always been an excellent play caller and leader," Jets General Manager - Coach Weeb Eubank said. "We feel we have a good chance to win the Eastern Division title this year and wanted to get a backup quarterback such as Babe to insure our chances."

In the News

NEW PRIME MINISTER of South Vietnam is Tran Van Houng, 65, who was named by President Nguyen Van Thieu in a cabinet shake-up designed to strengthen South Vietnam's bargaining position in any peace talks. Thieu named the extremely popular former schoolteacher only eight hours after Nguyen Van Loc resigned the prime ministership and announced the demise of a 17-man cabinet.

Peyton Place Rated Acting Paradise

EDITOR'S NOTE—Life in ABC's "Peyton Place" may be a long series of tribulations, not to mention murder trials, that would break the strongest mind. But for one performer paid to suffer professionally, ABC's evening serial is a dream job. Barbara Rush, who recently joined the cast, tells about it.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" comes as close to being an actor's paradise as can be found in television. There are a few drawbacks—a lack of travel for location filming and the fact that you won't achieve the fantastic fame that a hit motion picture can bring—but there are other compensations.

Few shows on television, aside from anthology dramas, have strong acting scenes. By that I mean most teleplays are all plot and there is not enough face-to-face dialogue between the characters. "Peyton Place" is thought of as being an intricately plotted show, and in many ways it is, but the characters talk to each other more than is possible on the action adventure programs.

With a continuing drama too, there is greater opportunity for actors and actresses to help develop the character of the part they are playing. It is not like a play where you interpret just what the author has written. You find that you are putting something of yourself into the role. There is a lot more of me in the Marsha Russell part than I ever thought there would be.

One of the reasons for this is that the actors confer with the writers of the show on the parts they are playing. As a consequence, I am playing Marsha more strongly than the writers originally intended.

If I disagree with the writers on some point, we discuss it. I don't always win my point, but if I don't, at least I know why a scene is written the way it is for me to play.

The hours I work have been heaven for me, but I don't know whether they would suit all actresses. I work three days a week, and sometimes only two because there is a large cast. This gives me time to be with my family and to take care of other things I want to do.

I have turned down two offers to do pictures during the summer hiatus the company will take because I don't want to work any harder.

The repertory theater character of the show is invaluable for the young actors and "Peyton Place" has helped develop a lot of good young talent such as Mia Farrow and Leigh TaylorYoung.

There is time for the fine directors on the show to correct mistakes and to give them some help, which is not always true on daytime television serials.

Circus Greats to Hall of Fame

SARASOTA, FLA. -- Only a little more than a month remains for nominating all-time circus greats to be considered for election this year to the Circus Hall of Fame it was announced by Museum President William W. Naramore.

Nominations submitted before Sept. 1 will be considered at the annual meeting of the Circus Hall of Fame's national awards committee Sept. 11, in Shreveport, La. The meeting will precede the 37th convention of the Circus Fans Association of America there Sept. 12-14.

Naramore said the awards committee, consisting of 12 circus historians from throughout the country, will again consider nominations of all - time circus greats from the performing artist, business or maintenance categories of big top entertainment. Nominees who are living must be retired from their circus specialty for five years prior to enshrinement.

Naramore said that those elected to the Circus Hall of Fame this September will, as in years past, be officially announced from the center ring of the Ringling Bros. and Branum & Bailey Circus at the Ringling Arena in Venice, Fla. The induction ceremony will be at the opening 1969 matinee performance next January, with newly - elected circus greats simultaneously blowing ringmaster's whistles to launch the new edition of the "Greatest Show on Earth."

Fifty-four circus greats have been enshrined at the Sarasota landmark since it first opened in January, 1956, across from the Sarasota - Bradenton Airport. Those most recently named, earlier this year, were retired equestrian star Capt. William C. Heyer, Jr., and ex - trapeze daredevil Elly Ardelty, both of Sarasota; former acrobatic ace Ernest Schlee Millette, of Union, N. J., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the late riding comedian Edwin (Poodles) Hanneford, formerly of Kattskill, N.Y.

Nonstop Flight Recommended For Ozark

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recommendation that Ozark Air Lines be authorized to provide nonstop service between St. Louis and Chicago was made Thursday by Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Ross I. Newmann.

The CAB may adopt the recommendation if no petition for review is filed within 10 days.

Newmann indicated one effect of the change would be to provide Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service.

At present, Ozark is required to make at least one intermediate stop on one of its routes between St. Louis and Chicago and at least two on another route.

Ozark has used DC9 jets on the route between Joplin and Springfield, Mo., and Chicago since mid-1966, operating by way of St. Louis and either Peoria or Springfield, Ill.

"There is no need for this amount of service between Joplin-Springfield, Mo., and Peoria, Springfield...

"The effect is that these Missouri passengers needlessly preempt Chicago seats which otherwise would be available for passengers at the Illinois intermediates," Newmann said.

Newmann said Ozark plans in 1969 to delete either Peoria or Springfield, Ill., from two roundtrip jet flights to Chicago and plans to replace the Illinois service with two new jet roundtrips between Chicago and St. Louis serving the Illinois intermediates deleted from the existing service.

In addition, Ozark would operate a third roundtrip jet which would be non-stop between St. Louis and Chicago, thus providing Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service and retaining the same frequency to Chicago and St. Louis for Peoria and Springfield, Ill.

Newmann said authority to operate nonstop over the 258-mile route would reduce Ozark's need for government subsidy by $133,313 next year and by $401,729 in 1970.

The 99% non - communist part of our population have been losing a battle for 35 years to the 1% who are better organized. If many patriots will refrain from hating this 1% and instead appraise and cultivate the enemy they will acquire valuable information and know -how tuition free which cannot be purchased nor learned from even their closest friends. Patriots will find the erstwhile enemy eager to meet them halfway. Their attitude and aptitude may be the secret of the success of this dedicated, well - organized minority which is winning.

These highly intelligent patriots may transmit this knowledge to fellow non - communists who will help them convert the dupes and stooges who are never apathetic but always anxious to 'take a side" and eager to "get in on the act," whether wrong or right. We may, through simply increasing our understanding of human nature, begin winning before it is too late.

JAMES JOSEPH SCULLY

Robber Joins FBI List

WASHINGTON - James Joseph Scully, a convicted bank robber who has alledgedly robbed at gunpoint a series of California banks and escaped in rented getaway cars, has been placed on the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives. During one holdup he allegedly shot and critically wounded an innocent bystander.

Scully, who was released from a ten-year bank robbery sentence in December, 1965, is reportedly armed with two pistols, has had psychiatric treatment and allegedly has suicidal tendencies. He may be accompanied in flight by an attractive young woman posing as his wife, and two French poodles.

On March 21, 1968, Scully is reported to have robbed the Del Amo Center Branch of the Security First National Bank, Torrance, Calif. of $4,000. On April 5, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Valley Fair Branch of the Bank of America, San Jose, California, of $1,520 and escaped in a rented getaway car.

On April 29, 1968, Scully allegedly attempted to rob the Coddington Office of the United California Bank, Santa Rosa, California, but fled without any loot after a newspaper delivery man was shot by the robber in the bank and critically wounded. Again a rented getaway car was used in the escape.

On May 8, 1968, Scully reportedly robbed a Covina, California, Branch of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank of $2,477 before again fleeing in a rented car.

On June 14, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Rowland Heights, California, Branch of the Bank of America of $2,516 after threatening bank tellers with a pistol.

Federal warrants charging Scully with the San Jose and Torrance, California, bank robberies were issued at San Francisco, California, on April 9, 1968, and Los Angeles, California, on April 18, 1968, respectively. In addition, a Federal parole violator's warrant was issued at Washington, D. C., by the United States Board of Parole on May 23, 1968. Scully had been paroled in December, 1965, after serving approximately five years of a ten-year bank robbery sentence.

Scully has additionally been convicted of interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

He is a white American who was born at Blackstone, Mass., on Aug. 26, 1920. Scully is 5 feet 10 inches to 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 180 to 200 pounds, has blue eyes, gray receding hair, a medium complexion and a stocky build. He has a scar above his right eye, a mole on his right cheek, scars on his left shin and the tattoo of a skull and crossbones on the upper portion of his right arm. Tattooed on the upper portion of his left arm are the head of an Indian woman and "NEDA." He has worked in the past as a construction worker, mechanic, real estate salesman and carpenter.

Scully reportedly likes spaghetti, vodka and scotch, enjoys hunting, fishing, gambling and golf, frequents racetracks and remote luxury motels, often wears expensive western apparel and has a high I.Q. He has reportedly taught high school English to fellow inmates while incarcerated.

This fugitive should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning Scully is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Cape Prosecutor Seeks Trial Delay

CAPE GIRARDEAU, -- Cape Girardeau County Prosecuting Attorney Bill D. Burlison has asked for a delay in the prosecution of a former county collector, citing a newspaper editorial endorsing one of his opponents for the Democratic nomination for 10th district congressman.

Burlison stated the editorial, which did not mention the court cases, and a letter to the editor criticizing his performance as prosecutor, would be prejudicial to the selection of an impartial jury.

He asked that the case, scheduled for Thursday, be set for the earliest possible date after Aug. 6 - the day of the primary election.

The county collector involved is Bill W. Rose, charged on two counts - failing to file an annual settlement and failing to report to the county court the salaries paid his deputies.

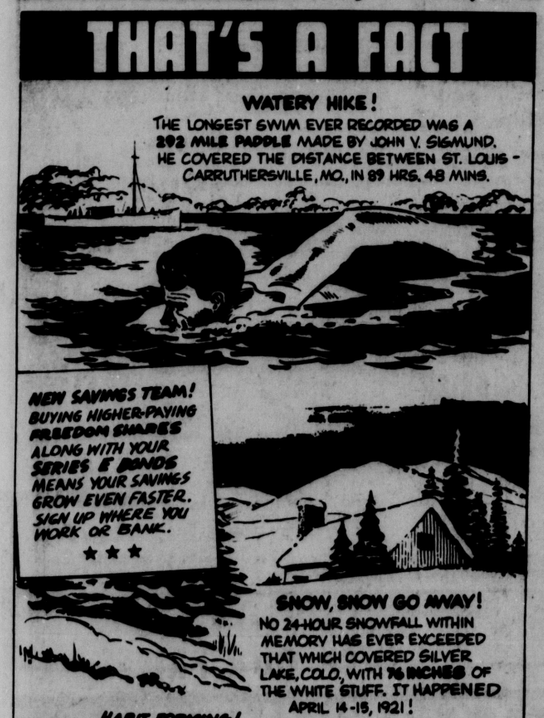

On July 11, the Southeast Missourian, a Cape Girardeau newspaper, endorsed David Rolwing of Charleston for the 10th District nomination, commenting that Burlison had not performed his duties as prosecutor "in the devoted, hard - hitting, forceful manner the people have a right to expect."

There was no direct reference to the Rose case, but the newspaper had commented on it previously.

A few days later, the newspaper printed a letter charging Burlison had not brought justice to the county and criticizing his political campaign. It also cited the fact that no charges had been filed in connection with discrepancies in the personal property tax books prepared under Rose.

The cases are pending before Circuit Judge Rex Henson of Poplar Bluff. Judge W. Osler Statler of Cape Girardeau disqualified himself.

Capitol Museum Enjoys Long Run

JEFFERSON CITY - The success of a Broadway show is indicated by the length of the run and number of performances. If this is a criteria of show business one of Missouri's greatest shows and one that has certainly enjoyed a long run is the Missouri state museum in the Capitol. The museum opened to the public in 1921. For 47 years it has proved a smash hit to millions of people.

One reason for the enduring interest and why people return again nd again is the continuing change in exhibits created by the staff of four technicians, Wilber Phillips, John Rackers, Leo Taylor and Harold Shelton and the Director, Don Johnson.

This summer visitors are treated to three new displays that are creating much interest. They re the Indian basketry exhibit, the Indian pain mine and the pioneer settlement. A fourth exhibit, nearing completion, will be the Indian fur trade exhibit. When completed the exhibit will show what a fur trading post of the earyl 1800's really looked like, such as Fort Zumwalt or Fort Osage.

The Indian basketry exhibit shows one of the most ancient arts of the early Americans and their methods of interlocking fibers of many shapes, colors and weaves to produce beautiful baskets from bark, roots, plants, and shrubs.

The paint mine exhibit shows that Indians were the first miners in the state. The red and yellow ore was used for making paint, war paint included. The exhibit portrays a mine at Leslie, which extended twenty feet underground. Over 1,000 implements were recovered before it was demolished by white men.

The pioneer settlement exhibit portrays the typical homestead. It is an example of early settlements that brought freedom and self reliance to the hearty frontiersmen. They used Missouri's fertile soil to help build the backbone of a nation.

The state museum is operated under the direction of the state division of commerce and industrial development and is open seven days each week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Governor Advised to Guard Phone Security

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was talking with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes by telephone Thursday when a third party came into the conversation.

Mondale was in Kansas City, Hearnes was in St. Louis.

Said the third party:

"Governor, I think you ought to have better telephone security than this."

Hearnes asked what the unidentified party meant.

"Well," came the reply, "I just picked up the telephone here in St. Louis to make a call, and got in on your telephone conversation."

The governor said he didn't get the name of the inadvertent eavesdropper.

The two said they were talking Democratic politics at the time.

Eagleton to Tour Stoddard County

DEXTER - Lt. Gov. Thomas Eagleton, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator, will be in Stoddard county Wednesday.

Eagleton will begin his tour of Stoddard county with a "Dutch treat" breakfast at Bernie at 8 a.m. From there he will go to the Hill's store at 9:15 a.m., and from there to the Essex - Gray Ridge area at 10 a.m.

The tour will then swing northward to Bell City, arriving here about 11 a.m., then back to Bloomfield for a luncheon at noon.

The tour will continue after noon, with the Lieutenant Governor being at Advance at 2 p.m., at Puxico at 3 p.m. at Dudley at 3:30 p.m., and ending with a visit to Dexter about 4 p.m.

That night, Eagleton will leave Stoddard county and will attend a fish fry in Sikeston. Tickets for the fish fry may be purchased from Mrs. Wilma Ringer of Dexter.

LBJ Hands out 24 Millionth Social Security Check

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson personally handed over a $230.40 monthly Social Security check Wednesday to the 24 millionth beneficiary under the program that was started 33 years ago.

"I wish you the very best of luck," the President told William F. Owen, who lives just outside of Richmond, Va., and came to the White House with his wife for the ceremonies.

Owen, who was 65 last May 20, is a retired metal worker who was born in Pendleton, S.C.

He and his wife said they were thrilled by the White House meeting with the President. Owen promptly turned the check over to his wife.

Music Festival Tent Collapses In Wind Storm

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A giant show tent filled to capacity for a festival music program collapsed in a wind storm Sunday night, scattering a crowd of 2,500 persons.

Officials said about 40 persons were treated at hospitals for injuries, none serious. Most of the victims were teen-agers struck by falling tent poles.

An estimated 20 other persons were treated at a first aid station.

Police, spectators and show officials said there generally was little sign of panic as support poles toppled into the tightly packed crowd, and sparks showered from overhead electric equipment.

One woman said the audience was watching a band about to start the program when "all of a sudden, the wind came underneath the tent and it started flying up" releasing the poles.

One of the injured, Miss Mary Pointek, 15, said she heard "a howling noise and a big ripping above me. The poles started swaying back and forth. I thought it was all part of the show at first. All of a sudden, everything collapsed around me."

Witnesses said the winds, accompanying a line of thunderstorms, lifted the canvas twice before it collapsed and cloaked about half the seating area.

Police said most of the audience got clear of the wreckage within 15 minutes, but that many people were still entangled in rope and canvas 45 minutes later.

The tent, covering an area larger than a football field, had been erected at a Lake Michigan shorefront park for a series of programs during the city's Summerfest '38, keyed to youth activities.

Steven Thorpe of Chicago, a trumpet player with the New Colony Six, which was beginning its performance, said a pole "hit me in the side of the head and knocked me off the stage."

A few persons said they thought they saw funnel-shaped clouds over Lake Michigan. But the Weather Bureau said there were no twisters in the storm that swept the state.

POLLY'S POINTERS
Calendar Notes Tally Progress of Baby

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I recently painted a new metal cabinet black. When dusting the cabinet lint sticks to it and it looks worse than the dust. I have tried polishes, a damp cloth and vacuuming it. I hope some reader can help me.—MRS. J. P. G.

DEAR POLLY—I have two small children but like most busy mothers find it hard to keep their baby books up-to-date on what they do and say. Now when they do or say anything cute I mark it down on my calendar on the day or along the side. It is so easy to write, "Took first step," on the proper day on the calendar. About every three to six months when I have some spare time I get the calendar and baby books and enter in the books all the things I have written on the calendar and am sure I have the proper dates and all the things I wanted to include. —DIANA

DEAR POLLY—First thing we look for in the paper is your column since we benefit so from it. I hope my Pointer pleases a lot of the ladies. To prevent skirtband wrinkles I sew fiberglass-type Venetian blind tape on the back of all my skirt bands, or if I make a skirt I insert it in the band. It is lightweight, washes and will not wrinkle.—A. F. Y.

DEAR POLLY—I recently sent a birthday cake to my brother in the Air Force. It was an unfrosted angel cake wrapped in clear plastic. I tucked in a box of frosting that needs no refrigeration and plastic bag of nuts, colored candies and candles for decorations. He and his friends seemed to enjoy assembling the cake themselves and I do hope other friends of servicemen will try this Pointer from a 12-year-old. —NANCY

DEAR POLLY—If you take facial tissues to an elderly patient in the hospital, take colored ones. White tissues are often difficult for them to see against white bed coverings but colored ones are easily spotted.—FLORENCE

The old jail, which was built adjacent to the courthouse in Marble Hill in 1885, is being replaced because of what officers call inadequate facilities for prisoners and unsafe conditions for lawmen.

Bollinger County Presiding Judge Clarence Huffman aid plans for the new jail are being drawn up by representatives from Hastings Chevetta Architects in Claytonnd Nenson and Niederkown Consulting Engineer of St. Louis, who met with the county cour this week to discuss the size of the jail and its features.

The jail will cost an estimated $70,000, and will be financed by funds from a four-year continuance of a 25-cent Tax levy would have ended at the end of this year had not the voters approved it.

Combat GIs Favor Gun Control Laws

SAIGON (AP) — An informal survey among American combat troops whose lives depend on their weapons shows a strong sentiment for moderate to strong gun control laws in the United States.

But at the same time, most of the GIs interviewed on Saigon's outer defense perimeter said they thought short of confiscation controls would do little to cut down on gun deaths.

Spec. 5 Jerry Ballard of Kansas City, Mo., said, "I'm a member of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and I'm against confiscation. But I think mandatory registration of weapons is okay. A gun is no different from a car as far as that goes. And stopping mail order sales is a good idea."

Lt. Alfred Pick of Dallas, Tex., said proposed gun laws seemed "ridiculouis. Crooks and assassins can always get a gun whether it is registered or not." Pick said he was not opposed to reasonable gun laws.

Spec. 4 Paul Young of Burbank, Calif., said as a devoted hunter, he would not mind gun registration laws but added: "No matter what gun laws they pass, if someone really wants a gun he'll find a way to get it. And don't forget, it's the people who do the killing, not the gun. Weapons are not bad by themselves."

"A lot of guys worry about registration because they think it may eventually violate their right to bear arms," said Spec. 4 John Krumpus of Des Plaines, Ill.

"But I think it's a great idea to register and license weapons in the United States. I've seen what these things can do to people and there ought tc be some sort of control.

"But if a guy is crazy enough to kill (in the United States), he'll find a way to get a weapon.

Campaign for Gun Controls Gets Results

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A month-old campaign in support of gun-control legislation has collected more than 10,000 petition signatures and 52,000 postcards for Maryland congressmen.

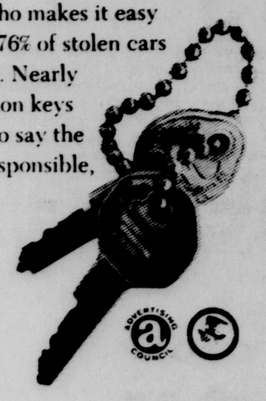

The campaign began June 19 under the direction of Maclyn McCarty and Walter S. Orlinsky, who represent Baltimore in the Maryland House of Delegates, and Mrs. Marvin M. Polikoff, a former aide to U.S. Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., an advocate of strong gun-control laws.

The stack of petitions and 10,000 postcards were presented to Tydings. Orlinsky said Maryland's other U.S. senator, Daniel B. Brewster, also received 10,000 postcards and 8,000 each went to Reps. Clarence Long, Edward Garmatz and Samuel Friedel.

The cost of the drive so far, Orlinsky said, has been $400.

Who needs a license to steal?

Every 60 seconds someone steals a car. Who does the stealing? Teen-agers mostly. Many less than sixteen, 64% less than 18. Why do they steal? Joyrides chiefly. Dangerous joyrides when you know that stolen cars have 200 times more accidents than other cars. Who makes it easy for them? You do. 76% of stolen cars were left unlocked. Nearly half also had ignition keys in them. It's easy to say the teen-agers are irresponsible, but so are you.

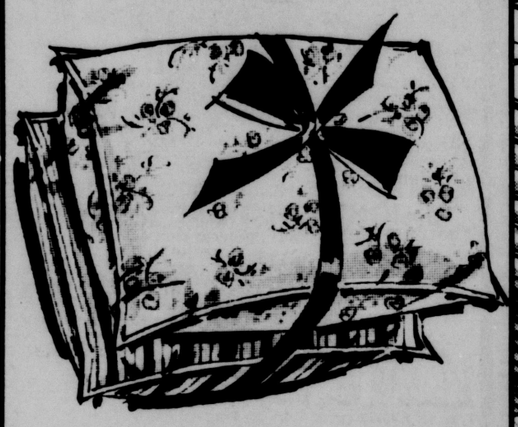

Don't help a boy go bad. When you park, take your keys.

A POT'S THE SPOT

Geraniums fill this square pot with brilliant blossoms which may be red, scarlet, any shade of pink or rose, as well as white. For interesting contrast with these colors and the deep green foliage, variegated vinca cascades down the sides.

Multiflora petunias are used as a "topping" for this round pot. Lower growing than grandifloras, they have slightly smaller but many more flowers in so many shades of so many colors that space does not permit a description of the entire list.

A pot's the spot to plant the showiest, gaudiest blooms you can grow, for a pot is the only spot in the garden that's movable. If you want to change a garden scene, moving pots of blooms about will do the trick.

The most popular flowers for such use are, deservedly, geraniums and petunias. The two thrive under pot culture and bloom profusely in gay colors for as long a period as any annual flower.

Depending on the size of pot that is in scale with the size of your garden, you can put in a pot as few as 3 plants of petunias or a single geranium. The bigger the pot, the more plants in it, the greater the garden effect.

When planting in pots be sure the soil is well provided with organic matter and fertilized. Plants are set close together in a pot, closer than would be the case in the ground, because a mass of color is desired. Without adequate soil preparation, they simply cannot get sufficient nourishment.

It goes without saying that watering must be regular and thorough for pots have comparatively large surfaces exposed to drying sun.

The point often missed is that the pot must have adequate drainage so that the soil never becomes water-logged. If it has a hole in the bottom, cover that with a flat stone or a piece of broken flower pot so that the soil is held back while the water seeps out.

Lacking a drainage hole, several inches depth of drainage materials must be used at the bottom of the pot. Gravel or broken flower pot are both excellent materials.

Because the soil used over them has been enriched as suggested above, there should be no need to add fertilizer until mid-summer. At that time the plants in the pot probably will show by their growth that they are coming to the end of the nourishment in the soil.

Add fertilizer sparingly, rather too little than too much, remembering always the limited amount of soil in the limited area of the pot.

Geraniums and petunias are not, of course, the only plants for use in pots, though they certainly are the showiest. Other annuals for this use include dwarf and medium height marigolds, ageratum (good for edging taller kinds), lantanas, verbenas, lobelias and dwarf nasturtiums.

Because the eventual heights and widths of the plants named vary, the planting distances will too. Just remember that it's an effect of massed color that makes a pot a picture.

ANCIENT HAIRDO took a lot of hair and a lot of doing. This Minoan style goes back about 2,000 years or more. It was seen at a recent international conference of hair stylists held in Athens, Greece.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election

To be held on Tuesday, the Sixth day of August, 1968

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1
(Submitted by the 74th General Assembly)

If governor disagrees, supreme court decides issue.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 11 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to the office of governor and office of Lieutenant governor, respectively, and adopting three new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1968, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 11, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and three new sections adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as sections 11(a), 11(b), 11(c), to read as follows:

Section 11(a). If the governor-elect dies before taking office, the lieutenant governor-elect shall take the term of the governor-elect. On the death, conviction or impeachment, or resignation of the governor, the lieutenant governor shall become governor for the remainder of the term. If there be no lieutenant governor the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession shall become governor. On the failure to qualify, absence from the state or other disability of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the governor shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the remainder of the term or until the disability is removed. If there be no lieutenant governor, or for any of said causes the lieutenant governor is incapable of acting, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, and the attorney general in succession shall act as governor until the disability is removed.

Section 11(b). Whenever the governor transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, such powers and duties shall be discharged by the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, by the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, or the attorney general in succession, as acting governor. Whenever a majority of a disability board comprised of the lieutenant governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, the attorney general, president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, the majority floor leader of the senate, and majority floor leader of the house, transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession, shall immediately assume the powers and duties of the office as acting governor. Thereafter when the governor transmits to the disability board his written declaration that no inability exists, he shall resume the powers and duties of his office on the fourth day after he transmits such declaration unless a majority of the disability board transmits their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office to the supreme court within that four day period, and the supreme court shall then convene to decide the issue. If the supreme court within twenty-one days after receipt of such declaration, determines by a majority vote of all members thereof that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the acting governor shall continue to discharge the same as acting governor; otherwise, the governor shall resume the powers and duties of his office.

Section 11(c). If any state officer other than the lieutenant governor is acting as governor, his regular elective office shall not be deemed vacant and all duties of that office shall be performed by his chief administrative assistant.

Ann Landers

Dog Needed to Heal Grief

Dear Ann Landers: Our dog Rags was a faithful family friend for nearly 14 years. Since Christmas Rags had been moving so slowly it was painful for me to watch him. His eyesight was nearly gone and he kept bumping into things.

I mentioned to my husband that perhaps it would be best if we had the vet put Rags to sleep. My husband blew his top -- said it would be like murdering a friend. I never mentioned it again.

Friday evening I let Rags out for a few minutes and the next thing I knew he was involved in a three - dog fight. I ran out immediately. Rags was not hurt but he was breathing hard. Ten minutes later I saw him lying under the table very still. I knew at once he was dead.

I drove Rags to the vet although I was sure it was too late. The vet said he had died of a heart attack.

When my husband came home I told him the bad news immediately. He flew into a rage -- said I had killed his dog because of my stupidity -- that I had let him get into the fight. He phoned relatives and told them I was an idiot and a murderer. (My sister hung up on him.)

Three days have passed and he still refuses to speak to me. Please tell me what to do about this awful situation. -- NOT GUILTY

Dear Not: There's no point trying to talk sense to a man who is not rational, so stop trying. Eventually your husband will recover from his grief and settle down. Perhaps if you bought him another dog it would help. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have yet to read a kind word in your column about a mother - in - law. If one is to be said it will have to come from a reader because you are clearly against them.

Your portrayal of the typical mother - in - law is unfair. You see her as a horned creature who clings desperately to her son (or daughter) -- a domineering shrew who makes trouble, spoils the grandchildren and insists on being included in vacations.

My mother - in -law is the kindest, wisest, most considerate woman in the world. She keeps her life filled with interesting things and we consider ourselves lucky when we can get her company. Our children adore her and value her opinions. Our friends often include her when they send us an invitation, but she rarely accepts.

I recall vividly when my husband and I were newlyweds (18 years ago) and we became involved in an agrument. My husband turned to his mother and said, "What is your opinion?" She thought a moment and replied, "My opinion is worthless. This is between you and your wife. The only opinions that count are yours."

I am asking you to print this letter because I'm sure there must be other wonderful mothers - in - law who do not fit the image your column portrays. They deserve a good word. LOVE MY MOTHER - IN - LAW

Dear Love: Here's your letter, and with it I'm blowing a kiss to that great lady. I know there are such mothers - in - law in the world, because I have one, too.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Forty - five years of service as a church for the people of St. Francis Xavier parish came to an end here Monday morning when the last mass was said in the frame building behind the newly erected edifice at Front and Stoddard streets.

As the northbound Frisco passenger train No. 806, the Memphian, pulled out of the station here at 2:41 a.m. Friday, gathering speed as it crossed the Missouri Pacific tracks, the locomotive's headlight spotted for the engine crew the mangled remains of Cecil Raymond Stephenson, about 24, lying between the tracks by the Scott County Milling Co.

A detachment of 16 soldiers from Scott Field, Ill., headed by Sgt. Ray Miller, participated in the funeral services Friday afternoon of Alney "Jack" Tanner, Sikeston private, killed in a plane crash near the field Wednesday morning.

If You Were the Judge

Mild Infraction of Speed Law Accepted

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Mr. Staunch was so law abiding he'd practically break into a sprint every time he saw a "No Loitering" sign. Despite the halo around his head, however, he was arrested for speeding while driving along a deserted highway one hot and dry day.

When the facts unfolded in court, it seemed that he had been highballing along at one mile above the speed limit when he was flagged down by a motorcycle cop for doing 36 mph in a 35 mph zone.

"I thought he was kidding at first," Mr. Staunch told the judge, "but then I discovered it was pure meanness. Any cop who would give a motorist a ticket for going one measly mile over the speed limit must have been raised on rock candy, brick ice cream and marble cake. Surely, a person can't be convicted of speeding for going one mile over the limit?"

"That's the law," retorted the arresting officer in his own defense. "My job is to do or die and not to question why. Since the speed limit was 35 mph and he did 36 mph, he broke the law and he's guilty. That's all there is to it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Mr. Staunch of breaking the law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that considering that the road was dry and no other vehicles were in the area, Mr. Staunch's speed of 36 mph in a 35 mph zone was not so unreasonable as to warrant his conviction.

(Based upon a 1963 Ohio Supreme Court Decision)

Lankford Quits As Road Commissioner

CHAFFEE -- Les D. Lankford has submitted his resignation to the Scott county court as commissioner for the Chaffee special road district, effective July 15.

When asked his reason for resigning at this time, only three days prior to the special road district election, Lankford stated that as a commissioner for the road district he could not conscientiously express his sentiments in regard to the special road district.

Lankford maintains that the special road district should be abolished and returned to the county. It is his opinion that since the county court retains 20 per cent of all the tax money collected for the road district, which amounts to about $3,400.00 and keeps all the gas tax money which approximately is $7,500.00, the road district does not have enough money to operate successfully and should be returned to the county. The citizens who life in the Chaffee special road district are paying one - fourth of one cent per gallon on gas purchased and are deriving no benefits whatsoever. With this added revenue, which really belongs to the Special Road District but is retained by the county, as provided by the laws of Missouri, the county road district is in good financial condition with 13 employes and adequate equipment which includes one bulldozer, one low - boy, two tractors, one weed and brush catter and two loaders, the county highway department is able to maintain the roads and build and repair bridges as they should.

He further stated that the former commissioners, John Gosche, Troy Montgomery and Wilburn Garner who administered the road district for a period of four years had done the best job possible with the money received for the district. After serving four years these men resigned and later two signed a petition to return the district to the Scott County highway department.

At present the Chaffee special road district has outstanding warrants amounting to $9,000.00 plus 6 per cent interest, & owes $4,500.00 plus 6 per cent interest to the Fabic Co. Sikeston, Mo. If the road district is returned to the county, the county court will assume all outstanding debts and in return will receive the equipment belonging to the Chaffee special road district.

He also maintains that previous to the Chaffee special road district, the county highway department had always cooperated with the city administration and the citizens of Chaffee, such as using county equipment and employees to bulldoze and level the cemetery at a minimum cost to the city, grade, gravel and black - top certain limits and after the tornado in 1957 the entire county highway department, with heavy equipment and trucks, arrived early the following morning and continued working until the debris was cleared away - at no cost to the city.

Highlights and Sidelights from Our State Capitol

NEW PATROL ACADEMY READY IN TWO YEARS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.--The training of Missouri law enforcement officials is about to get a strong boost in the form of a new Highway Patrol Academy at Jefferson City.

Plans for the new building are now on the architect's boards, and construction is expected to begin late this year with the completion date set for about 18 months later.

The Patrol has outgrown its present Academy building at Rolla and is operating at full capacity. The Patrol took over the old hospital building in 1957, Major J.A. Berglund, of the general office, explains, and it "was not designed for our purposes."

Three types of training programs are now being carried on at the Academy. The Basic Recruit Training Program for new members of the Patrol is a 14-week program. In addition, special courses for Highway Patrolmen already in service are offered periodically on several subjects.

"This is where we are really suffering," Captain Walter Snyder Jr., training supervisor, says. "We would like to have additional training for patrolmen at least every three years, but we are too crowded."

The Academy also opens its doors to municipal policemen and officers from sheriff's departments throughout the state for two week training sessions.

"This barely scratches the surface," Berglund says, "We hope to lengthen them."

Furthermore, the police school has a waiting list of over 50. The present academy has room for only 60 trainees. Two classes of 40 new recruits usually are conducted yearly. This leaves room for only 20 non-Patrol law enforcement officials.

The new building will accommodate twice as many trainees, enabling the Academy to handle three classes of 40 trainees each at the same time.

In addition to more classroom and living space, the new Academy will have more and better training facilities. In the present building, for example, the criminology laboratory consists of limited photographic equipment, six or seven breathalizers and a portable polygraph (lie detector), all crammed into a room no larger than a small bedroom. A breathalizer, for measuring intoxication, requires as much room as a desk.

Tentative plans for the new building include a gymnasium for physical and self-defense training. Classes are now forced outside for these activities, sometimes in bitter cold. The library in the new building will be expanded and made more usable, and administrative space will be increased. In addition, larger photographic facilities and an indoor firearm range are in the lans.

The new facilities, of course, do not include everything the Patrol would like to have. One ommission, Snyder says, is a driving track for training in pursuit driving. The Academy is now using a stretch of old highway near Rolla for practice in chasing cars at high speeds. Only a few states now have such facilities.

The reason for the shift in location from Rolla to Jefferson City is mainly one of convenience. At the present time, from 10 to 15 officers commute from the capital to Rolla to teach classes. Jefferson City, of course, is convenient because of its proximity to the geographic center of the state.

An additional benefit of the Jefferson City location is the proximity to the criminology laboratory at the central headquarters. The lab contains ballistics wells into which a bullet can be fired and retrieved for comparison with a slug from a body or the scene of a crime; a completechemistry lab for analyzing various materials such as drugs, human blood and paint; breathalizers; lie detectors; a spectograph for examinations of drugs and toxicants, metals, paint, glass, hair, etc; a gas chromatograph, which can identify substances by smell.

Trainees will be able to familiarize themselves with this equipment and learn what the lab can do and what they need to do in bringing evidence to the lab.

For example, the gas chromatograph, if given charred material from the starting point of a fire, can detect what was used to start the fire, even to the point of identifying what brand of gasoline was used.

FISCAL YEAR STATEMENT SHOWS $338 MILLION BALANCE

As the 1967-68 fiscal year came to a close June 30, the State Treasurer's Office reported a balance of about $338 million for state funds, including a $170.3 million balance for the State Revenue Fund.

Of the 80 funds reported, only 13 shoed a zero balance. The 13 included funds for most state mental health institutions and state hospitals, the Inter-Agency Council, the World Fair Commission and the St. Louis Training School. The State Revenue Fund was followed in balance volume by the State Road Fund ($94.5 million), the State Schools Moneys Fund ($19.2 million), the State Highway Department Fund ($15 million) and the Welfare Administration Fund ($13.2 million). Seven other state funds showed balances above $1 million.

State Law Giving Extra Penalties for Gun Crimes Noted

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Circuit Atty. James S. Corcoran of St. Louis, noting a gubernatorial candidate's call for additional penalties on those who commit crimes with guns, says Missouri already has a law to this effect.

Corcoran said a law enacted 40 years ago provides for two additional years imprisonment for a first offense, 10 years for a second, 15 years for a third and life imprisonment for a fourth.

Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos of St. Louis County, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Missouri, called this week for an additional five-year sentence to be imposed on persons convicted of crimes involving the use of guns.

Roos proposed that the additional portion of the sentence not be subject to review or reduction through normal parole and probation procedures.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Pride goes before destruction, and the haughty spirit before a fall. (Proverbs 16:18, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, we humbly beseech Thee to take from us pride of position, race, religion, and any other sinful self-centeredness, that keep us from being Thy sons. Replace them with true humility, long-suffering, and a forgiving, spiritual brotherly love. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Kewanee Methodist Fish Fry Friday

KEWANEE - The ninth annual fish fry given by the United Methodist church will be Friday at the Ott Burnett grove two and a half miles south of the Canalou - Matthews junction on route E.

TRIUMPH and TRAGEDY: The Story of the KENNEDYS
NEW BOOK TO TELL STORY OF THE AMAZING KENNEDYS

The Kennedys have had it all.

From hunger in Ireland to realization, three generations later, of the American Dream. Wealth. Position. Power.

And they have seen the dream become nightmare.

The violence done them by fate is cruel enough. But the violence done them by the dark side of the human mind has appalled the nation and the world.

The story of this American family, what has been given it and what has been taken from it, is as fantastic as it is frightening.

Once before The Associated Press has chronicled a shocking tragedy of this afflicted family in "The Torch Is Passed", one of the largest selling books of all time, and the classic account of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Now, in a time of national shock and sympathy, the AP is producing another book on this fated family.

It is called "Triumph and Tragedy: The Story of the Kennedys." Many of those who wrote "The Torch Is Passed" are at work on the new project. It will be a hardbound book fully illustrated in color and black and white, a fitting memoir of one of the most shocking personal and public tragedies of American history.

To reserve your copy, send only $3 now to "Triumph and Tragedy" in care of this newspaper. The book will be mailed you just as soon as it is available.

Hearnes, Drumm Aid Phi Delts

COLUMBIA, MO. -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the centennial celebration of the Missouri University chapter of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The fraternity will celebrate its 100th anniversary at the university in 1970.

Elliott E. Farmer, Jefferson City, and George C. Miller, Columbia, are the general chairmen, which is using as a project the raising of funds for scholarships from alumni of the chapter for the Fidelity Educational Foundation.

Phi Delta Theta is the oldest fraternity at the University, and was the first chapter of any college fraternity to be founded west of the Mississippi river.

Farmer and Miller explained that the state-wide alumni is being organized by areas, and eventually plan to have a 200 man group to do the solicitation. Concentrated areas of alumni outside Missouri will also be organized, they said.

The Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Charleston area is being directed by Manuel Drumm of Sikeston.

Miller explained that the Fidelity Educational Foundation was started by the late Byron C. Spencer of Kansas City, and is the organization which lent the money to the chapter to build the new fraternity house at the university.

Better Tasting Catfish Goal of Research

COLUMBIA -- Can the flavor of Missouri or Mississippi River fish be improved by relocating them in clear water streams for a few days or weeks?

The answer, hopefully, will be supplied by studies in palatability of fish to be conducted at the University of Missouri - Columbia.

As in previous campus studies on palatibility, the fish will be supplied by the Missouri Conservation Department. It has provided a grant of $6,750 for the continued studies.

Connoisseurs, and some less well informed, complain of a lack of flavor, even of a "muddy" taste, in fish taken from the silt - laden rivers. Some even claim Mississippi River fish, particularly those taken well above St. Louis, have a superior flavor to Missouri River fish.

If the theory of conservationists holds, fish caught in either of the streams might have improved flavor if they are transported to clear water streams, or held in fresh - water traps, for certain periods. In effect, the fish would be put in feed lots, even as livestock is fattened before marketing.

Similar studies at MC on such factors as environment, seasonal variations and different cooking methods with fish led into the new project. Earlier tests showed the flower is not consistent over the full length of the fish. A trained taste panel detected difference as to environement.

As a result, the Conservation Commission will supply the fish and studies on the campus will be directed by Mrs. Berniece Korschen, department of food science and nutrition, to determine if flavor can be improved.

Street Paving Controversy Enlivens Council Meeting

DEXTER -- A controversy developed between the opponents of a more organized plan of street paving for the city and Mayor Willis Conner at a meeting of the city council.

Ward Two Alderman Lehman Godwin suggested to the Council that "some thought be given to a street paving plan whereby certain areas would be paved at designated times and eliminate the block by block haphazard way in which the paving is now done."

He said that "the decision of which streets are to be paved is under the jurisdiction of the city council and the council should exercise this right by planning paving projects for the betterment of everyone concerned."

He also voiced the opinion that "most residents are not against paying their part of the paving but that they would like the best street they can get for their money and added that some inquiries have been made as to widening of certain streests in Ward Two."

Mayor Willis Conner pointed out that "the reason for not planning ahead and outlining certain paving projects is the lack of city funds with which to spend for paving."

He commented that to widen most any city street would require new road beds and extensive cost, which the city cannot bear at this time, the mayor said.

Ward Three Alderman James Williams spoke out in favor of the city planning ahead and designatin which areas should be paved as a project for a particular year. He added that the city should do the planning and forget about petitions for or against certain blocks being paved.

Williams added that if funds were available for the project that paving plans would of course, have to be altered, but a plan, selected by the city, should be put into effect.

The mayor pointed out to the group that the paving scheduled for the next few weeks - on Funnetta Street, One Mile Road and Bain Street - was all requested by petition and was in his opinion "the voice of the people."

The council, in a meeting several months ago, had announced that paving this summer would be done by the request of petitions.

Other paving projects in which the city is involved this summer has included One Mile Road from Highway 114 to Highway 60 and the city will also be spending some of the gasoline tax money earmarked for paving on the Fram factory project.

A city license was granted to Hearn's Tobacco Store, and payment was authorized to Eddie McMullin for work on the Fram project. Due to the absence of City Attorney Paul McGhee, several items were tabled until the next meeting.

At a previous meeting Alderman James Gunn, Ward Three, had requested more information on a speed zone on Highway 114 at the site of the new swimming pool. Mayor Willis Conner informed the Council that a Highway Department representative would attend the next Council meeting, August 5, and outline to the city a "model traffic ordinance."

Discussion of stop or yield signs at various points was tabled, with a decision to be made at the next meeting.

grave relief.

On Vietnam, Robison said, the U. S. should pull out and admit its mistake. Setting a good example will do more to influence other nations than trying to correct a mistake by perpetuating it, he related.

Robison served in the navy on submarines in the Korean Conflict. He was named outstanding Jaycee in Cape Girardeau in 1962, and helped organize the Toastmasters Club in Cape Girardeau. He is a former chairman of the Cape County Young Democrats, Boy Scout neighborhood commissioner and is a member of the Elks lodge in Cape.

MORRIS

Bill Morris said today he expects to carry Kansas City and will run well in St. Louis against his chief rival Edward Dowd, St. Louis, in the city and county of St. Louis.

Morris said he believes he is the front runner in outstate Missouri.

"I've agreed to spend full time as lieutenant governor, if elected, and would take on any responsibilities requested by the governor, Morris said.

In view of his business experience as vice president of a large Kansas City bank where he served 12 years in the trust department, Morris said, "I feel I could be helpful in bringing new and desireable industry to the state."

Desireable industry would be any industry that employs persons and pays at least a minimum wage, he said.

The picture of outstate Missouri's untapped labor market presents a need for additional industry in all parts of the state, he said.

Persons are moving from the rural areas to the city, not because they prefer it, but because they have to move to survive, he said.

As lieutenant governor, Morris said he would not have a legislative program, this is the role for the governor, but there are several areas where he supports a firm opinion.

He suggests that additional aid is needed to support the state's mental health program, and appropriations to education from pre - school through college should be increased.

More vocational education schools are needed. Sikeston is fortunate to have one here, he said. The average high school graduate is not properly equipped to take a job and hold it as well as graduates of vocational education programs, he said.

Morris said he also would like to see the State Highway Patrol academy at Rolla expand to enable all communities to send peace officers for training at the state's expense.

The state's probation and parole system is good, but it also needs expanding, Morris commented.

On gun control, Morris said, "We have all the laws we need. We need to enforce the existing ones." He added that he saw no need for the registration of shotguns and rifles.

Morris said he was sorry to see the toll road legislation declared unconstitutional and hopes to see a constitutional amendment, or new legislation that is constitutional passed to make the toll roads a reality. Missouri is more than 20 years behind the surrounding states in this area, he said.

"On the whole," Morris said, "I think we are on the move in Missouri and have accomplished great strides under Gov. Hearnes."

Three Politicos Campaign In Sikeston Area Today

Three men seeking political offices are actively campaigning in the Sikeston area today.

Bob Robison, Cape Girardeau, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the 10th congressional district representative post, will be in Dexter today after an hour visit to Sikeston this morning.

Vernon Landgraf, Cape Girardeau, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 10th district, will visit here throughout the day.

Bill Morris, Kansas City, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant governor, will visit throughout the day and have a reception between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Sikeston Country Club.

Robison could be a dark horse in the race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Representative. David Rolwing, Charleston, and Bill Burlison, Cape Girardeau, are thought to be the front runners.

Robison, however, ran against incumbent Paul Jones in 1964, and won more than 10,000 votes. He said today he assesses his chances as being as good as anyone in the race despite a limited campaign budget and little advertising exposure.

Born in Parma and reared in Cape Girardeau county, Robison, 35, has a bachelor of science degree in social science and a masters degree in educational administration from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His business background includes serving for two years as office credit manager with the Associated Discount Corp. in Cape Girardeau, where he signed and okayed credit for a half million dollars a month.

Bob Robison

Robison formerly authored a political satire column for the national VFW magazine. He formerly taught the U.S. Constitution, American Democracy and Missouri History from 1961- 62, at the college in Cape.

If elected, Robison would employ the brunt of his staff in the areas of agriculture, business, education and labor and situate them within the 10th District, rather than in Washington, D. C., he said.

The chief problem both in the district and in the country, Robison says, is the present situation existing in agriculture. Farm policy should be changed to allow farmers to produce without any limitations, he said.

The U. S. could be the breadbasket of the world and use the excess production to feed starving countries.

But, he added, a selling job has to accompany the foreign aid and strings should be attached, so that receiving nations will know the U. S. is helping them.

More vocational education also is needed both in the district and throughout the country, he said.

Education is the singlemost factor that needs to be stressed and supported to improve the country as a whole, he commented.

Robison said he is against the present system of welfare, and would like to see the system help disadvantaged persons find employment to be self sufficient. He is against cradle to

His body was recovered at 6:15 p.m. Saturday in 15 feet of water.

The body was taken to the Dean Funeral Home.

Youth Dies Of Stabbing

Irvin William, 15, Sikeston, died early Sunday morning of a knife wound in the chest cavity.

Sikeston Police Chief Arthur Bruce said the youth was stabbed with a pocketknife by a 14-year-old Sikeston girl shortly after midnight Saturday at 203 Felker St. in Sunset Addition.

The identity of the girl is protected by the state juvenile code. She is in custody and has been transferred to Scott county juvenile officers, Chief Bruce said.

The stabbing followed an argument involving two other juvenile boys, chief Bruce said.

Pathologist Dr. Stephen Parks, Sikeston, examined Williams' body and issued the opinion that he could not have lived more than three or four minutes after the stabbing occurred, Coroner Gene Nunnelee said today.

No inquest will be held, Nunnelee said. Nunnelee was called at 12:07 a.m. Sunday and arrived at the scene at about 12:20 a.m. Williams was found lying on his back in the yard at 203 Felker and was pronounced dead there, Nunnelee said.

Police officer Isiah Dunn arrived at the scene shortly after the stabbing occurred, and called police headquarters and the Fred Smith ambulance.

CARUTHERSVILLE--James Monroe Leeks, 46, a farmer, was found dead in his truck, stabbed in chest.

Pemiscot county officers reported they thought they heard a shot, according to the state patrol, and in investigating at 3 a.m. Sunday, found Leeks in his truck, mortally wounded.

Authorities are seeking a 21-year-old Caruthersville man who was reported last seen Saturday at 9 a.m.

Woman Hurt in Cycle Mishap

Sherry Lee Kimble, 21, Sikeston, was driving a 1965 Honda motorcycle, when she lost control on wet pavement after applying the brakes, causing the vehicle to overturn and fall on her at 2:15 p.m. Sunday on the Ingram road, two miles north of Sikeston.

She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for the cuts on her left foot and elbow.

Watson Outlines Severe Postal Service Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) - Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson outlined today a severe cutback in postal services which he said would be required by a forced reduction in personnel.

Watson told the Senate Post Office Committee the cutbacks would include:

The beginning of a reduction to four-day delivery weeks on residential routes.

The closing of 500 third-and fourth-class post offices by the end of August.

Elimination of Saturday residential services.

No extension of delivery service to newly eligible homes or services.

Watson said these cutbacks would be necessary unless congress exempts the Post Office from a government-wide personnel reduction program. The government-wide cut in federal employment was part of a package which included spending cuts and imposition of a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Watson said the program would mean a cut of 83,000 workers from the postal service's work force of 741,000 over a four-year period. Meanwhile, he said, the volume of mail will increase from 84 billion pieces annually to 93 billion.

Long Gun Mail Order Ban Before House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, which has virtually killed President Johnson's hopes for a gun registration law this session, turned today to the proposed ban on mail order sales of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Amendments for licensing of gun owners, another Johnson proposal, also were up for action before a final House vote on gun controls, possibly late in the day.

The bill would add long guns and ammunition to the congressional ban on mail order sales of pistols, which was part of the recently-passed omnibus crime bill. It also would prohibit over-the-counter gun sales to juveniles, and nonresidents except those from adjoining states.

Methodists Vote On Church Site

The outcome of a preferential and unofficial vote taken Sunday to select a site to rebuild the First Methodist Church, which burned March 23, is not expected to be released for at least two weeks, L. M. Standley, chairman of the building committee said today.

The purpose of the preferential vote was to get a better opinion of the congregation, Standley said.

The official vote of the congregation's members, 18 years old and older, will be taken Aug. 11.

The preliminary vote taken yesterday has not been tallied and probably will not be available until after the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, returns from vacation Aug. 4, Standley said.

About 600 members voted for one of three sites following a 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Sikeston high school cafetorium.

Sites presented by the building committee were:

Rebuild the church on its present site at North New Madrid and Harris streets;

Place it on a seven - acre site at the north end of the North Y on Highway 61.

Place it on a 20-acre plot east of highway 61 north and north of the Trinity Baptist church.

A general discussion was held on the three sites before the vote was taken.

The preferential vote will be studied by the building committee, which will report it to the congregation later.

Any member not present at the meeting yesterday may mail his preferential vote to the church office.

Cong Launches New Wave of Terrorism

SAIGON (AP) — A new wave of Viet Cong terrorism hit Saigon and two provincial capitals Sunday, killing 13 Vietnamese and wounding 92.

Intelligence sources have said terrorist attacks might precede the threatened third major enemy offensive of the year, but the lull in the ground war still continued.

Twelve Vietnamese were killed and 91 wounded in the weekend bombing of four theaters, one of them only a block from national police headquarters in Saigon. A large explosive charge set off outside the Saigon theater killed four persons and wounded 52. Also in Saigon, a minor official was assassinated and a 17-year-old boy seriously wounded.

A hand grenade was thrown into a group of militiamen watching a traveling troupe perform in Phu Cuong, a provincial capital 15 miles north of Saigon. Four persons were killed and 23 wounded, including two of the performers.

Terrorists set off bombs outside two theaters in Ben Tre, another provincial capital in the Mekong Delta 50 miles southeast of Saigon. Government headquarters said four persons were killed and 16 wounded.

Vietnamese informants say at least 1,000 Viet Cong troops have infiltrated the capital city in preparation for the third major offensive of the year expected within the next two months.

Allied defenses around Saigon were promised more reinforcements today with the arrival of the first contingent of a new infantry division from Thailand. Some 1,500 troops of Thailand's 12,000-man Black Panther Division arrived at the U.S. Army's Newport port facility just north of the capital.

The Thai division will have a dual mission: to block enemy infiltration into Saigon from the northeast, where elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division are said to be based, and to smash Viet Cong guerrilla bands in Bien Hoa province, east of the capital, easing the threat of enemy harassment against allied military installations there.

Along the northern frontier, an outnumbered U.S. Marine force hurled back a North Vietnamese battalion near Khe Sanh Sunday. The enemy opened up with mortars before launching a ground probe at dusk, U.S. headquarters said. While Marine artillery pounded the North Vietnamese, the defending Marines unleashed heavy automatic weapons fire.

When the fighting died down two hours later, the Leathernecks counted 12 enemy bodies outside their positions and reported 10 of their own men wounded.

East of Khe Sanh near Con Thien, Marine fighter pilots and artillery wiped out most of a 30man North Vietnamese unit that was spotted moving in an open area. The U.S. Command reported 22 North Vietnamese bodies were found.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 10 Viet Cong and capturing 21 others during sweep through the Mekong Delta, 70 miles southwest of Saigon. Government losses were put at three dead and seven wounded. The South Vietnamese uncovered a sizeable weapons cache that included 30 bazooka-type rockets, 50 mortar rounds, 70 blocks of TNT, 3,000 pounds of rifle ammunition and 25 rounds of 7mm recoilless rifle ammunition.

Springer spaniel dogs derived their name from their ability to "spring" game for hunters.

Soviets Turn Down Czech Rebuttal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party today rejected th defense by Czechoslovak party leaders of their liberal course and demanded again that the leaders in Prague come to the Soviet Union for a showdown meeting today or Tuesday.

Reports from Prague indicated the demand for a meeting on Soviet soil would be rejected. The Czechoslovak leaders were reported willing to meet their Soviet critics, but only on their own territory.

Pravda rejected the Prague leadership's denial last week of charges made against it by the Warsaw meeting of the Soviet Union and its four hard-line allies-East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary.

The Soviet party paper accused the Czechoslovak leaders of playing down the threat to the Communist system in Czechoslovakia. It warned that the Soviet Union regards the defense of communism everywhere in the East Bloc as its business.

Echoing the charges of the Warsaw meeting, Pravda said the "right-wing, anti-Socialist forces in Czechoslovakia, encouraged and supported by imperialist reaction, are bringing matters to a liquidation of the guiding role of the Communist party in society, to undermining the Socialist state and system, to the restoration of the capitalist order. They have captured the mass media—the press, radio and television—and are using them for anti-Socialist propaganda trying to fan hatred for the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries."

Czechs on Prague's streets agreed that Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek should not go to Russia to meet the Soviet party leaders.

"Dubcek shouldn't give in," said a girl student. "We're with him all the way. If they want something, let them come here."

The reply to the Russian invitation was believed being delayed until all the 16,000 Russian soldiers who took part in Warsaw Pact maneuvers that ended June 30 have left the country.

By Sunday, the day they were officially scheduled to leave, most of the Russians were reported in Eastern Slovakia, presumably en route home. It appeared that all of them could not be out of the country before Wednesday, even if there were no more delays.

Czechoslovak Interior Minister Josef Pavel denied reports published in Soviet and Bulgarian newspapers of new arms caches found in Czechoslovakia near the Polish border. He said in a statement broadcast by Prague radio that there was general belief a cache discovered earlier near the West German border was put there by someone trying to embarrass the new leadership.

Many Czechoelovaks believe the arms, found near a Soviet troop camp, were planted by the Russians. Pravda reported the discovery before Czechoslovak officials announced it.

The meeting was previously scheduled for tomorrow night.

McKeithen Says Wallace May Send Election to House

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen said today third party candidate George C. Wallace is the presidential favorite in at least six states now—"certainly enough to throw the election into the House of Representatives" if the Republicans and Democrats run a close race.

McKeithen said he supports Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic nomination and for the White House. But he spoke no ill of Wallace, saying his praise for Humphrey is "about as much as you'd expect from a governor from the Deep South who's not too far from Alabama."

He told a news conference that at this point, Wallace "is the high man in our state.

"It's possible for Vice President Humphrey to overtake him," said McKeithen, here for the 60th National Governors' Conference.

McKeithen said he believes that two major parties will reach an agreement on how to proceed should their candidates be denied a majority of the electoral college in the election. If that happened, the choice of a president would be made by the House of Representatives with each state casting one vote. Congress members of both parties have proposed an agreement to support th candidate who obtains a plurality, regardless of party.

McKeithen said Wallace now is the presidential leader in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, is potent in the border states, and has support outside the South, too.

McKeithen said one Western governor, whom he would not identify, told him Wallace could carry his state.

Two New England governors disclosed that they had advised Humphrey he needs some dramatic political initiative to fuel his White House campaign, and one of them said he had suggested it be Humphrey's resignation as vice president.

Gov. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont said he suggested resignation to Humphrey as a declaration of political independence from President Johnson and the administration. He said he told Humphrey his major campaign problem is that "you can't be your own man" while serving as vice president.

But he said Humphrey replied he could not resign the job to which he was elected.

Hoff and Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine, both former supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination, met secretly with the vice president in Washington one week ago.

They told of that meeting in interviews at a national governors conference marked by talk of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as a potent choice for second spot on a ticket headed by Humphrey.

Curtis, who did not join in Hoff's suggestion that Humphrey resign, said Kennedy's nomination for vice president might provide the drama and appeal he believes the Humphrey campaign now needs.

While Hoff and Curtis talked critically of the Humphrey campaign, they did not translate this into any hint of support for the vice president's chief rival, Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Hoff said he is uncommitted, added: "I have been stewing because I love Hubert Humphrey." Curtis said he leans toward support of Humphrey for the nomination.

They said Humphrey's nomination is not inevitable, but both expressed reservations about McCarthy.

"Perhaps, I've been around politics just too long to be too idealistic," Curtis said, "because I think it's going to take more than just an expression of ideals that Sen. McCarthy has to run the country."

"There is a certain remoteness about him," Hoff said of McCarthy, "and I guess I would call it a lack of leadership."

Youth Dies Of Stabbing

Irvin William, 15, Sikeston, died early Sunday morning of a knife wound in the chest cavity.

Sikeston Police Chief Arthur Bruce said the youth was stabbed with a pocketknife by a 14-year-old Sikeston girl shortly after midnight Saturday at 203 Felker St. in Sunset Addition.

The identity of the girl is protected by the state juvenile code. She is in custody and has been transferred to Scott county juvenile officers, Chief Bruce said.

The stabbing followed an argument involving two other juvenile boys, chief Bruce said.

Pathologist Dr. Stephen Parks, Sikeston, examined Williams' body and issued the opinion that he could not have lived more than three or four minutes after the stabbing occurred, Coroner Gene Nunnelee said today.

No inquest will be held, Nunnelee said. Nunnelee was called at 12:07 a.m. Sunday and arrived at the scene at about 12:20 a.m. Williams was found lying on his back in the yard at 203 Felker and was pronounced dead there, Nunnelee said.

Police officer Isiah Dunn arrived at the scene shortly after the stabbing occurred, and called police headquarters and the Fred Smith ambulance.

Authorities are seeking a 21-year-old Caruthersville man who was reported last seen Saturday at 9 a.m.

Woman Hurt in Cycle Mishap

Sherry Lee Kimble, 21, Sikeston, was driving a 1965 Honda motorcycle, when she lost control on wet pavement after applying the brakes, causing the vehicle to overturn and fall on her at 2:15 p.m. Sunday on the Ingram road, two miles north of Sikeston.

She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she was treated for the cuts on her left foot and elbow.

Watson Outlines Severe Postal Service Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) - Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson outlined today a severe cutback in postal services which he said would be required by a forced reduction in personnel.

Watson told the Senate Post Office Committee the cutbacks would include:

The beginning of a reduction to four-day delivery weeks on residential routes.

The closing of 500 third-and fourth-class post offices by the end of August.

Elimination of Saturday residential services.

No extension of delivery service to newly eligible homes or services.

Watson said these cutbacks would be necessary unless congress exempts the Post Office from a government-wide personnel reduction program. The government-wide cut in federal employment was part of a package which included spending cuts and imposition of a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Watson said the program would mean a cut of 83,000 workers from the postal service's work force of 741,000 over a four-year period. Meanwhile, he said, the volume of mail will increase from 84 billion pieces annually to 93 billion.

Long Gun Mail Order Ban Before House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, which has virtually killed President Johnson's hopes for a gun registration law this session, turned today to the proposed ban on mail order sales of rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

Amendments for licensing of gun owners, another Johnson proposal, also were up for action before a final House vote on gun controls, possibly late in the day.

The bill would add long guns and ammunition to the congressional ban on mail order sales of pistols, which was part of the recently-passed omnibus crime bill. It also would prohibit over-the-counter gun sales to juveniles, and nonresidents except those from adjoining states.

Methodists Vote On Church Site

The outcome of a preferential and unofficial vote taken Sunday to select a site to rebuild the First Methodist Church, which burned March 23, is not expected to be released for at least two weeks, L. M. Standley, chairman of the building committee said today.

The purpose of the preferential vote was to get a better opinion of the congregation, Standley said.

The official vote of the congregation's members, 18 years old and older, will be taken Aug. 11.

The preliminary vote taken yesterday has not been tallied and probably will not be available until after the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor, returns from vacation Aug. 4, Standley said.

About 600 members voted for one of three sites following a 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Sikeston high school cafetorium.

Sites presented by the building committee were:

Rebuild the church on its present site at North New Madrid and Harris streets;

Place it on a seven - acre site at the north end of the North Y on Highway 61.

Place it on a 20-acre plot east of highway 61 north and north of the Trinity Baptist church.

A general discussion was held on the three sites before the vote was taken.

The preferential vote will be studied by the building committee, which will report it to the congregation later.

Any member not present at the meeting yesterday may mail his preferential vote to the church office.

Cong Launches New Wave of Terrorism

SAIGON (AP) — A new wave of Viet Cong terrorism hit Saigon and two provincial capitals Sunday, killing 13 Vietnamese and wounding 92.

Intelligence sources have said terrorist attacks might precede the threatened third major enemy offensive of the year, but the lull in the ground war still continued.

Twelve Vietnamese were killed and 91 wounded in the weekend bombing of four theaters, one of them only a block from national police headquarters in Saigon. A large explosive charge set off outside the Saigon theater killed four persons and wounded 52. Also in Saigon, a minor official was assassinated and a 17-year-old boy seriously wounded.

A hand grenade was thrown into a group of militiamen watching a traveling troupe perform in Phu Cuong, a provincial capital 15 miles north of Saigon. Four persons were killed and 23 wounded, including two of the performers.

Terrorists set off bombs outside two theaters in Ben Tre, another provincial capital in the Mekong Delta 50 miles southeast of Saigon. Government headquarters said four persons were killed and 16 wounded.

Vietnamese informants say at least 1,000 Viet Cong troops have infiltrated the capital city in preparation for the third major offensive of the year expected within the next two months.

Allied defenses around Saigon were promised more reinforcements today with the arrival of the first contingent of a new infantry division from Thailand. Some 1,500 troops of Thailand's 12,000-man Black Panther Division arrived at the U.S. Army's Newport port facility just north of the capital.

The Thai division will have a dual mission: to block enemy infiltration into Saigon from the northeast, where elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division are said to be based, and to smash Viet Cong guerrilla bands in Bien Hoa province, east of the capital, easing the threat of enemy harassment against allied military installations there.

Along the northern frontier, an outnumbered U.S. Marine force hurled back a North Vietnamese battalion near Khe Sanh Sunday. The enemy opened up with mortars before launching a ground probe at dusk, U.S. headquarters said. While Marine artillery pounded the North Vietnamese, the defending Marines unleashed heavy automatic weapons fire.

When the fighting died down two hours later, the Leathernecks counted 12 enemy bodies outside their positions and reported 10 of their own men wounded.

East of Khe Sanh near Con Thien, Marine fighter pilots and artillery wiped out most of a 30man North Vietnamese unit that was spotted moving in an open area. The U.S. Command reported 22 North Vietnamese bodies were found.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 10 Viet Cong and capturing 21 others during sweep through the Mekong Delta, 70 miles southwest of Saigon. Government losses were put at three dead and seven wounded.

The South Vietnamese uncovered a sizeable weapons cache that included 30 bazooka-type rockets, 50 mortar rounds, 70 blocks of TNT, 3,000 pounds of rifle ammunition and 25 rounds of 7mm recoilless rifle ammunition.

Springer spaniel dogs derived their name from their ability to "spring" game for hunters.

Soviets Turn Down Czech Rebuttal

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party today rejected th defense by Czechoslovak party leaders of their liberal course and demanded again that the leaders in Prague come to the Soviet Union for a showdown meeting today or Tuesday.

Reports from Prague indicated the demand for a meeting on Soviet soil would be rejected. The Czechoslovak leaders were reported willing to meet their Soviet critics, but only on their own territory.

Pravda rejected the Prague leadership's denial last week of charges made against it by the Warsaw meeting of the Soviet Union and its four hard-line allies-East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria and Hungary.

The Soviet party paper accused the Czechoslovak leaders of playing down the threat to the Communist system in Czechoslovakia. It warned that the Soviet Union regards the defense of communism everywhere in the East Bloc as its business.

Echoing the charges of the Warsaw meeting, Pravda said the "right-wing, anti-Socialist forces in Czechoslovakia, encouraged and supported by imperialist reaction, are bringing matters to a liquidation of the guiding role of the Communist party in society, to undermining the Socialist state and system, to the restoration of the capitalist order. They have captured the mass media—the press, radio and television—and are using them for anti-Socialist propaganda trying to fan hatred for the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries."

Czechs on Prague's streets agreed that Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek should not go to Russia to meet the Soviet party leaders.

"Dubcek shouldn't give in," said a girl student. "We're with him all the way. If they want something, let them come here."

The reply to the Russian invitation was believed being delayed until all the 16,000 Russian soldiers who took part in Warsaw Pact maneuvers that ended June 30 have left the country.

By Sunday, the day they were officially scheduled to leave, most of the Russians were reported in Eastern Slovakia, presumably en route home. It appeared that all of them could not be out of the country before Wednesday, even if there were no more delays.

Czechoslovak Interior Minister Josef Pavel denied reports published in Soviet and Bulgarian newspapers of new arms caches found in Czechoslovakia near the Polish border. He said in a statement broadcast by Prague radio that there was general belief a cache discovered earlier near the West German border was put there by someone trying to embarrass the new leadership.

Many Czechoslovaks believe the arms, found near a Soviet troop camp, were planted by the Russians. Pravda reported the discovery before Czechoslovak officials announced it.

McKeithen Says Wallace May Send Election to House

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen said today third party candidate George C. Wallace is the presidential favorite in at least six states now—"certainly enough to throw the election into the House of Representatives" if the Republicans and Democrats run a close race.

McKeithen said he supports Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democratic nomination and for the White House. But he spoke no ill of Wallace, saying his praise for Humphrey is "about as much as you'd expect from a governor from the Deep South who's not too far from Alabama."

He told a news conference that at this point, Wallace "is the high man in our state.

"It's possible for Vice President Humphrey to overtake him," said McKeithen, here for the 60th National Governors' Conference.

McKeithen said he believes that two major parties will reach an agreement on how to proceed should their candidates be denied a majority of the electoral college in the election. If that happened, the choice of a president would be made by the House of Representatives with each state casting one vote. Congress members of both parties have proposed an agreement to support th candidate who obtains a plurality, regardless of party.

McKeithen said Wallace now is the presidential leader in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, is potent in the border states, and has support outside the South, too.

McKeithen said one Western governor, whom he would not identify, told him Wallace could carry his state.

Two New England governors disclosed that they had advised Humphrey he needs some dramatic political initiative to fuel his White House campaign, and one of them said he had suggested it be Humphrey's resignation as vice president.

Gov. Philip H. Hoff of Vermont said he suggested resignation to Humphrey as a declaration of political independence from President Johnson and the administration. He said he told Humphrey his major campaign problem is that "you can't be your own man" while serving as vice president.

But he said Humphrey replied he could not resign the job to which he was elected.

Hoff and Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine, both former supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination, met secretly with the vice president in Washington one week ago.

They told of that meeting in interviews at a national governors conference marked by talk of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as a potent choice for second spot on a ticket headed by Humphrey.

Curtis, who did not join in Hoff's suggestion that Humphrey resign, said Kennedy's nomination for vice president might provide the drama and appeal he believes the Humphrey campaign now needs.

While Hoff and Curtis talked critically of the Humphrey campaign, they did not translate this into any hint of support for the vice president's chief rival, Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Hoff said he is uncommitted, added: "I have been stewing because I love Hubert Humphrey." Curtis said he leans toward support of Humphrey for the nomination.

They said Humphrey's nomination is not inevitable, but both expressed reservations about McCarthy.

"Perhaps, I've been around politics just too long to be too idealistic," Curtis said, "because I think it's going to take more than just an expression of ideals that Sen. McCarthy has to run the country."

"There is a certain remoteness about him," Hoff said of McCarthy, "and I guess I would call it a lack of leadership."

WOULD HE DO BETTER IF SENT TO CONGRESS

A study of records in Circuit Court and Magistrate Court shows that Cape County Prosecuting Attorney Bill D. Burlison has made appearance on only eight occasions in the last 11 months.

Practically the entire burden of pursuing the state's interest in cases before the courts has been borne by Mr. Burlison's two assistant prosecuting attorneys, Richard E. Snider and Gerald H. Johnson.

Since last Aug. 1, about the time Mr. Burlison filed for Congress from the 10th District, he has represented the state on only five occasions in Circuit Court and on only three occasions in Magistrate Court.

Records do not state precisely the prosecuting attorney's appearances as legal officer for the County Court, but the minutes mention him on only 10 occasions to indicate his presence.

It is not certain that Mr. Burlison was present in all of those instances, since in come cases mention refers only to filings or orders which did not necessarily require attendance.

The appearances recorded in the Magistrate Court record were on Nov. 20 and Nov. 27, 1967, in the handling of routine matters; May 3, 1968, in a motion to quash.

Instances of appearance recorded in Circuit Court were on these dates: Aug. 2, 1967, three cases; Sept. 18, 1967, call of docket; Feb. 27, 1968, three cases; March 5, 1968, motion; March 19, 1968, three cases.

Since Cape County advanced to second class the prosecuting attorney's office has been reorganized with two assistants instead of one as in previous years.

Mr. Burlison receives $9,600 a year as prosecuting attorney, plus the salaries of two secretaries. One of the latter is paid $365 a month by the county and the other $225 a month.

The prosecuting attorney also is allowed $720 rental allowance annually for himself and $480 rental allowance annually for one of his assistants.

Total remuneration for the prosecuting attorney, including the three salaries and his rental allowance, comes to $17,500 a year.

Mr. Snider, a former prosecuting attorney, is Mr. Burlison's chief assistant, handling cases in Circuit Court. He is paid $6,600 a year and $225 a month for a secretary, plus a rental allowance.

Mr. Johnson, who is assigned to the Magistrate Court, is paid $3,600 by the court. He receives no secretarial allowance.

The county budget also allots these expenses for the prosecuting attorney's office: Supplies and postage, $740; telephone and telegraph, $300; service and repairs, $100; travel, $100; trial expenses, $450; professional meetings, $100; books, binders, $550; new equipment, $50; miscellaneous, $50.

The total Prosecuting Attorney budget for the current year is $33,416.08.

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

(July 22, 1916)

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY DIES

They had a time with him beyond that pearly gate:
They took his measure for a harp, but Riley wouldn't wait.
"I've got my music here," said he,
And he held a pen for all to see.
And while they watched, he wrote a word
He sang a note far sweeter than they'd ever heard;
And then he wrote a line that sounded like a chord.
While Peter ran to talk it over with the Lord.
Don't hear much of Riley any more,
But he's busier than he ever was before,
Playing music while all the host of Heaven sings;
Using words instead of those old - fashioned harps with strings.

—George L. Kress

He was impractical in many small ways - if he traveled alone he was almost certain to take the wrong train or get off at the wrong station; he aspired to be an actor, but never went far in that profession; he became editor of the town paper in Greenfield, Ind., and said "in a few months strangled the little thing into a change of ownership."

A teacher gave up hope of advancing him in mathematics, and advised him to read good literature; he left school at the age of 16 and took up painting, graduating into "house, sign, and ornamental painter," thus for two years traveling with a company of other youths, and they covered all the barns and fences in Indiana with advertisements, calling themselves "the Graphics."

Of his first teacher, he wrote:

"She was a little old woman, rosy and roly - poly, who looked as if she might have come tumbling out of a fairy story, so lovable was she and so jolly and so amiable. She kept school in her little Dame - Trot kind of dwelling of three rooms, with a porch on the rear, like a bracket on the wall, which was part of the playground of her 'scholars,' for in those days pupils were called 'scholars' by their affectionate teachers."

He absorbed about all there was in the McGuffey Readers, but the most important part of his education was his visits to the courthouse with his father, where he became familiar with the manners and speech of Indiana country folk, which showed up consistently in his poems.

Stung by jeers of poetasters who are best forgotten, and to demonstrate his theory that to make a poem successful it was necessary only to prove its author "a genius known to fame," he wrote some verse in the style of Edgar Allan Poe, under the title of "Leonainie." It was published in the Kokomo Dispatch, and the hoax was so successful that the editor was pressed by scholars and book collectors for evidence of the original manuscript.

Throughout his life this incident was a source of embarrassment to him, but it is to be hoped not much embarrassment, for anybody who can gull the experts and critics deserves a few extra diadems.

He's remembered for "The Old Swimmin' Hole," "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," "When the Frost Is On the Pumkin," and dozens of others; he and Bill Nye were platform favorites in a golden era of America; of him, James Russell Lowell, presiding over a conclave of famous writers of the period, said:

"Today, in presenting him (Riley), I can say to you of my own knowledge that you are to have the pleasure of listening to a true poet." This was in the presence of George William Curtis, Mark Twain, George W. Cable, Charles Dudley Warner and Edward Eaggleston.

Commerce Appeal

"Keep the faith" has been used to describe many causes. Some are worthy. Some are not. It also has been weakened by use for trivial causes.

But human values persist and words, however blunted in constant, often ill-advised use, still have meaning.

These thoughts come to mind in reflection of the heroism, the high sense of duty and the valor of the nation's 39th medal of honor winner.

The citation was awarded posthumously to 1st. Lt. George R. Sisler, 30, of Dexter for his brave deeds in combat Feb. 7, 1967. His dedication to the army's Green Berets and to the men in his command was in the finest tradition of the special forces.

Every medal of honor winner, a distinction not taken lightly, has performed "above and beyond the call of duty." Here again is a phrase that has been diminished by trivial or unworthy application but still holds meaning.

In describing Lieutenant Sisler's courageous action deep in Vietnam enemy territory it means that he was not required to do any of the things he did to earn the coveted medal.

He would not have been criticized for failing to act. His military record would have been unblemished by such a failure.

The penetrating force he led was surrounded by a company sized enemy force on three sides.

He charged through heavy enemy fire to rescue two of his wounded men, killing three enemy.

After a new burst of enemy fire, wounding more of his men, Lieutenant Sisler single-handedly charged into the enemy onslaught, firing his weapon and silencing a machine gun with a grenade that he tossed.

This heroic action forced the enemy to withdraw.

It was while moving about the field, directing air strikes against the fleeing force that he fell mortally wounded.

Lieutenant Sisler kept the faith. He knew what he was fighting for. He acted with the utmost bravery and needless of the danger he faced.

The nation is grateful for his life and his courage and it is deeply in his debt.

We are warned by the big steel mogules that the steel imports imperial American economy.

What has become of American know-how when this country could produce more and better of anything for less money than our foreign competitors.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One in every seven Americans will be admitted to a hospital sometime this year.

Canadians seem to be the most talkative people on earth —and we're a close second. The average annual number of phone calls per person in our northern neighbor nation is 664; the number in the United States is 648.

Looking for a bargain buy in a nice neighborhood? A swank East Side Manhattan apartment house is offering a 24-room coop apartment for sale at $750,000. But that's only for the key. You also have to pay maintenance and upkeep costs of $48,000 yearly.

You may not be getting more youthful, but the chances are that you're driving a younger car. The average age of passenger cars has dropped from 5.9 years in 1965 to 5.63 last year. There are now approximately 98 million vehicles using U.S. highways and fighting for parking spaces.

The high price of prosperity: It's getting more expensive to retire. The Institute of Life Insurance estimates the annual cash requirements of a retired couple who want to live in moderate comfort—assuming they probably already own a car, their own home and most major household appliances— varies from $3,200 in a small Southern town to $4,200 in a big metropolitan area. The most costly retirement mecca: Honolulu, $4,400.

Quotable notables: "If you watch a game, it's fun. If you play it, it's recreation. If you work at it, it's golf."—Bob Hope.

Hungry mouths: UNICEF estimates that two-thirds of the world's children—300 million—are undernourished. One reason malnutrition is so dangerous to the very young is that the brain doesn't reach 80 per cent of its full size until the age of 3, and lack of proper nutrition during this critical period can retard its development permanently.

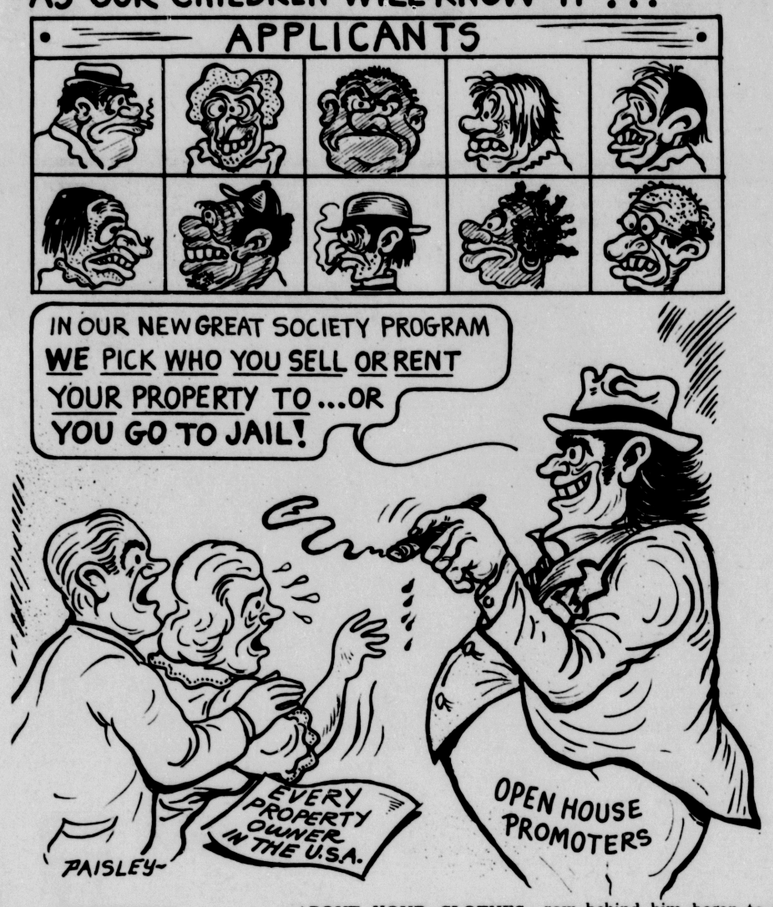

Mottoes for moderns: "Nothing is impossible for the man who doesn't have to do it himself."

Reassuring: Many elderly people dread the prospect of having to undergo cataract surgery. However, all cataracts don't require an operation. A study of 1,000 people over 65 with vision problems found that only 5 per cent needed surgery.

It was Charles Kingsley who observed, "If you wish to be miserable, think about yourself: about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, what people think of you; and then to you nothing will be pure."

ANOTHER HOOVER COMMISSION?

Many years ago, the Hoover Commission saved taxpayers millions of dollars by pinpointing wasteful or unnecessary federal spending. Representative Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has repeatedly expressed alarm over uncontrolled government spending. He now calls for a new Hoover-type Commission to make sweeping reviews of domestic spending programs, old and new. He points out that whenever a new President has been elected" . . . a new program is enacted and added on top of the programs of other Presidents . . . " The result has been soaring costs, as well as duplication and overlapping of manifold federal programs.

On question that Representative Mills believes should be considered by his proposed investigative commission is, "Whether state governments, and private enterprise, should take over some of the chores Washington does . . . " As far as many millions of citizens are concerned, the answer is already plain without the help of a commission. The trend toward centralized government and government in business threatens both economic and political liberty -- and should be reversed now.

U.S. NUCLEAR SUBMARINE POLICY

Testimony by Vice Admiral Hyman Rickover before the House Appropriations subcommittee recently revealed that the Defense Department is following a very dangerous policy with regard to the construction of new nuclear-powered submarines.

Admiral Rickover testified that in less than five years, the Soviet Union could surpass this country in nuclear submarine strength. Yet the Defense Department has refused to authorize the building of any nuclear submarines after 1970.

Rickover stated it would be "highly dangerous to allow the deterioration of our submarine capacity that would result if no submarines are constructed after fiscal yaer 1970," adding "Our survival could well depend upon what we do in this vital area."

Admiral Rickover, director of the Navy's reactor division, says there is little doubt that the Soviet Union is working to expand substantially their submarine program, both in quantity and in quality. He pointed out that the entire Soviet submarine fleet has been built since World War II, while two-thirds of the United States submarines were built during that war and are about 25 years old. He added that the Defense Department has not given the approval needed for the development and testing of a new submarine.

Most military experts are agreed on the vital role that nuclear submarines play in safeguarding this country's security. Admiral Rickover said: "We must produce whatever it takes to counter the Soviet submarine threat." If the United States is to maintain its capacity to resist communist aggression, the officials in the Defense Department should heed this sound advice. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Conspiracy theory exploded in king murder case· FBI finds probable source of Ray's lavish funds was robbery; · CHE Guevara diary is authentic.

WASHINGTON -- It now looks as if the FBI has exploded the generally prevalent theory that the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King involved a conspiracy.

The conspiracy theory has long been held, as a result of the large amounts of money spent by James Earl Ray, the suspected killer, and the manner in which he was able to travel around the United States, Canada, and Europe. It was believed his operations would have been impossible without help from other conspirators who were out to murder King.

For instance, Ray rented a safe deposit box in the Birmingham Trust National Bank, August 30 of last year, and suddenly began passing out crisp $20 bills. He paid $499 for dancing lessons. He also paid $395 for mail - order photographic equipment that he didn't know how to operate.

He shelled out money for a bartending course, though he showed no interest in working behind any bar. He also took a course in lock - picking from a correspondence school in Michigan, which cost about $400.

His white Mustang cost $1,995, which he paid for in cash. He drove it from Mexico to Montreal, from Los Angeles to New Orleans, and always seemed to have enough cash.

Occasionally Ray slipped $20 tips to bar girls and prostitutes.

All told, Ray spent an estimated $10,000 in seven months. Yet during this time he never held a job. After the King murder, the suspect went to Canada and then to England where he also seemed to be in the dough. He had plenty of money to spend on clothes and airplane fare.

So the big question was: Where did he get the money?

For a long time the FBI toyed with the possibility that Ray was financed by a white supremacy ring. He had boasted to fellow prisoners that he intended to make a big "score" on the outside and that he might try to collect a rumored $1 million bounty that a business group supposedly had offered for the death of Dr. King.

SOURCE OF MONEY

Now, however, the FBI has found a robbery where Ray probably got his money. On July 13 the Bank of Alton, in upper Alton, Ill., was robbed of $22,000. Alton is across the Mississippi River from Missouri, and it was from the Missouri State Pentitentiary that Ray escaped on April 23, 1967, three months before the July 13 robbery in Alton.

The holdup was pulled off by two robbers who wore stocking masks. Their faces could not be identified. However, the FBI has been checking very carefully and one of the robbers answers the description of James Earl Ray. He had the same long hair, the same height and the same physical makeup.

At first the FBI was inclined to be skeptical. However, rechecking the Alton Bank robbery has convinced them that Ray was involved and that this was where he got the money on which he lived so extravagantly prior to the King murder.

The idea that a group conspired to murder King and paid Ray to do it has now been dropped.

Note 1: The FBI has also traced a British bank robbery to Ray from which he got more money.

Note 2: Arthur J. Hanes, the American lawyer who turned up in London to defend Ray, has been connected with various other cases involving racial violence. He was the attorney defending the Ku Klux Klansmen in the Viola Liuzzo case, has a flair for publicity and it's believed he went to London on his own. There is no evidence that he is being paid by conspirators.

CHE GUEVARA DIARY

Some authorities have questioned the authenticity of the CHE Guevara diary which he kept before his death in the Bolivian mountains. We can report that the diary is completely authentic.

Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro got hold of it by purchasing bootleg excerpts from Bolivian officials, then piecing the excerpts together. A few pages were missing from the version which he released to friendly publications around the world, including Ramptarts magazine in this country.

Parade Magazine's enterprising editor, Jess Gorkin, organized a consortium of publications which sought to purchase the rights to the diary from the Bolivian Government. Gorkin sent Andrew St. George, a bring - em - back - alive correspondent, to Bolivia to translate the diary and research the story behind it.

Actually, some of the other documents captured with Guevara are much more revealing than his diary. He lugged them around the jungle in a waterproof jungle pack and a portable field safe made of special, high - impact plastic.

The papers included the outline of a book Guevara planned to write on the evolution of man's political thinking, going back to the ancient Greek phosophers; also an original short story entitled, "passing the test," which he wrote in the jungle.

The bloodthirsty Guerrilla leader also packed poetry with him to occupy his leisure moments. His favorite poet apparently was Ruban Dario, although some verses appear to have been written by Guevara himself.

He also rated his Cuban officers in a confidential "rating book," which indicates he may have found the characters for his short story among his own Guerrilla band. In a typical comment on one officer, Comandante Marcos, Che wrote: "He will not perform at the expected level, he is undisciplined anti- study and arbitrary."

A Modern Prophet Israel's Prime Minister Talks of Miracles

By Victor Riesel

Jerusalem: -- From the Mount of Olives one can look down on desecreation. Down the gentle slope sacred tombstones have been ripped from a cemetery laid out by ancient Hebrews whose devout patriarchs believed that from these heights the Messiah would enter Jerusalem nd the dead would be resurrected.

Mockingly, the Jordanian Arabs tore up the gravestones and heaved them crazily in all directions. Some stones were used as the pavings for Arab roads.

Others, marking the resting place of families of antiquity, were hauled off to make foundations and walls for toilets.

And at the Wailing Wall a companion tells me of the days before 1948 when Jewish families here in the old eastern section were beaten as they went for prayers at what remains of the Temple's West Wall. As they prayed stones were hurled at them and garbage deliberately strewn at the base of the towering, tannish bastion of King Solomon's antiquity.

One's heart would have to be made of black basalt rock not to feel a sense of resurrection when, after a few minutes drive across this small and now united city, the visitor sits with the big, good-humored Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol.

He is in his shirt sleeves. And soon a round of tea in a glass appears for everybody. Outside the open window, newly planted trees sway in winds which blew across these seven hills eons before Abraham came up out of Ur.

In the distance is east Jerusalem from where I had just come, after a visit with the leaders of Histadrut, the General Federation of Labor in Israel. It had opened an office there in the House of Qutub on Rashiedin Street.

To this house of Jewish labor now are coming Arabs seeking counseling on problems of marriage, children, as well as of bread and butter, and the payment of debts. The Jewish labor leaders do their best.

They run Hebrew language courses to cut down the communications barrier. They send lecturers into Arab homes for family gatherings, to move these people closer to Western modernism.

They run folk dances for the young Arabs and job training and development of special skills for the very same population which once stoned the Hebrews.

When the labor and industrial officials of Histadrut followed the young, swift-triggered Israeli troops into the eastern Jerusalem area, once seized by Abdullah, the late grandfather of today's "little king," the Israelis found Jordanian Arabs working a 64-hour, 7-day week for $10 to $12.

The Arab worker had no rights, no job security, no welfare, no pensions, no health clinics no sick pay, no holidays, no vacation -- no nothing. Just toil and trouble.

So the Israelis opened their labor headquarters on Rashiedin Street -- and began resurrecting the Arab toiler from his hungry nothingness.

It is from this Ristadrut headquarters in east Jerusalem that I drove to Prime Minister Eshkol's headquarters. As we talked for an hour over tea, the erudite premier appeared to be the strangest "conqueror" the world has seen -- before or after King David.

Levi Eshkol literally wants to beat the tanks and fighter craft and Sten guns into plowshares. There are parts of his tiny land which desperately need cultivation and immigrants. But these in turn need peace.

Peace in turn means the force, especially in the air, to match hat the Soviet Union is pouring into the United Arab Republic.

Israel cannot afford a single invader. It cannot barter real estate for time. It cannot again permit its Tel Aviv megalopolis to lay under the ground gunsights of Jordanian artillery, or the streets of Jerusalem to be a hand grenade's distance from the enemy.

And so Prime Minister Levi Eshkol, as does Defense Minister soldier-archeologist Moshe Dayan, talks energetically of buying 50 F-4 Phantom jet fighters from the U.S.

To date, America has refused to sell these jets to Israel.

"We want no charity," the Prime Minister said. "We want what Churchill wanted when he said just give us the tools. We wwnat no credit. Thank God, today we are a solvent, going nation. We will pay the $4 million apiece for those planes.

"We want the right to defend ourselves against the force now being supplied to the Arabs by the Bolsheviks. We want nothing else but friendship.

"When I was at the ranch of your President, I told Johnson that we wanted no mothers or wives weeping for sons and husbands dying on our soil. We simply want the power to neutralize the enemy. We'll pay cash on the barrelhead -- not like the Arabs who ask for long-term credits and never pay."

It was not an angry tone. It was not the tone of one who said that the world in general or the U.S. in particular owed anything to this Biblical nation.

"Israel wants peace and friendship," said Eshkol.

But what his country needs now are 50 craft which skilled American machinists can turn out in a matter of weeks.

And what if these jet fighters are not sold to Israel by the U.S., I asked.

Prime Minister Levi Eshkol looked out over the Judean hills and sighed.

"Three times we've beaten back the enemy," he replied philosophically. "Three times there have been miracles. It could be they're habit-forming."

Then I left this man of peace and drove to the Negev to see what miracles his people have wrought in ancient deserts.

WOULD HE DO BETTER IF SENT TO CONGRESS

A study of records in Circuit Court and Magistrate Court shows that Cape County Prosecuting Attorney Bill D. Burlison has made appearance on only eight occasions in the last 11 months.

Practically the entire burden of pursuing the state's interest in cases before the courts has been borne by Mr. Burlison's two assistant prosecuting attorneys, Richard E. Snider and Gerald H. Johnson.

Since last Aug. 1, about the time Mr. Burlison filed for Congress from the 10th District, he has represented the state on only five occasions in Circuit Court and on only three occasions in Magistrate Court.

Records do not state precisely the prosecuting attorney's appearances as legal officer for the County Court, but the minutes mention him on only 10 occasions to indicate his presence.

It is not certain that Mr. Burlison was present in all of those instances, since in come cases mention refers only to filings or orders which did not necessarily require attendance.

The appearances recorded in the Magistrate Court record were on Nov. 20 and Nov. 27, 1967, in the handling of routine matters; May 3, 1968, in a motion to quash.

Instances of appearance recorded in Circuit Court were on these dates: Aug. 2, 1967, three cases; Sept. 18, 1967, call of docket; Feb. 27, 1968, three cases; March 5, 1968, motion; March 19, 1968, three cases.

Since Cape County advanced to second class the prosecuting attorney's office has been reorganized with two assistants instead of one as in previous years.

Mr. Burlison receives $9,600 a year as prosecuting attorney, plus the salaries of two secretaries. One of the latter is paid $365 a month by the county and the other $225 a month.

The prosecuting attorney also is allowed $720 rental allowance annually for himself and $480 rental allowance annually for one of his assistants.

Total remuneration for the prosecuting attorney, including the three salaries and his rental allowance, comes to $17,500 a year.

Mr. Snider, a former prosecuting attorney, is Mr. Burlison's chief assistant, handling cases in Circuit Court. He is paid $6,600 a year and $225 a month for a secretary, plus a rental allowance.

Mr. Johnson, who is assigned to the Magistrate Court, is paid $3,600 by the court. He receives no secretarial allowance.

The county budget also allots these expenses for the prosecuting attorney's office: Supplies and postage, $740; telephone and telegraph, $300; service and repairs, $100; travel, $100; trial expenses, $450; professional meetings, $100; books, binders, $550; new equipment, $50; miscellaneous, $50.

The total Prosecuting Attorney budget for the current year is $33,416.08.

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE
(July 22, 1916)
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY DIES

They had a time with him beyond that pearly gate:
They took his measure for a harp, but Riley wouldn't wait.
"I've got my music here," said he,
And he held a pen for all to see.
And while they watched, he wrote a word
He sang a note far sweeter than they'd ever heard;
And then he wrote a line that sounded like a chord.
While Peter ran to talk it over with the Lord.
Don't hear much of Riley any more,
But he's busier than he ever was before,
Playing music while all the host of Heaven sings;
Using words instead of those old - fashioned harps with strings.

—George L. Kress

He was impractical in many small ways - if he traveled alone he was almost certain to take the wrong train or get off at the wrong station; he aspired to be an actor, but never went far in that profession; he became editor of the town paper in Greenfield, Ind., and said "in a few months strangled the little thing into a change of ownership."

A teacher gave up hope of advancing him in mathematics, and advised him to read good literature; he left school at the age of 16 and took up painting, graduating into "house, sign, and ornamental painter," thus for two years traveling with a company of other youths, and they covered all the barns and fences in Indiana with advertisements, calling themselves "the Graphics."

Of his first teacher, he wrote:

"She was a little old woman, rosy and roly - poly, who looked as if she might have come tumbling out of a fairy story, so lovable was she and so jolly and so amiable. She kept school in her little Dame - Trot kind of dwelling of three rooms, with a porch on the rear, like a bracket on the wall, which was part of the playground of her 'scholars,' for in those days pupils were called 'scholars' by their affectionate teachers."

He absorbed about all there was in the McGuffey Readers, but the most important part of his education was his visits to the courthouse with his father, where he became familiar with the manners and speech of Indiana country folk, which showed up consistently in his poems.

Stung by jeers of poetasters who are best forgotten, and to demonstrate his theory that to make a poem successful it was necessary only to prove its author "a genius known to fame," he wrote some verse in the style of Edgar Allan Poe, under the title of "Leonainie." It was published in the Kokomo Dispatch, and the hoax was so successful that the editor was pressed by scholars and book collectors for evidence of the original manuscript.

Throughout his life this incident was a source of embarrassment to him, but it is to be hoped not much embarrassment, for anybody who can gull the experts and critics deserves a few extra diadems.

He's remembered for "The Old Swimmin' Hole," "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," "When the Frost Is On the Pumkin," and dozens of others; he and Bill Nye were platform favorites in a golden era of America; of him, James Russell Lowell, presiding over a conclave of famous writers of the period, said:

"Today, in presenting him (Riley), I can say to you of my own knowledge that you are to have the pleasure of listening to a true poet." This was in the presence of George William Curtis, Mark Twain, George W. Cable, Charles Dudley Warner and Edward Eaggleston.

"Keep the faith" has been used to describe many causes. Some are worthy. Some are not. It also has been weakened by use for trivial causes.

But human values persist and words, however blunted in constant, often ill-advised use, still have meaning.

These thoughts come to mind in reflection of the heroism, the high sense of duty and the valor of the nation's 39th medal of honor winner.

The citation was awarded posthumously to 1st. Lt. George R. Sisler, 30, of Dexter for his brave deeds in combat Feb. 7, 1967. His dedication to the army's Green Berets and to the men in his command was in the finest tradition of the special forces.

Every medal of honor winner, a distinction not taken lightly, has performed "above and beyond the call of duty." Here again is a phrase that has been diminished by trivial or unworthy application but still holds meaning.

In describing Lieutenant Sisler's courageous action deep in Vietnam enemy territory it means that he was not required to do any of the things he did to earn the coveted medal.

He would not have been criticized for failing to act. His military record would have been unblemished by such a failure.

The penetrating force he led was surrounded by a company sized enemy force on three sides.

He charged through heavy enemy fire to rescue two of his wounded men, killing three enemy.

After a new burst of enemy fire, wounding more of his men, Lieutenant Sisler single-handedly charged into the enemy onslaught, firing his weapon and silencing a machine gun with a grenade that he tossed.

This heroic action forced the enemy to withdraw.

It was while moving about the field, directing air strikes against the fleeing force that he fell mortally wounded.

Lieutenant Sisler kept the faith. He knew what he was fighting for. He acted with the utmost bravery and needless of the danger he faced.

The nation is grateful for his life and his courage and it is deeply in his debt.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One in every seven Americans will be admitted to a hospital sometime this year.

Canadians seem to be the most talkative people on earth —and we're a close second. The average annual number of phone calls per person in our northern neighbor nation is 664; the number in the United States is 648.

Looking for a bargain buy in a nice neighborhood? A swank East Side Manhattan apartment house is offering a 24-room coop apartment for sale at $750,000. But that's only for the key. You also have to pay maintenance and upkeep costs of $48,000 yearly.

You may not be getting more youthful, but the chances are that you're driving a younger car. The average age of passenger cars has dropped from 5.9 years in 1965 to 5.63 last year. There are now approximately 98 million vehicles using U.S. highways and fighting for parking spaces.

The high price of prosperity: It's getting more expensive to retire. The Institute of Life Insurance estimates the annual cash requirements of a retired couple who want to live in moderate comfort—assuming they probably already own a car, their own home and most major household appliances— varies from $3,200 in a small Southern town to $4,200 in a big metropolitan area. The most costly retirement mecca: Honolulu, $4,400.

Quotable notables: "If you watch a game, it's fun. If you play it, it's recreation. If you work at it, it's golf."—Bob Hope.

Hungry mouths: UNICEF estimates that two-thirds of the world's children—300 million—are undernourished. One reason malnutrition is so dangerous to the very young is that the brain doesn't reach 80 per cent of its full size until the age of 3, and lack of proper nutrition during this critical period can retard its development permanently.

Mottoes for moderns: "Nothing is impossible for the man who doesn't have to do it himself."

Reassuring: Many elderly people dread the prospect of having to undergo cataract surgery. However, all cataracts don't require an operation. A study of 1,000 people over 65 with vision problems found that only 5 per cent needed surgery.

It was Charles Kingsley who observed, "If you wish to be miserable, think about yourself: about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, what people think of you; and then to you nothing will be pure."

Admiral Rickover testified that in less than five years, the Soviet Union could surpass this country in nuclear submarine strength. Yet the Defense Department has refused to authorize the building of any nuclear submarines after 1970.

Rickover stated it would be "highly dangerous to allow the deterioration of our submarine capacity that would result if no submarines are constructed after fiscal yaer 1970," adding "Our survival could well depend upon what we do in this vital area."

Admiral Rickover, director of the Navy's reactor division, says there is little doubt that the Soviet Union is working to expand substantially their submarine program, both in quantity and in quality. He pointed out that the entire Soviet submarine fleet has been built since World War II, while two-thirds of the United States submarines were built during that war and are about 25 years old. He added that the Defense Department has not given the approval needed for the development and testing of a new submarine.

Most military experts are agreed on the vital role that nuclear submarines play in safeguarding this country's security. Admiral Rickover said: "We must produce whatever it takes to counter the Soviet submarine threat." If the United States is to maintain its capacity to resist communist aggression, the officials in the Defense Department should heed this sound advice. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Conspiracy theory exploded in king murder case· FBI finds probable source of Ray's lavish funds was robbery; · CHE Guevara diary is authentic.

WASHINGTON -- It now looks as if the FBI has exploded the generally prevalent theory that the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King involved a conspiracy.

The conspiracy theory has long been held, as a result of the large amounts of money spent by James Earl Ray, the suspected killer, and the manner in which he was able to travel around the United States, Canada, and Europe. It was believed his operations would have been impossible without help from other conspirators who were out to murder King.

For instance, Ray rented a safe deposit box in the Birmingham Trust National Bank, August 30 of last year, and suddenly began passing out crisp $20 bills. He paid $499 for dancing lessons. He also paid $395 for mail - order photographic equipment that he didn't know how to operate.

He shelled out money for a bartending course, though he showed no interest in working behind any bar. He also took a course in lock - picking from a correspondence school in Michigan, which cost about $400.

His white Mustang cost $1,995, which he paid for in cash. He drove it from Mexico to Montreal, from Los Angeles to New Orleans, and always seemed to have enough cash.

Occasionally Ray slipped $20 tips to bar girls and prostitutes.

All told, Ray spent an estimated $10,000 in seven months. Yet during this time he never held a job. After the King murder, the suspect went to Canada and then to England where he also seemed to be in the dough. He had plenty of money to spend on clothes and airplane fare.

So the big question was: Where did he get the money?

For a long time the FBI toyed with the possibility that Ray was financed by a white supremacy ring. He had boasted to fellow prisoners that he intended to make a big "score" on the outside and that he might try to collect a rumored $1 million bounty that a business group supposedly had offered for the death of Dr. King.

SOURCE OF MONEY

Now, however, the FBI has found a robbery where Ray probably got his money. On July 13 the Bank of Alton, in upper Alton, Ill., was robbed of $22,000. Alton is across the Mississippi River from Missouri, and it was from the Missouri State Pentitentiary that Ray escaped on April 23, 1967, three months before the July 13 robbery in Alton.

The holdup was pulled off by two robbers who wore stocking masks. Their faces could not be identified. However, the FBI has been checking very carefully and one of the robbers answers the description of James Earl Ray. He had the same long hair, the same height and the same physical makeup.

At first the FBI was inclined to be skeptical. However, rechecking the Alton Bank robbery has convinced them that Ray was involved and that this was where he got the money on which he lived so extravagantly prior to the King murder.

The idea that a group conspired to murder King and paid Ray to do it has now been dropped.

Note 1: The FBI has also traced a British bank robbery to Ray from which he got more money.

Note 2: Arthur J. Hanes, the American lawyer who turned up in London to defend Ray, has been connected with various other cases involving racial violence. He was the attorney defending the Ku Klux Klansmen in the Viola Liuzzo case, has a flair for publicity and it's believed he went to London on his own. There is no evidence that he is being paid by conspirators.

CHE GUEVARA DIARY

Some authorities have questioned the authenticity of the CHE Guevara diary which he kept before his death in the Bolivian mountains. We can report that the diary is completely authentic.

Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro got hold of it by purchasing bootleg excerpts from Bolivian officials, then piecing the excerpts together. A few pages were missing from the version which he released to friendly publications around the world, including Ramptarts magazine in this country.

Parade Magazine's enterprising editor, Jess Gorkin, organized a consortium of publications which sought to purchase the rights to the diary from the Bolivian Government. Gorkin sent Andrew St. George, a bring - em - back - alive correspondent, to Bolivia to translate the diary and research the story behind it.

Actually, some of the other documents captured with Guevara are much more revealing than his diary. He lugged them around the jungle in a waterproof jungle pack and a portable field safe made of special, high - impact plastic.

The papers included the outline of a book Guevara planned to write on the evolution of man's political thinking, going back to the ancient Greek phosophers; also an original short story entitled, "passing the test," which he wrote in the jungle.

The bloodthirsty Guerrilla leader also packed poetry with him to occupy his leisure moments. His favorite poet apparently was Ruban Dario, although some verses appear to have been written by Guevara himself.

He also rated his Cuban officers in a confidential "rating book," which indicates he may have found the characters for his short story among his own Guerrilla band. In a typical comment on one officer, Comandante Marcos, Che wrote: "He will not perform at the expected level, he is undisciplined anti- study and arbitrary."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

A Modern Prophet Israel's Prime Minister Talks of Miracles

By Victor Riesel

Jerusalem: -- From the Mount of Olives one can look down on desecreation. Down the gentle slope sacred tombstones have been ripped from a cemetery laid out by ancient Hebrews whose devout patriarchs believed that from these heights the Messiah would enter Jerusalem nd the dead would be resurrected.

Mockingly, the Jordanian Arabs tore up the gravestones and heaved them crazily in all directions. Some stones were used as the pavings for Arab roads.

Others, marking the resting place of families of antiquity, were hauled off to make foundations and walls for toilets.

And at the Wailing Wall a companion tells me of the days before 1948 when Jewish families here in the old eastern section were beaten as they went for prayers at what remains of the Temple's West Wall. As they prayed stones were hurled at them and garbage deliberately strewn at the base of the towering, tannish bastion of King Solomon's antiquity.

One's heart would have to be made of black basalt rock not to feel a sense of resurrection when, after a few minutes drive across this small and now united city, the visitor sits with the big, good-humored Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol.

He is in his shirt sleeves. And soon a round of tea in a glass appears for everybody. Outside the open window, newly planted trees sway in winds which blew across these seven hills eons before Abraham came up out of Ur.

In the distance is east Jerusalem from where I had just come, after a visit with the leaders of Histadrut, the General Federation of Labor in Israel. It had opened an office there in the House of Qutub on Rashiedin Street.

To this house of Jewish labor now are coming Arabs seeking counseling on problems of marriage, children, as well as of bread and butter, and the payment of debts. The Jewish labor leaders do their best.

They run Hebrew language courses to cut down the communications barrier. They send lecturers into Arab homes for family gatherings, to move these people closer to Western modernism.

They run folk dances for the young Arabs and job training and development of special skills for the very same population which once stoned the Hebrews.

When the labor and industrial officials of Histadrut followed the young, swift-triggered Israeli troops into the eastern Jerusalem area, once seized by Abdullah, the late grandfather of today's "little king," the Israelis found Jordanian Arabs working a 64-hour, 7-day week for $10 to $12.

The Arab worker had no rights, no job security, no welfare, no pensions, no health clinics no sick pay, no holidays, no vacation -- no nothing. Just toil and trouble.

So the Israelis opened their labor headquarters on Rashiedin Street -- and began resurrecting the Arab toiler from his hungry nothingness.

It is from this Ristadrut headquarters in east Jerusalem that I drove to Prime Minister Eshkol's headquarters. As we talked for an hour over tea, the erudite premier appeared to be the strangest "conqueror" the world has seen -- before or after King David.

Levi Eshkol literally wants to beat the tanks and fighter craft and Sten guns into plowshares. There are parts of his tiny land which desperately need cultivation and immigrants. But these in turn need peace.

Peace in turn means the force, especially in the air, to match hat the Soviet Union is pouring into the United Arab Republic.

Israel cannot afford a single invader. It cannot barter real estate for time. It cannot again permit its Tel Aviv megalopolis to lay under the ground gunsights of Jordanian artillery, or the streets of Jerusalem to be a hand grenade's distance from the enemy.

And so Prime Minister Levi Eshkol, as does Defense Minister soldier-archeologist Moshe Dayan, talks energetically of buying 50 F-4 Phantom jet fighters from the U.S.

To date, America has refused to sell these jets to Israel.

"We want no charity," the Prime Minister said. "We want what Churchill wanted when he said just give us the tools. We wwnat no credit. Thank God, today we are a solvent, going nation. We will pay the $4 million apiece for those planes.

"We want the right to defend ourselves against the force now being supplied to the Arabs by the Bolsheviks. We want nothing else but friendship.

"When I was at the ranch of your President, I told Johnson that we wanted no mothers or wives weeping for sons and husbands dying on our soil. We simply want the power to neutralize the enemy. We'll pay cash on the barrelhead -- not like the Arabs who ask for long-term credits and never pay."

It was not an angry tone. It was not the tone of one who said that the world in general or the U.S. in particular owed anything to this Biblical nation.

"Israel wants peace and friendship," said Eshkol.

But what his country needs now are 50 craft which skilled American machinists can turn out in a matter of weeks.

And what if these jet fighters are not sold to Israel by the U.S., I asked.

Prime Minister Levi Eshkol looked out over the Judean hills and sighed.

"Three times we've beaten back the enemy," he replied philosophically. "Three times there have been miracles. It could be they're habit-forming."

Then I left this man of peace and drove to the Negev to see what miracles his people have wrought in ancient deserts.

Gibson, Koosman Show Shutout Form

By The Associated Press

Jerry Koosman split a pot with Bob Gibson when the New York Mets stacked the deck at St. Louis ... and Jim McAndrew got caught in the shuffle.

Gibson hurled his 10th consecutive victory and seventh shutout Sunday as the Cardinals spoiled McAndrew's major league pitching debut by shading New York 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Koosman, deliberately held out of a direct confrontation with Gibson, then pitched the Mets to a 1-0 victory, setting a club shutout record in the process and matching the St. Louis ace's 13-5 season mark.

McAndrew, who battled Gibson to a standoff until Bob Tolan tagged an inside-the-park homer in the sixth inning, wasn't around to see Met Manager Gil Hodges' gambit pay off in a split with the National League leaders.

The Mets returned the 24year-old right-hander to their Jacksonville farm club after the first game

Second-place Atlanta bowed to Pittsburgh 6-0 and fell 10½ games behind the Cardinals. The Cincinnati Reds slugged Philadelphia 12-6 for their fourth straight triumph and climbed into a third place tie with the Phillies and San Francisco Lqiants—63 games off the pace.

The Giants divided a twin bill with Houston, dropping the opener 2-1 in 10 innings and taking the nightcap 6-1. Chicago cuffed Los Angeles 7-2 in a single game.

Baltimore swept Detroit's American League leaders 5-2 and 4-1; Minnesota took two from Oakland 7-5 and 10-0; the New York Yankees stopped Cleveland 8-4 after a 4-1 loss to the Indians; the Chicago White Sox beat California 5-1 before falling to the Angels 7-0 and Boston split a pair of 4-3 verdicts with Washington.

Gibson, unbeaten since May 28, scattered seven hits and struck out 13 in outlasting McAndrew under a blazing sun at St. Louis.

Koosman stayed at the head of the Mets' talented young mound staff with a brilliant four-hitter in the nightcap. He struck out 12 on the way to his fifth shutout—a Mets season mark.

New York nicked Nelson Briles, 11-7, for the game's lone run in the sixth, when Cleon Jones singled, took second on an infield out and tallied on a single by J.C. Martin.

Home runs by Willie Stargell, Donn Clendenon and Jose Pagan propelled Pittsburgh's Steve Blass to his seventh straight victory and gave the Pirates a sweep of their threegame set at Atlanta.

Stargell got the Pirates started with a three-run first inning blast off Milt Pappas and Blass checked the Braves on seven hits, bringing his season record to 8-2.

Lee May, Jim Beauchamp and pitcher Tony Cloninger belted homers and Leo Cardenas stroked a single, double, triple and sacrifice fly, good for three RBI, as the Reds buried Philadelphia under a 15-hit barrage.

Cloninger went seven innings before giving way to relief ace Ted Abernathy and picked up only his second victory against five setbacks.

Dick Simpson's run-scoring single in the 10th sent the Astros past the Giants in the first game. Southpaw Mike McCormick throttled the Astros on six hits in the nightcap while rookie Bobby Bonds triggered San Francisco's attack with three hits.

With Willie McCovey nursing a knee injury in the second game, the Giants brought Willie Mays in from the outfield to play first base for the first time since 1964. He handled eight chances without a flaw.

Billy Williams poled a pair of two-run homers and delivered another run with a sacrifice fly as the Cubs trimmed the Dodgers behind Bill Hands, 10-5, and reliever Phil Regan.

Glenn Beckert, who had run his hitting streak to 25 games—tops in the majors this year—in Saturday night's loss to Los Angeles, cracked a triple and three singles and drove in the other two Chicago runs.

Mrs. Dewey Urban settled for second place Sunday in the Women's golf tournament at St. Joseph by losing to Mrs. Edward Owen, 6-5.

She returned last night after a full week of golfing with the finest women golfers in the state.

A 22-game basketball schedule, including a pre - holiday tournament, has been lined up for Arkansas State University's Indians next year, announced J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, athletic director, Wednesday.

The Indians will open the season Dec. 2 hosting the University of Tennessee Martin Branch and will end the campaign Feb. 24 at Lamar Tech.

Included among the 20 games are home - and - home games with defending NCAA college division champion Kentucky Wesleyan. Also on tap are road games with Air Force Academy and the University of Denver. Both are newcomers to the Indians' regular season schedule.

Another team back on the Tribe schedule for the first time in several years is Union University, a regional finalist in last year's NCAA tourney.

ASU will also participate in a tournament at Jackson, Tenn., hosted by Union University Dec. 20-21.

Other teams on the Indians' non - conference schedule will be the University of Tennessee Martin, Southeast Oklahoma, Southeast Missouri and Southwest Missouri.

The Tribe will begin Southland Conference play Jan. 11 by hosting Lamar Tech. The Indians finished third in last year's league play and will be setting their sights on a higher position this year.

Coach Marvin Speight will return only four lettermen from last year's 6-17 team. Seniors Ronnie Brown and Dave Velander, who shared a starting guard spot with Phil Young, are the only upperclassmen returning. Young, a sophomore, and classmate Alton Barnes round out the Tribe's experience.

"Next year's team will be the most inexperienced I have had in my five years at A-State," said Speight. "We will have to depend heavily on men up from the freshman team and new recruits," he added.

The schedule is:

Dec. 2 U. of Tennessee Martin Branch
Dec. 3 Southeast Oklahoma
Dec. 7 at U. of Denver
Dec. 9 at Air Force Academy
Dec. 13 Kentucky Wesleyan

Mrs. Karen MacGee of Kansas City owns her fourth Missouri women's amateur golf championship after her fifth trip to the finals.

The 28-year-old housewife edged Mrs. Barbara Berkmeyer, 24-year-old St. Louis school teacher, 2 up in 36 holes Sunday as they played sterling golf despite 95-degree heat on the Moila course.

Mrs. MacGee was 2 under par at 74-74-148 and Mrs. Berkmeyer had 77-75-152, 2 over par.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was down one hole in the afternoon round but Mrs. MacGee ran her advantage to 5 up with a string of good chip shots and birdies. Mrs. Berkmeyer made another rally and cut the margin to one with a birdie on the 32nd hole. They split the remaining holes.

On the last hole, Mrs. Berkmeyer's second shot missed the green and she came within two inches of sinking a 50-foot up-hill recovery shot that would have sent the match into a playoff.

Mrs. MacGee's first time in the finals was in 1959 when she lost to Judy Torluemke, now a professional. Since then Mrs. MacGee went all the way in 1960, 62 and 64.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was the champion in 1965.

Next year's tournament will be June 23-28 on the St. Louis Greenbriar course. Mrs. Helen Wainwright of Greenbriar was elected president of the Missouri Women's Golf Association.

Namath's Backup Gets New Uniform by Trade

NEW YORK AP - It was a week early, but Mike Taliaferro is well satisfied with his birthday gift - a new uniform.

The veteran quarterback, who will be 27 Friday, will be wearing a Boston Patriots outfit this fall when the American Football League season opens.

That's just the way Taliaferro wanted it. After playing behind Joe Namath for three years with the New York Jets, Taliaferro asked to be traded for an opportunity to win a starting job.

The Jets obliged Saturday by dealing him to the Patriots for 38 - year - old veteran Babe Parilli, who shared the starting job with Don Trull last season. Taliaferro will battle Trull for the job.

"Trull will start out a little ahead, because he was with us half of last year," Patriots' General Manager - Coach Mike Holovak said, referring to the 1967 mid - season trade that brought Trull from Houston. "But Taliaferro will get every chance to win the job."

Taliaferro needs only three more games on active duty to become eligible for the Afl pension, but he shrugs that off.

"To get the pension I have to live until 65," he said. "I'm thinking of now."

Taliaferro had little chance to play behind Namath, who set a pro passing record of 4,007 yards last season, breaking Parilli's mark of 3,465 in 1964 when he was the AFL's all-star quarterback.

Taliaferro, of the University of Illinois, managed only 20 passes, completing 11 for 96 yards after suffering a shoulder separation in a preseason game.

Parilli, a 14-year-veteran of the National Football League, the Canadian League and the AFL, had heard the cheers of 1964 turn to boos last season. He completed 161 passes in 344 attempts for 2,317 yards and 19 touchdowns and had 24 interceptions as the Pats finished last in the Eastern Division.

"Babe still has a great arm and has always been an excellent play caller and leader," Jets General Manager - Coach Weeb Eubank said. "We feel we have a good chance to win the Eastern Division title this year and wanted to get a backup quarterback such as Babe to insure our chances."

Gibson, Koosman Show Shutout Form

By The Associated Press

Jerry Koosman split a pot with Bob Gibson when the New York Mets stacked the deck at St. Louis ... and Jim McAndrew got caught in the shuffle.

Gibson hurled his 10th consecutive victory and seventh shutout Sunday as the Cardinals spoiled McAndrew's major league pitching debut by shading New York 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Koosman, deliberately held out of a direct confrontation with Gibson, then pitched the Mets to a 1-0 victory, setting a club shutout record in the process and matching the St. Louis ace's 13-5 season mark.

McAndrew, who battled Gibson to a standoff until Bob Tolan tagged an inside-the-park homer in the sixth inning, wasn't around to see Met Manager Gil Hodges' gambit pay off in a split with the National League leaders.

The Mets returned the 24year-old right-hander to their Jacksonville farm club after the first game

Second-place Atlanta bowed to Pittsburgh 6-0 and fell 10½ games behind the Cardinals. The Cincinnati Reds slugged Philadelphia 12-6 for their fourth straight triumph and climbed into a third place tie with the Phillies and San Francisco Lqiants—63 games off the pace.

The Giants divided a twin bill with Houston, dropping the opener 2-1 in 10 innings and taking the nightcap 6-1. Chicago cuffed Los Angeles 7-2 in a single game.

Baltimore swept Detroit's American League leaders 5-2 and 4-1; Minnesota took two from Oakland 7-5 and 10-0; the New York Yankees stopped Cleveland 8-4 after a 4-1 loss to the Indians; the Chicago White Sox beat California 5-1 before falling to the Angels 7-0 and Boston split a pair of 4-3 verdicts with Washington.

Gibson, unbeaten since May 8, scattered seven hits and struck out 13 in outlasting McAndrew under a blazing sun at St. Louis.

Koosman stayed at the head of the Mets' talented young mound staff with a brilliant four-hitter in the nightcap. He struck out 12 on the way to his fifth shutout—a Mets season mark.

New York nicked Nelson Briles, 11-7, for the game's lone run in the sixth, when Cleon Jones singled, took second on an infield out and tallied on a single by J.C. Martin.

Home runs by Willie Stargell, Donn Clendenon and Jose Pagan propelled Pittsburgh's Steve Blass to his seventh straight victory and gave the Pirates a sweep of their threegame set at Atlanta.

Stargell got the Pirates started with a three-run first inning blast off Milt Pappas and Blass checked the Braves on seven hits, bringing his season record to 8-2.

Lee May, Jim Beauchamp and pitcher Tony Cloninger belted homers and Leo Cardenas stroked a single, double, triple and sacrifice fly, good for three RBI, as the Reds buried Philadelphia under a 15-hit barrage.

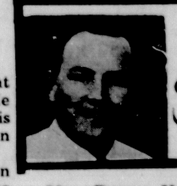

Cloninger went seven innings before giving way to relief ace Ted Abernathy and picked up only his second victory against five setbacks.

Dick Simpson's run-scoring single in the 10th sent the Astros past the Giants in the first game. Southpaw Mike McCormick throttled the Astros on six hits in the nightcap while rookie Bobby Bonds triggered San Francisco's attack with three hits.

With Willie McCovey nursing a knee injury in the second game, the Giants brought Willie Mays in from the outfield to play first base for the first time since 1964. He handled eight chances without a flaw.

Billy Williams poled a pair of two-run homers and delivered another run with a sacrifice fly as the Cubs trimmed the Dodgers behind Bill Hands, 10-5, and reliever Phil Regan.

Glenn Beckert, who had run his hitting streak to 25 games—tops in the majors this year—in Saturday night's loss to Los Angeles, cracked a triple and three singles and drove in the other two Chicago runs.

She returned last night after a full week of golfing with the finest women golfers in the state.

A 22-game basketball schedule, including a pre - holiday tournament, has been lined up for Arkansas State University's Indians next year, announced J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, athletic director, Wednesday.

The Indians will open the season Dec. 2 hosting the University of Tennessee Martin Branch and will end the campaign Feb. 24 at Lamar Tech.

Included among the 20 games are home - and - home games with defending NCAA college division champion Kentucky Wesleyan. Also on tap are road games with Air Force Academy and the University of Denver. Both are newcomers to the Indians' regular season schedule.

Another team back on the Tribe schedule for the first time in several years is Union University, a regional finalist in last year's NCAA tourney.

ASU will also participate in a tournament at Jackson, Tenn., hosted by Union University Dec. 20-21.

Other teams on the Indians' non - conference schedule will be the University of Tennessee Martin, Southeast Oklahoma, Southeast Missouri and Southwest Missouri.

The Tribe will begin Southland Conference play Jan. 11 by hosting Lamar Tech. The Indians finished third in last year's league play and will be setting their sights on a higher position this year.

Coach Marvin Speight will return only four lettermen from last year's 6-17 team. Seniors Ronnie Brown and Dave Velander, who shared a starting guard spot with Phil Young, are the only upperclassmen returning. Young, a sophomore, and classmate Alton Barnes round out the Tribe's experience.

"Next year's team will be the most inexperienced I have had in my five years at A-State," said Speight. "We will have to depend heavily on men up from the freshman team and new recruits," he added.

The schedule is:

Dec. 2 U. of Tennessee Martin Branch
Dec. 3 Southeast Oklahoma
Dec. 7 at U. of Denver
Dec. 9 at Air Force Academy
Dec. 13 Kentucky Wesleyan

Mrs. Karen MacGee of Kansas City owns her fourth Missouri women's amateur golf championship after her fifth trip to the finals.

The 28-year-old housewife edged Mrs. Barbara Berkmeyer, 24-year-old St. Louis school teacher, 2 up in 36 holes Sunday as they played sterling golf despite 95-degree heat on the Moila course.

Mrs. MacGee was 2 under par at 74-74-148 and Mrs. Berkmeyer had 77-75-152, 2 over par.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was down one hole in the afternoon round but Mrs. MacGee ran her advantage to 5 up with a string of good chip shots and birdies. Mrs. Berkmeyer made another rally and cut the margin to one with a birdie on the 32nd hole. They split the remaining holes.

On the last hole, Mrs. Berkmeyer's second shot missed the green and she came within two inches of sinking a 50-foot up-hill recovery shot that would have sent the match into a playoff.

Mrs. MacGee's first time in the finals was in 1959 when she lost to Judy Torluemke, now a professional. Since then Mrs. MacGee went all the way in 1960, 62 and 64.

Mrs. Berkmeyer was the champion in 1965.

Next year's tournament will be June 23-28 on the St. Louis Greenbriar course. Mrs. Helen Wainwright of Greenbriar was elected president of the Missouri Women's Golf Association.

Namath's Backup Gets New Uniform by Trade

NEW YORK AP - It was a week early, but Mike Taliaferro is well satisfied with his birthday gift - a new uniform.

The veteran quarterback, who will be 27 Friday, will be wearing a Boston Patriots outfit this fall when the American Football League season opens.

That's just the way Taliaferro wanted it. After playing behind Joe Namath for three years with the New York Jets, Taliaferro asked to be traded for an opportunity to win a starting job.

The Jets obliged Saturday by dealing him to the Patriots for 38 - year - old veteran Babe Parilli, who shared the starting job with Don Trull last season. Taliaferro will battle Trull for the job.

"Trull will start out a little ahead, because he was with us half of last year," Patriots' General Manager - Coach Mike Holovak said, referring to the 1967 mid - season trade that brought Trull from Houston. "But Taliaferro will get every chance to win the job."

Taliaferro needs only three more games on active duty to become eligible for the Afl pension, but he shrugs that off.

"To get the pension I have to live until 65," he said. "I'm thinking of now."

Taliaferro had little chance to play behind Namath, who set a pro passing record of 4,007 yards last season, breaking Parilli's mark of 3,465 in 1964 when he was the AFL's all-star quarterback.

Taliaferro, of the University of Illinois, managed only 20 passes, completing 11 for 96 yards after suffering a shoulder separation in a preseason game.

Parilli, a 14-year-veteran of the National Football League, the Canadian League and the AFL, had heard the cheers of 1964 turn to boos last season. He completed 161 passes in 344 attempts for 2,317 yards and 19 touchdowns and had 24 interceptions as the Pats finished last in the Eastern Division.

"Babe still has a great arm and has always been an excellent play caller and leader," Jets General Manager - Coach Weeb Eubank said. "We feel we have a good chance to win the Eastern Division title this year and wanted to get a backup quarterback such as Babe to insure our chances."

ARMED FORCES

BEDFORD, Mass.--Sergeant Gene O. Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester O. Mayfield, Morley, Mo., has arrived for duty at L. G. Hanscom Field, Mass.

Sergeant Mayfield, a communications equipment specialist, is assigned to a unit of the Air Force Communications Service. He previously served at Shemya Air Force Station, Alaska.

The sergeant is a 1962 graduate of Scott County Central High School.

Although Westminster Abbey is now a place for the coronation of English kings and burial of famous British dead, it was built in the Middle Ages as a home for a group of Benedictine monks who lived a very simple life there.

In the News

NEW PRIME MINISTER of South Vietnam is Tran Van Houng, 65, who was named by President Nguyen Van Thieu in a cabinet shake-up designed to strengthen South Vietnam's bargaining position in any peace talks. Thieu named the extremely popular former schoolteacher only eight hours after Nguyen Van Loc resigned the prime ministership and announced the demise of a 17-man cabinet.

Peyton Place Rated Acting Paradise

EDITOR'S NOTE—Life in ABC's "Peyton Place" may be a long series of tribulations, not to mention murder trials, that would break the strongest mind. But for one performer paid to suffer professionally, ABC's evening serial is a dream job. Barbara Rush, who recently joined the cast, tells about it.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" comes as close to being an actor's paradise as can be found in television. There are a few drawbacks—a lack of travel for location filming and the fact that you won't achieve the fantastic fame that a hit motion picture can bring—but there are other compensations.

Few shows on television, aside from anthology dramas, have strong acting scenes. By that I mean most teleplays are all plot and there is not enough face-to-face dialogue between the characters. "Peyton Place" is thought of as being an intricately plotted show, and in many ways it is, but the characters talk to each other more than is possible on the action adventure programs.

With a continuing drama too, there is greater opportunity for actors and actresses to help develop the character of the part they are playing. It is not like a play where you interpret just what the author has written. You find that you are putting something of yourself into the role. There is a lot more of me in the Marsha Russell part than I ever thought there would be.

One of the reasons for this is that the actors confer with the writers of the show on the parts they are playing. As a consequence, I am playing Marsha more strongly than the writers originally intended.

If I disagree with the writers on some point, we discuss it. I don't always win my point, but if I don't, at least I know why a scene is written the way it is for me to play.

The hours I work have been heaven for me, but I don't know whether they would suit all actresses. I work three days a week, and sometimes only two because there is a large cast. This gives me time to be with my family and to take care of other things I want to do.

I have turned down two offers to do pictures during the summer hiatus the company will take because I don't want to work any harder.

The repertory theater character of the show is invaluable for the young actors and "Peyton Place" has helped develop a lot of good young talent such as Mia Farrow and Leigh TaylorYoung.

There is time for the fine directors on the show to correct mistakes and to give them some help, which is not always true on daytime television serials.

Circus Greats to Hall of Fame

SARASOTA, FLA. -- Only a little more than a month remains for nominating all-time circus greats to be considered for election this year to the Circus Hall of Fame it was announced by Museum President William W. Naramore.

Nominations submitted before Sept. 1 will be considered at the annual meeting of the Circus Hall of Fame's national awards committee Sept. 11, in Shreveport, La. The meeting will precede the 37th convention of the Circus Fans Association of America there Sept. 12-14.

Naramore said the awards committee, consisting of 12 circus historians from throughout the country, will again consider nominations of all - time circus greats from the performing artist, business or maintenance categories of big top entertainment. Nominees who are living must be retired from their circus specialty for five years prior to enshrinement.

Naramore said that those elected to the Circus Hall of Fame this September will, as in years past, be officially announced from the center ring of the Ringling Bros. and Branum & Bailey Circus at the Ringling Arena in Venice, Fla. The induction ceremony will be at the opening 1969 matinee performance next January, with newly - elected circus greats simultaneously blowing ringmaster's whistles to launch the new edition of the "Greatest Show on Earth."

Fifty-four circus greats have been enshrined at the Sarasota landmark since it first opened in January, 1956, across from the Sarasota - Bradenton Airport. Those most recently named, earlier this year, were retired equestrian star Capt. William C. Heyer, Jr., and ex - trapeze daredevil Elly Ardelty, both of Sarasota; former acrobatic ace Ernest Schlee Millette, of Union, N. J., and Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the late riding comedian Edwin (Poodles) Hanneford, formerly of Kattskill, N.Y.

Nonstop Flight Recommended For Ozark

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recommendation that Ozark Air Lines be authorized to provide nonstop service between St. Louis and Chicago was made Thursday by Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Ross I. Newmann.

The CAB may adopt the recommendation if no petition for review is filed within 10 days.

Newmann indicated one effect of the change would be to provide Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service.

At present, Ozark is required to make at least one intermediate stop on one of its routes between St. Louis and Chicago and at least two on another route.

Ozark has used DC9 jets on the route between Joplin and Springfield, Mo., and Chicago since mid-1966, operating by way of St. Louis and either Peoria or Springfield, Ill.

"There is no need for this amount of service between Joplin-Springfield, Mo., and Peoria, Springfield...

"The effect is that these Missouri passengers needlessly preempt Chicago seats which otherwise would be available for passengers at the Illinois intermediates," Newmann said.

Newmann said Ozark plans in 1969 to delete either Peoria or Springfield, Ill., from two roundtrip jet flights to Chicago and plans to replace the Illinois service with two new jet roundtrips between Chicago and St. Louis serving the Illinois intermediates deleted from the existing service.

In addition, Ozark would operate a third roundtrip jet which would be non-stop between St. Louis and Chicago, thus providing Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service and retaining the same frequency to Chicago and St. Louis for Peoria and Springfield, Ill.

Newmann said authority to operate nonstop over the 258-mile route would reduce Ozark's need for government subsidy by $133,313 next year and by $401,729 in 1970.

WASHINGTON - James Joseph Scully, a convicted bank robber who has alledgedly robbed at gunpoint a series of California banks and escaped in rented getaway cars, has been placed on the FBI's list of Ten Most Wanted Fugitives. During one holdup he allegedly shot and critically wounded an innocent bystander.

Scully, who was released from a ten-year bank robbery sentence in December, 1965, is reportedly armed with two pistols, has had psychiatric treatment and allegedly has suicidal tendencies. He may be accompanied in flight by an attractive young woman posing as his wife, and two French poodles.

On March 21, 1968, Scully is reported to have robbed the Del Amo Center Branch of the Security First National Bank, Torrance, Calif. of $4,000. On April 5, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Valley Fair Branch of the Bank of America, San Jose, California, of $1,520 and escaped in a rented getaway car.

On April 29, 1968, Scully allegedly attempted to rob the Coddington Office of the United California Bank, Santa Rosa, California, but fled without any loot after a newspaper delivery man was shot by the robber in the bank and critically wounded. Again a rented getaway car was used in the escape.

On May 8, 1968, Scully reportedly robbed a Covina, California, Branch of the Crocker-Citizens National Bank of $2,477 before again fleeing in a rented car.

On June 14, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Rowland Heights, California, Branch of the Bank of America of $2,516 after threatening bank tellers with a pistol.

Federal warrants charging Scully with the San Jose and Torrance, California, bank robberies were issued at San Francisco, California, on April 9, 1968, and Los Angeles, California, on April 18, 1968, respectively. In addition, a Federal parole violator's warrant was issued at Washington, D. C., by the United States Board of Parole on May 23, 1968. Scully had been paroled in December, 1965, after serving approximately five years of a ten-year bank robbery sentence.

Scully has additionally been convicted of interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

He is a white American who was born at Blackstone, Mass., on Aug. 26, 1920. Scully is 5 feet 10 inches to 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 180 to 200 pounds, has blue eyes, gray receding hair, a medium complexion and a stocky build. He has a scar above his right eye, a mole on his right cheek, scars on his left shin and the tattoo of a skull and crossbones on the upper portion of his right arm. Tattooed on the upper portion of his left arm are the head of an Indian woman and "NEDA." He has worked in the past as a construction worker, mechanic, real estate salesman and carpenter.

Scully reportedly likes spaghetti, vodka and scotch, enjoys hunting, fishing, gambling and golf, frequents racetracks and remote luxury motels, often wears expensive western apparel and has a high I.Q. He has reportedly taught high school English to fellow inmates while incarcerated.

This fugitive should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning Scully is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Cape Prosecutor Seeks Trial Delay

CAPE GIRARDEAU, -- Cape Girardeau County Prosecuting Attorney Bill D. Burlison has asked for a delay in the prosecution of a former county collector, citing a newspaper editorial endorsing one of his opponents for the Democratic nomination for 10th district congressman.

Burlison stated the editorial, which did not mention the court cases, and a letter to the editor criticizing his performance as prosecutor, would be prejudicial to the selection of an impartial jury.

He asked that the case, scheduled for Thursday, be set for the earliest possible date after Aug. 6 - the day of the primary election.

The county collector involved is Bill W. Rose, charged on two counts - failing to file an annual settlement and failing to report to the county court the salaries paid his deputies.

On July 11, the Southeast Missourian, a Cape Girardeau newspaper, endorsed David Rolwing of Charleston for the 10th District nomination, commenting that Burlison had not performed his duties as prosecutor "in the devoted, hard - hitting, forceful manner the people have a right to expect."

There was no direct reference to the Rose case, but the newspaper had commented on it previously.

A few days later, the newspaper printed a letter charging Burlison had not brought justice to the county and criticizing his political campaign. It also cited the fact that no charges had been filed in connection with discrepancies in the personal property tax books prepared under Rose.

The cases are pending before Circuit Judge Rex Henson of Poplar Bluff. Judge W. Osler Statler of Cape Girardeau disqualified himself.

LBJ Hands out 24 Millionth Social Security Check

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson personally handed over a $230.40 monthly Social Security check Wednesday to the 24 millionth beneficiary under the program that was started 33 years ago.

"I wish you the very best of luck," the President told William F. Owen, who lives just outside of Richmond, Va., and came to the White House with his wife for the ceremonies.

Owen, who was 65 last May 20, is a retired metal worker who was born in Pendleton, S.C.

He and his wife said they were thrilled by the White House meeting with the President. Owen promptly turned the check over to his wife.

Nonstop Flight Recommended For Ozark

WASHINGTON (AP) — A recommendation that Ozark Air Lines be authorized to provide nonstop service between St. Louis and Chicago was made Thursday by Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Ross I. Newmann.

The CAB may adopt the recommendation if no petition for review is filed within 10 days.

Newmann indicated one effect of the change would be to provide Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service.

At present, Ozark is required to make at least one intermediate stop on one of its routes between St. Louis and Chicago and at least two on another route.

Ozark has used DC9 jets on the route between Joplin and Springfield, Mo., and Chicago since mid-1966, operating by way of St. Louis and either Peoria or Springfield, Ill.

"There is no need for this amount of service between Joplin-Springfield, Mo., and Peoria, Springfield...

"The effect is that these Missouri passengers needlessly preempt Chicago seats which otherwise would be available for passengers at the Illinois intermediates," Newmann said.

Newmann said Ozark plans in 1969 to delete either Peoria or Springfield, Ill., from two roundtrip jet flights to Chicago and plans to replace the Illinois service with two new jet roundtrips between Chicago and St. Louis serving the Illinois intermediates deleted from the existing service.

In addition, Ozark would operate a third roundtrip jet which would be non-stop between St. Louis and Chicago, thus providing Joplin and Springfield, Mo., with more expedited Chicago service and retaining the same frequency to Chicago and St. Louis for Peoria and Springfield, Ill.

Newmann said authority to operate nonstop over the 258-mile route would reduce Ozark's need for government subsidy by $133,313 next year and by $401,729 in 1970.

LBJ Hands out 24 Millionth Social Security Check

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson personally handed over a $230.40 monthly Social Security check Wednesday to the 24 millionth beneficiary under the program that was started 33 years ago.

"I wish you the very best of luck," the President told William F. Owen, who lives just outside of Richmond, Va., and came to the White House with his wife for the ceremonies.

Owen, who was 65 last May 20, is a retired metal worker who was born in Pendleton, S.C.

He and his wife said they were thrilled by the White House meeting with the President. Owen promptly turned the check over to his wife.

Music Festival Tent Collapses In Wind Storm

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A giant show tent filled to capacity for a festival music program collapsed in a wind storm Sunday night, scattering a crowd of 2,500 persons.

Officials said about 40 persons were treated at hospitals for injuries, none serious. Most of the victims were teen-agers struck by falling tent poles.

An estimated 20 other persons were treated at a first aid station.

Police, spectators and show officials said there generally was little sign of panic as support poles toppled into the tightly packed crowd, and sparks showered from overhead electric equipment.

One woman said the audience was watching a band about to start the program when "all of a sudden, the wind came underneath the tent and it started flying up" releasing the poles.

One of the injured, Miss Mary Pointek, 15, said she heard "a howling noise and a big ripping above me. The poles started swaying back and forth. I thought it was all part of the show at first. All of a sudden, everything collapsed around me."

Witnesses said the winds, accompanying a line of thunderstorms, lifted the canvas twice before it collapsed and cloaked about half the seating area.

Police said most of the audience got clear of the wreckage within 15 minutes, but that many people were still entangled in rope and canvas 45 minutes later.

The tent, covering an area larger than a football field, had been erected at a Lake Michigan shorefront park for a series of programs during the city's Summerfest '38, keyed to youth activities.

Steven Thorpe of Chicago, a trumpet player with the New Colony Six, which was beginning its performance, said a pole "hit me in the side of the head and knocked me off the stage."

A few persons said they thought they saw funnel-shaped clouds over Lake Michigan. But the Weather Bureau said there were no twisters in the storm that swept the state.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I recently painted a new metal cabinet black. When dusting the cabinet lint sticks to it and it looks worse than the dust. I have tried polishes, a damp cloth and vacuuming it. I hope some reader can help me.—MRS. J. P. G.

DEAR POLLY—I have two small children but like most busy mothers find it hard to keep their baby books up-to-date on what they do and say. Now when they do or say anything cute I mark it down on my calendar on the day or along the side. It is so easy to write, "Took first step," on the proper day on the calendar. About every three to six months when I have some spare time I get the calendar and baby books and enter in the books all the things I have written on the calendar and am sure I have the proper dates and all the things I wanted to include. —DIANA

DEAR POLLY—First thing we look for in the paper is your column since we benefit so from it. I hope my Pointer pleases a lot of the ladies. To prevent skirtband wrinkles I sew fiberglass-type Venetian blind tape on the back of all my skirt bands, or if I make a skirt I insert it in the band. It is lightweight, washes and will not wrinkle.—A. F. Y.

DEAR POLLY—I recently sent a birthday cake to my brother in the Air Force. It was an unfrosted angel cake wrapped in clear plastic. I tucked in a box of frosting that needs no refrigeration and plastic bag of nuts, colored candies and candles for decorations. He and his friends seemed to enjoy assembling the cake themselves and I do hope other friends of servicemen will try this Pointer from a 12-year-old. —NANCY

DEAR POLLY—If you take facial tissues to an elderly patient in the hospital, take colored ones. White tissues are often difficult for them to see against white bed coverings but colored ones are easily spotted.—FLORENCE

Campaign for Gun Controls Gets Results

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A month-old campaign in support of gun-control legislation has collected more than 10,000 petition signatures and 52,000 postcards for Maryland congressmen.

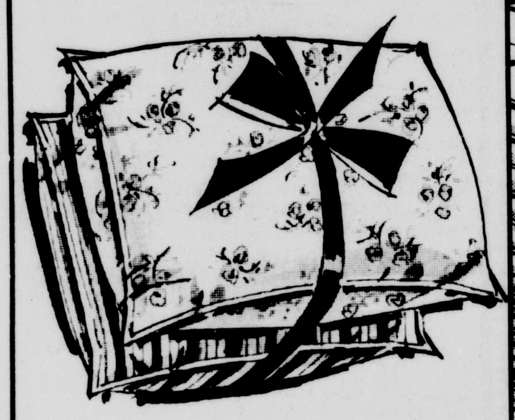

The campaign began June 19 under the direction of Maclyn McCarty and Walter S. Orlinsky, who represent Baltimore in the Maryland House of Delegates, and Mrs. Marvin M. Polikoff, a former aide to U.S. Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., an advocate of strong gun-control laws.

The stack of petitions and 10,000 postcards were presented to Tydings. Orlinsky said Maryland's other U.S. senator, Daniel B. Brewster, also received 10,000 postcards and 8,000 each went to Reps. Clarence Long, Edward Garmatz and Samuel Friedel.

The cost of the drive so far, Orlinsky said, has been $400.

Campaign for Gun Controls Gets Results

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A month-old campaign in support of gun-control legislation has collected more than 10,000 petition signatures and 52,000 postcards for Maryland congressmen.

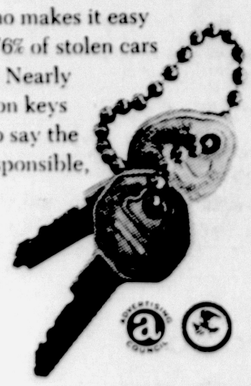

The campaign began June 19 under the direction of Maclyn McCarty and Walter S. Orlinsky, who represent Baltimore in the Maryland House of Delegates, and Mrs. Marvin M. Polikoff, a former aide to U.S. Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., an advocate of strong gun-control laws.

The stack of petitions and 10,000 postcards were presented to Tydings. Orlinsky said Maryland's other U.S. senator, Daniel B. Brewster, also received 10,000 postcards and 8,000 each went to Reps. Clarence Long, Edward Garmatz and Samuel Friedel.

The cost of the drive so far, Orlinsky said, has been $400.

Who needs a license to steal?

Every 60 seconds someone steals a car. Who does the stealing? Teen-agers mostly. Many less than sixteen, 64% less than 18. Why do they steal? Joyrides chiefly. Dangerous joyrides when you know that stolen cars have 200 times more accidents than other cars. Who makes it easy for them? You do. 76% of stolen cars were left unlocked. Nearly half also had ignition keys in them. It's easy to say the teen-agers are irresponsible, but so are you.

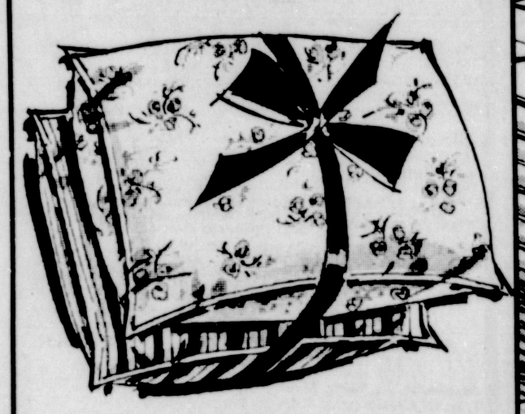

Don't help a boy go bad. When you park, take your keys.

A POT'S THE SPOT

Geraniums fill this square pot with brilliant blossoms which may be red, scarlet, any shade of pink or rose, as well as white. For interesting contrast with these colors and the deep green foliage, variegated vinca cascades down the sides.

Multiflora petunias are used as a "topping" for this round pot. Lower growing than grandifloras, they have slightly smaller but many more flowers in so many shades of so many colors that space does not permit a description of the entire list.

A pot's the spot to plant the showiest, gaudiest blooms you can grow, for a pot is the only spot in the garden that's movable. If you want to change a garden scene, moving pots of blooms about will do the trick.

The most popular flowers for such use are, deservedly, geraniums and petunias. The two thrive under pot culture and bloom profusely in gay colors for as long a period as any annual flower.

Depending on the size of pot that is in scale with the size of your garden, you can put in a pot as few as 3 plants of petunias or a single geranium. The bigger the pot, the more plants in it, the greater the garden effect.

When planting in pots be sure the soil is well provided with organic matter and fertilized. Plants are set close together in a pot, closer than would be the case in the ground, because a mass of color is desired. Without adequate soil preparation, they simply cannot get sufficient nourishment.

It goes without saying that watering must be regular and thorough for pots have comparatively large surfaces exposed to drying sun.

The point often missed is that the pot must have adequate drainage so that the soil never becomes water-logged. If it has a hole in the bottom, cover that with a flat stone or a piece of broken flower pot so that the soil is held back while the water seeps out.

Lacking a drainage hole, several inches depth of drainage materials must be used at the bottom of the pot. Gravel or broken flower pot are both excellent materials.

Because the soil used over them has been enriched as suggested above, there should be no need to add fertilizer until mid-summer. At that time the plants in the pot probably will show by their growth that they are coming to the end of the nourishment in the soil.

Add fertilizer sparingly, rather too little than too much, remembering always the limited amount of soil in the limited area of the pot.

Geraniums and petunias are not, of course, the only plants for use in pots, though they certainly are the showiest. Other annuals for this use include dwarf and medium height marigolds, ageratum (good for edging taller kinds), lantanas, verbenas, lobelias and dwarf nasturtiums.

Because the eventual heights and widths of the plants named vary, the planting distances will too. Just remember that it's an effect of massed color that makes a pot a picture.

ANCIENT HAIRDO took a lot of hair and a lot of doing. This Minoan style goes back about 2,000 years or more. It was seen at a recent international conference of hair stylists held in Athens, Greece.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election

To be held on Tuesday, the Sixth day of August, 1968

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1

(Submitted by the 74th General Assembly)

Adds secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney general, in that order, to follow lieutenant governor, president pro tempore of senate, and speaker of house in line of succession to governor in case of vacancy or disability. Creates board composed of officers in line of succession plus majority floor leader of senate and house which may, by majority vote, declare governor unable to perform his official duties. If governor disagrees, supreme court decides issue.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 11 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to the office of governor and office of Lieutenant governor, respectively, and adopting three new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1968, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 11, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and three new sections adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as sections 11(a), 11(b), 11(c), to read as follows:

Section 11(a). If the governor-elect dies before taking office, the lieutenant governor-elect shall take the term of the governor-elect. On the death, conviction or impeachment, or resignation of the governor, the lieutenant governor shall become governor for the remainder of the term. If there be no lieutenant governor the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession shall become governor. On the failure to qualify, absence from the state or other disability of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the governor shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the remainder of the term or until the disability is removed. If there be no lieutenant governor, or for any of said causes the lieutenant governor is incapable of acting, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, and the attorney general in succession shall act as governor until the disability is removed.

Section 11(b). Whenever the governor transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, such powers and duties shall be discharged by the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, by the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, or the attorney general in succession, as acting governor. Whenever a majority of a disability board comprised of the lieutenant governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, the attorney general, president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, the majority floor leader of the senate, and majority floor leader of the house, transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession, shall immediately assume the powers and duties of the office as acting governor. Thereafter when the governor transmits to the disability board his written declaration that no inability exists, he shall resume the powers and duties of his office on the fourth day after he transmits such declaration unless a majority of the disability board transmits their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office to the supreme court within that four day period, and the supreme court shall then convene to decide the issue. If the supreme court within twenty-one days after receipt of such declaration, determines by a majority vote of all members thereof that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the acting governor shall continue to discharge the same as acting governor; otherwise, the governor shall resume the powers and duties of his office.

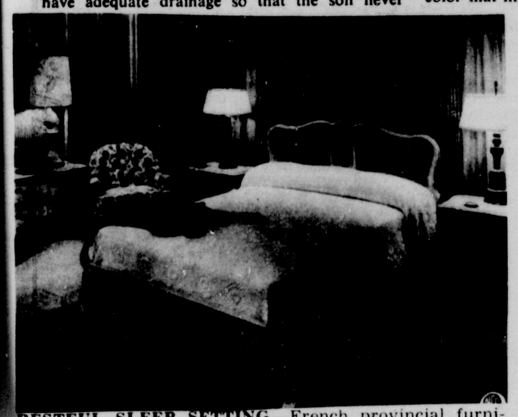

Section 11(c). If any state officer other than the lieutenant governor is acting as governor, his regular elective office shall not be deemed vacant and all duties of that office shall be performed by his chief administrative assistant.

A POT'S THE SPOT

Geraniums fill this square pot with brilliant blossoms which may be red, scarlet, any shade of pink or rose, as well as white. For interesting contrast with these colors and the deep green foliage, variegated vinca cascades down the sides.

Multiflora petunias are used as a "topping" for this round pot. Lower growing than grandifloras, they have slightly smaller but many more flowers in so many shades of so many colors that space does not permit a description of the entire list.

A pot's the spot to plant the showiest, gaudiest blooms you can grow, for a pot is the only spot in the garden that's movable. If you want to change a garden scene, moving pots of blooms about will do the trick.

The most popular flowers for such use are, deservedly, geraniums and petunias. The two thrive under pot culture and bloom profusely in gay colors for as long a period as any annual flower.

Depending on the size of pot that is in scale with the size of your garden, you can put in a pot as few as 3 plants of petunias or a single geranium. The bigger the pot, the more plants in it, the greater the garden effect.

When planting in pots be sure the soil is well provided with organic matter and fertilized. Plants are set close together in a pot, closer than would be the case in the ground, because a mass of color is desired. Without adequate soil preparation, they simply cannot get sufficient nourishment.

It goes without saying that watering must be regular and thorough for pots have comparatively large surfaces exposed to drying sun.

The point often missed is that the pot must have adequate drainage so that the soil never becomes water-logged. If it has a hole in the bottom, cover that with a flat stone or a piece of broken flower pot so that the soil is held back while the water seeps out.

Lacking a drainage hole, several inches depth of drainage materials must be used at the bottom of the pot. Gravel or broken flower pot are both excellent materials.

Because the soil used over them has been enriched as suggested above, there should be no need to add fertilizer until mid-summer. At that time the plants in the pot probably will show by their growth that they are coming to the end of the nourishment in the soil.

Add fertilizer sparingly, rather too little than too much, remembering always the limited amount of soil in the limited area of the pot.

Geraniums and petunias are not, of course, the only plants for use in pots, though they certainly are the showiest. Other annuals for this use include dwarf and medium height marigolds, ageratum (good for edging taller kinds), lantanas, verbenas, lobelias and dwarf nasturtiums.

Because the eventual heights and widths of the plants named vary, the planting distances will too. Just remember that it's an effect of massed color that makes a pot a picture.

ANCIENT HAIRDO took a lot of hair and a lot of doing. This Minoan style goes back about 2,000 years or more. It was seen at a recent international conference of hair stylists held in Athens, Greece.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Missouri

To be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Missouri at a special election

To be held on Tuesday, the Sixth day of August, 1968

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 1
(Submitted by the 74th General Assembly)

Adds secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney general, in that order, to follow lieutenant governor, president pro tempore of senate, and speaker of house in line of succession to governor in case of vacancy or disability. Creates board composed of officers in line of succession plus majority floor leader of senate and house which may, by majority vote, declare governor unable to perform his official duties. If governor disagrees, supreme court decides issue.

JOINT RESOLUTION

Submitting to the qualified voters of Missouri, an amendment repealing Section 11 of Article IV of the constitution of Missouri relating to the office of governor and office of Lieutenant governor, respectively, and adopting three new sections in lieu thereof relating to the same subject.

Be it resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein:

That at the next general election to be held in the state of Missouri, on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, 1968, or at a special election to be called by the governor for that purpose, there is hereby submitted to the qualified voters of this state, for adoption or rejection, the following amendment to Article IV of the constitution of the state of Missouri:

Section 1. Section 11, Article IV, constitution of Missouri, is repealed and three new sections adopted in lieu thereof, to be known as sections 11(a), 11(b), 11(c), to read as follows:

Section 11(a). If the governor-elect dies before taking office, the lieutenant governor-elect shall take the term of the governor-elect. On the death, conviction or impeachment, or resignation of the governor, the lieutenant governor shall become governor for the remainder of the term. If there be no lieutenant governor the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession shall become governor. On the failure to qualify, absence from the state or other disability of the governor, the powers, duties and emoluments of the governor shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the remainder of the term or until the disability is removed. If there be no lieutenant governor, or for any of said causes the lieutenant governor is incapable of acting, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, and the attorney general in succession shall act as governor until the disability is removed.

Section 11(b). Whenever the governor transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives has written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, and until he transmits to them a written declaration to the contrary, such powers and duties shall be discharged by the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, by the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, or the attorney general in succession, as acting governor. Whenever a majority of a disability board comprised of the lieutenant governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer, the attorney general, president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, the majority floor leader of the senate, and majority floor leader of the house, transmits to the president pro tempore of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the lieutenant governor, or if there be no lieutenant governor, the president pro tempore of the senate, the speaker of the house, the secretary of state, the state auditor, the state treasurer or the attorney general in succession, shall immediately assume the powers and duties of the office as acting governor. Thereafter when the governor transmits to the disability board his written declaration that no inability exists, he shall resume the powers and duties of his office on the fourth day after he transmits such declaration unless a majority of the disability board transmits their written declaration that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office to the supreme court within that four day period, and the supreme court shall then convene to decide the issue. If the supreme court within twenty-one days after receipt of such declaration, determines by a majority vote of all members thereof that the governor is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the acting governor shall continue to discharge the same as acting governor; otherwise, the governor shall resume the powers and duties of his office.

Section 11(c). If any state officer other than the lieutenant governor is acting as governor, his regular elective office shall not be deemed vacant and all duties of that office shall be performed by his chief administrative assistant.

Ann Landers

Dog Needed to Heal Grief

Dear Ann Landers: Our dog Rags was a faithful family friend for nearly 14 years. Since Christmas Rags had been moving so slowly it was painful for me to watch him. His eyesight was nearly gone and he kept bumping into things.

I mentioned to my husband that perhaps it would be best if we had the vet put Rags to sleep. My husband blew his top -- said it would be like murdering a friend. I never mentioned it again.

Friday evening I let Rags out for a few minutes and the next thing I knew he was involved in a three - dog fight. I ran out immediately. Rags was not hurt but he was breathing hard. Ten minutes later I saw him lying under the table very still. I knew at once he was dead.

I drove Rags to the vet although I was sure it was too late. The vet said he had died of a heart attack.

When my husband came home I told him the bad news immediately. He flew into a rage -- said I had killed his dog because of my stupidity -- that I had let him get into the fight. He phoned relatives and told them I was an idiot and a murderer. (My sister hung up on him.)

Three days have passed and he still refuses to speak to me. Please tell me what to do about this awful situation. --- NOT GUILTY

Dear Not: There's no point trying to talk sense to a man who is not rational, so stop trying. Eventually your husband will recover from his grief and settle down. Perhaps if you bought him another dog it would help. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have yet to read a kind word in your column about a mother - in - law. If one is to be said it will have to come from a reader because you are clearly against them.

Your portrayal of the typical mother - in - law is unfair. You see her as a horned creature who clings desperately to her son (or daughter) -- a domineering shrew who makes trouble, spoils the grandchildren and insists on being included in vacations.

My mother - in -law is the kindest, wisest, most considerate woman in the world. She keeps her life filled with interesting things and we consider ourselves lucky when we can get her company. Our children adore her and value her opinions. Our friends often include her when they send us an invitation, but she rarely accepts.

I recall vividly when my husband and I were newlyweds (18 years ago) and we became involved in an agrument. My husband turned to his mother and said, "What is your opinion?" She thought a moment and replied, "My opinion is worthless. This is between you and your wife. The only opinions that count are yours."

I am asking you to print this letter because I'm sure there must be other wonderful mothers - in - law who do not fit the image your column portrays. They deserve a good word. LOVE MY MOTHER - IN - LAW

Dear Love: Here's your letter, and with it I'm blowing a kiss to that great lady. I know there are such mothers - in - law in the world, because I have one, too.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Forty - five years of service as a church for the people of St. Francis Xavier parish came to an end here Monday morning when the last mass was said in the frame building behind the newly erected edifice at Front and Stoddard streets.

As the northbound Frisco passenger train No. 806, the Memphian, pulled out of the station here at 2:41 a.m. Friday, gathering speed as it crossed the Missouri Pacific tracks, the locomotive's headlight spotted for the engine crew the mangled remains of Cecil Raymond Stephenson, about 24, lying between the tracks by the Scott County Milling Co.

A detachment of 16 soldiers from Scott Field, Ill., headed by Sgt. Ray Miller, participated in the funeral services Friday afternoon of Alney "Jack" Tanner, Sikeston private, killed in a plane crash near the field Wednesday morning.

If You Were the Judge

Mild Infraction of Speed Law Accepted

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Mr. Staunch was so law abiding he'd practically break into a sprint every time he saw a "No Loitering" sign. Despite the halo around his head, however, he was arrested for speeding while driving along a deserted highway one hot and dry day.

When the facts unfolded in court, it seemed that he had been highballing along at one mile above the speed limit when he was flagged down by a motorcycle cop for doing 36 mph in a 35 mph zone.

"I thought he was kidding at first," Mr. Staunch told the judge, "but then I discovered it was pure meanness. Any cop who would give a motorist a ticket for going one measly mile over the speed limit must have been raised on rock candy, brick ice cream and marble cake. Surely, a person can't be convicted of speeding for going one mile over the limit?"

"That's the law," retorted the arresting officer in his own defense. "My job is to do or die and not to question why. Since the speed limit was 35 mph and he did 36 mph, he broke the law and he's guilty. That's all there is to it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Mr. Staunch of breaking the law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that considering that the road was dry and no other vehicles were in the area, Mr. Staunch's speed of 36 mph in a 35 mph zone was not so unreasonable as to warrant his conviction.

Lankford Quits As Road Commissioner

CHAFFEE -- Les D. Lankford has submitted his resignation to the Scott county court as commissioner for the Chaffee special road district, effective July 15.

When asked his reason for resigning at this time, only three days prior to the special road district election, Lankford stated that as a commissioner for the road district he could not conscientiously express his sentiments in regard to the special road district.

Lankford maintains that the special road district should be abolished and returned to the county. It is his opinion that since the county court retains 20 per cent of all the tax money collected for the road district, which amounts to about $3,400.00 and keeps all the gas tax money which approximately is $7,500.00, the road district does not have enough money to operate successfully and should be returned to the county. The citizens who life in the Chaffee special road district are paying one - fourth of one cent per gallon on gas purchased and are deriving no benefits whatsoever. With this added revenue, which really belongs to the Special Road District but is retained by the county, as provided by the laws of Missouri, the county road district is in good financial condition with 13 employes and adequate equipment which includes one bulldozer, one low - boy, two tractors, one weed and brush catter and two loaders, the county highway department is able to maintain the roads and build and repair bridges as they should.

He further stated that the former commissioners, John Gosche, Troy Montgomery and Wilburn Garner who administered the road district for a period of four years had done the best job possible with the money received for the district. After serving four years these men resigned and later two signed a petition to return the district to the Scott County highway department.

At present the Chaffee special road district has outstanding warrants amounting to $9,000.00 plus 6 per cent interest, & owes $4,500.00 plus 6 per cent interest to the Fabic Co. Sikeston, Mo. If the road district is returned to the county, the county court will assume all outstanding debts and in return will receive the equipment belonging to the Chaffee special road district.

He also maintains that previous to the Chaffee special road district, the county highway department had always cooperated with the city administration and the citizens of Chaffee, such as using county equipment and employees to bulldoze and level the cemetery at a minimum cost to the city, grade, gravel and black - top certain limits and after the tornado in 1957 the entire county highway department, with heavy equipment and trucks, arrived early the following morning and continued working until the debris was cleared away - at no cost to the city.

Highlights and Sidelights from Our State Capitol

NEW PATROL ACADEMY READY IN TWO YEARS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.--The training of Missouri law enforcement officials is about to get a strong boost in the form of a new Highway Patrol Academy at Jefferson City.

Plans for the new building are now on the architect's boards, and construction is expected to begin late this year with the completion date set for about 18 months later.

The Patrol has outgrown its present Academy building at Rolla and is operating at full capacity. The Patrol took over the old hospital building in 1957, Major J.A. Berglund, of the general office, explains, and it "was not designed for our purposes."

Three types of training programs are now being carried on at the Academy. The Basic Recruit Training Program for new members of the Patrol is a 14-week program. In addition, special courses for Highway Patrolmen already in service are offered periodically on several subjects.

"This is where we are really suffering," Captain Walter Snyder Jr., training supervisor, says. "We would like to have additional training for patrolmen at least every three years, but we are too crowded."

The Academy also opens its doors to municipal policemen and officers from sheriff's departments throughout the state for two week training sessions.

"This barely scratches the surface," Berglund says, "We hope to lengthen them."

Furthermore, the police school has a waiting list of over 50. The present academy has room for only 60 trainees. Two classes of 40 new recruits usually are conducted yearly. This leaves room for only 20 non-Patrol law enforcement officials.

The new building will accommodate twice as many trainees, enabling the Academy to handle three classes of 40 trainees each at the same time.

In addition to more classroom and living space, the new Academy will have more and better training facilities. In the present building, for example, the criminology laboratory consists of limited photographic equipment, six or seven breathalizers and a portable polygraph (lie detector), all crammed into a room no larger than a small bedroom. A breathalizer, for measuring intoxication, requires as much room as a desk.

Tentative plans for the new building include a gymnasium for physical and self-defense training. Classes are now forced outside for these activities, sometimes in bitter cold. The library in the new building will be expanded and made more usable, and administrative space will be increased. In addition, larger photographic facilities and an indoor firearm range are in the lans.

The new facilities, of course, do not include everything the Patrol would like to have. One ommission, Snyder says, is a driving track for training in pursuit driving. The Academy is now using a stretch of old highway near Rolla for practice in chasing cars at high speeds. Only a few states now have such facilities.

The reason for the shift in location from Rolla to Jefferson City is mainly one of convenience. At the present time, from 10 to 15 officers commute from the capital to Rolla to teach classes. Jefferson City, of course, is convenient because of its proximity to the geographic center of the state.

An additional benefit of the Jefferson City location is the proximity to the criminology laboratory at the central headquarters. The lab contains ballistics wells into which a bullet can be fired and retrieved for comparison with a slug from a body or the scene of a crime; a completechemistry lab for analyzing various materials such as drugs, human blood and paint; breathalizers; lie detectors; a spectograph for examinations of drugs and toxicants, metals, paint, glass, hair, etc; a gas chromatograph, which can identify substances by smell.

Trainees will be able to familiarize themselves with this equipment and learn what the lab can do and what they need to do in bringing evidence to the lab.

For example, the gas chromatograph, if given charred material from the starting point of a fire, can detect what was used to start the fire, even to the point of identifying what brand of gasoline was used.

FISCAL YEAR STATEMENT SHOWS $338 MILLION BALANCE

As the 1967-68 fiscal year came to a close June 30, the State Treasurer's Office reported a balance of about $338 million for state funds, including a $170.3 million balance for the State Revenue Fund.

Of the 80 funds reported, only 13 shoed a zero balance. The 13 included funds for most state mental health institutions and state hospitals, the Inter-Agency Council, the World Fair Commission and the St. Louis Training School. The State Revenue Fund was followed in balance volume by the State Road Fund ($94.5 million), the State Schools Moneys Fund ($19.2 million), the State Highway Department Fund ($15 million) and the Welfare Administration Fund ($13.2 million). Seven other state funds showed balances above $1 million.

State Law Giving Extra Penalties for Gun Crimes Noted

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Circuit Atty. James S. Corcoran of St. Louis, noting a gubernatorial candidate's call for additional penalties on those who commit crimes with guns, says Missouri already has a law to this effect.

Corcoran said a law enacted 40 years ago provides for two additional years imprisonment for a first offense, 10 years for a second, 15 years for a third and life imprisonment for a fourth.

Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos of St. Louis County, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Missouri, called this week for an additional five-year sentence to be imposed on persons convicted of crimes involving the use of guns.

Roos proposed that the additional portion of the sentence not be subject to review or reduction through normal parole and probation procedures.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Pride goes before destruction, and the haughty spirit before a fall. (Proverbs 16:18, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, we humbly beseech Thee to take from us pride of position, race, religion, and any other sinful self-centeredness, that keep us from being Thy sons. Replace them with true humility, long-suffering, and a forgiving, spiritual brotherly love. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

TRIUMPH and TRAGEDY: The Story of the KENNEDYS

NEW BOOK TO TELL STORY OF THE AMAZING KENNEDYS

The Kennedys have had it all.

From hunger in Ireland to realization, three generations later, of the American Dream. Wealth. Position. Power.

And they have seen the dream become nightmare.

The violence done them by fate is cruel enough. But the violence done them by the dark side of the human mind has appalled the nation and the world.

The story of this American family, what has been given it and what has been taken from it, is as fantastic as it is frightening.

Once before The Associated Press has chronicled a shocking tragedy of this afflicted family in "The Torch Is Passed", one of the largest selling books of all time, and the classic account of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Now, in a time of national shock and sympathy, the AP is producing another book on this fated family.

It is called "Triumph and Tragedy: The Story of the Kennedys." Many of those who wrote "The Torch Is Passed" are at work on the new project. It will be a hardbound book fully illustrated in color and black and white, a fitting memoir of one of the most shocking personal and public tragedies of American history.

To reserve your copy, send only $3 now to "Triumph and Tragedy" in care of this newspaper. The book will be mailed you just as soon as it is available.

If You Were the Judge

Mild Infraction of Speed Law Accepted

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Mr. Staunch was so law abiding he'd practically break into a sprint every time he saw a "No Loitering" sign. Despite the halo around his head, however, he was arrested for speeding while driving along a deserted highway one hot and dry day.

When the facts unfolded in court, it seemed that he had been highballing along at one mile above the speed limit when he was flagged down by a motorcycle cop for doing 36 mph in a 35 mph zone.

"I thought he was kidding at first," Mr. Staunch told the judge, "but then I discovered it was pure meanness. Any cop who would give a motorist a ticket for going one measly mile over the speed limit must have been raised on rock candy, brick ice cream and marble cake. Surely, a person can't be convicted of speeding for going one mile over the limit?"

"That's the law," retorted the arresting officer in his own defense. "My job is to do or die and not to question why. Since the speed limit was 35 mph and he did 36 mph, he broke the law and he's guilty. That's all there is to it."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict Mr. Staunch of breaking the law?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that considering that the road was dry and no other vehicles were in the area, Mr. Staunch's speed of 36 mph in a 35 mph zone was not so unreasonable as to warrant his conviction.

Lankford Quits As Road Commissioner

CHAFFEE -- Les D. Lankford has submitted his resignation to the Scott county court as commissioner for the Chaffee special road district, effective July 15.

When asked his reason for resigning at this time, only three days prior to the special road district election, Lankford stated that as a commissioner for the road district he could not conscientiously express his sentiments in regard to the special road district.

Lankford maintains that the special road district should be abolished and returned to the county. It is his opinion that since the county court retains 20 per cent of all the tax money collected for the road district, which amounts to about $3,400.00 and keeps all the gas tax money which approximately is $7,500.00, the road district does not have enough money to operate successfully and should be returned to the county. The citizens who life in the Chaffee special road district are paying one - fourth of one cent per gallon on gas purchased and are deriving no benefits whatsoever. With this added revenue, which really belongs to the Special Road District but is retained by the county, as provided by the laws of Missouri, the county road district is in good financial condition with 13 employes and adequate equipment which includes one bulldozer, one low - boy, two tractors, one weed and brush catter and two loaders, the county highway department is able to maintain the roads and build and repair bridges as they should.

He further stated that the former commissioners, John Gosche, Troy Montgomery and Wilburn Garner who administered the road district for a period of four years had done the best job possible with the money received for the district. After serving four years these men resigned and later two signed a petition to return the district to the Scott County highway department.

At present the Chaffee special road district has outstanding warrants amounting to $9,000.00 plus 6 per cent interest, & owes $4,500.00 plus 6 per cent interest to the Fabic Co. Sikeston, Mo. If the road district is returned to the county, the county court will assume all outstanding debts and in return will receive the equipment belonging to the Chaffee special road district.

He also maintains that previous to the Chaffee special road district, the county highway department had always cooperated with the city administration and the citizens of Chaffee, such as using county equipment and employees to bulldoze and level the cemetery at a minimum cost to the city, grade, gravel and black - top certain limits and after the tornado in 1957 the entire county highway department, with heavy equipment and trucks, arrived early the following morning and continued working until the debris was cleared away - at no cost to the city.

Highlights and Sidelights from Our State Capitol

NEW PATROL ACADEMY READY IN TWO YEARS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.--The training of Missouri law enforcement officials is about to get a strong boost in the form of a new Highway Patrol Academy at Jefferson City.

Plans for the new building are now on the architect's boards, and construction is expected to begin late this year with the completion date set for about 18 months later.

The Patrol has outgrown its present Academy building at Rolla and is operating at full capacity. The Patrol took over the old hospital building in 1957, Major J.A. Berglund, of the general office, explains, and it "was not designed for our purposes."

Three types of training programs are now being carried on at the Academy. The Basic Recruit Training Program for new members of the Patrol is a 14-week program. In addition, special courses for Highway Patrolmen already in service are offered periodically on several subjects.

"This is where we are really suffering," Captain Walter Snyder Jr., training supervisor, says. "We would like to have additional training for patrolmen at least every three years, but we are too crowded."

The Academy also opens its doors to municipal policemen and officers from sheriff's departments throughout the state for two week training sessions.

"This barely scratches the surface," Berglund says, "We hope to lengthen them."

Furthermore, the police school has a waiting list of over 50. The present academy has room for only 60 trainees. Two classes of 40 new recruits usually are conducted yearly. This leaves room for only 20 non-Patrol law enforcement officials.

The new building will accommodate twice as many trainees, enabling the Academy to handle three classes of 40 trainees each at the same time.

In addition to more classroom and living space, the new Academy will have more and better training facilities. In the present building, for example, the criminology laboratory consists of limited photographic equipment, six or seven breathalizers and a portable polygraph (lie detector), all crammed into a room no larger than a small bedroom. A breathalizer, for measuring intoxication, requires as much room as a desk.

Tentative plans for the new building include a gymnasium for physical and self-defense training. Classes are now forced outside for these activities, sometimes in bitter cold. The library in the new building will be expanded and made more usable, and administrative space will be increased. In addition, larger photographic facilities and an indoor firearm range are in the lans.

The new facilities, of course, do not include everything the Patrol would like to have. One ommission, Snyder says, is a driving track for training in pursuit driving. The Academy is now using a stretch of old highway near Rolla for practice in chasing cars at high speeds. Only a few states now have such facilities.

The reason for the shift in location from Rolla to Jefferson City is mainly one of convenience. At the present time, from 10 to 15 officers commute from the capital to Rolla to teach classes. Jefferson City, of course, is convenient because of its proximity to the geographic center of the state.

An additional benefit of the Jefferson City location is the proximity to the criminology laboratory at the central headquarters. The lab contains ballistics wells into which a bullet can be fired and retrieved for comparison with a slug from a body or the scene of a crime; a completechemistry lab for analyzing various materials such as drugs, human blood and paint; breathalizers; lie detectors; a spectograph for examinations of drugs and toxicants, metals, paint, glass, hair, etc; a gas chromatograph, which can identify substances by smell.

Trainees will be able to familiarize themselves with this equipment and learn what the lab can do and what they need to do in bringing evidence to the lab.

For example, the gas chromatograph, if given charred material from the starting point of a fire, can detect what was used to start the fire, even to the point of identifying what brand of gasoline was used.

FISCAL YEAR STATEMENT SHOWS $338 MILLION BALANCE

As the 1967-68 fiscal year came to a close June 30, the State Treasurer's Office reported a balance of about $338 million for state funds, including a $170.3 million balance for the State Revenue Fund.

Of the 80 funds reported, only 13 shoed a zero balance. The 13 included funds for most state mental health institutions and state hospitals, the Inter-Agency Council, the World Fair Commission and the St. Louis Training School. The State Revenue Fund was followed in balance volume by the State Road Fund ($94.5 million), the State Schools Moneys Fund ($19.2 million), the State Highway Department Fund ($15 million) and the Welfare Administration Fund ($13.2 million). Seven other state funds showed balances above $1 million.

State Law Giving Extra Penalties for Gun Crimes Noted

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Circuit Atty. James S. Corcoran of St. Louis, noting a gubernatorial candidate's call for additional penalties on those who commit crimes with guns, says Missouri already has a law to this effect.

Corcoran said a law enacted 40 years ago provides for two additional years imprisonment for a first offense, 10 years for a second, 15 years for a third and life imprisonment for a fourth.

Supervisor Lawrence K. Roos of St. Louis County, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Missouri, called this week for an additional five-year sentence to be imposed on persons convicted of crimes involving the use of guns.

Roos proposed that the additional portion of the sentence not be subject to review or reduction through normal parole and probation procedures.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Pride goes before destruction, and the haughty spirit before a fall. (Proverbs 16:18, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear heavenly Father, we humbly beseech Thee to take from us pride of position, race, religion, and any other sinful self-centeredness, that keep us from being Thy sons. Replace them with true humility, long-suffering, and a forgiving, spiritual brotherly love. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

TRIUMPH and TRAGEDY: The Story of the KENNEDYS

NEW BOOK TO TELL STORY OF THE AMAZING KENNEDYS

The Kennedys have had it all.

From hunger in Ireland to realization, three generations later, of the American Dream. Wealth. Position. Power.

And they have seen the dream become nightmare.

The violence done them by fate is cruel enough. But the violence done them by the dark side of the human mind has appalled the nation and the world.

The story of this American family, what has been given it and what has been taken from it, is as fantastic as it is frightening.

Once before The Associated Press has chronicled a shocking tragedy of this afflicted family in "The Torch Is Passed", one of the largest selling books of all time, and the classic account of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Now, in a time of national shock and sympathy, the AP is producing another book on this fated family.

It is called "Triumph and Tragedy: The Story of the Kennedys." Many of those who wrote "The Torch Is Passed" are at work on the new project. It will be a hardbound book fully illustrated in color and black and white, a fitting memoir of one of the most shocking personal and public tragedies of American history.

To reserve your copy, send only $3 now to "Triumph and Tragedy" in care of this newspaper. The book will be mailed you just as soon as it is available.

Hearnes, Drumm Aid Phi Delts

COLUMBIA, MO. -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the centennial celebration of the Missouri University chapter of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The fraternity will celebrate its 100th anniversary at the university in 1970.

Elliott E. Farmer, Jefferson City, and George C. Miller, Columbia, are the general chairmen, which is using as a project the raising of funds for scholarships from alumni of the chapter for the Fidelity Educational Foundation.

Phi Delta Theta is the oldest fraternity at the University, and was the first chapter of any college fraternity to be founded west of the Mississippi river.

The Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Charleston area is being directed by Manuel Drumm of Sikeston.

Better Tasting Catfish Goal of Research

COLUMBIA -- Can the flavor of Missouri or Mississippi River fish be improved by relocating them in clear water streams for a few days or weeks?

The answer, hopefully, will be supplied by studies in palatability of fish to be conducted at the University of Missouri - Columbia.

As in previous campus studies on palatibility, the fish will be supplied by the Missouri Conservation Department. It has provided a grant of $6,750 for the continued studies.

Connoisseurs, and some less well informed, complain of a lack of flavor, even of a "muddy" taste, in fish taken from the silt - laden rivers. Some even claim Mississippi River fish, particularly those taken well above St. Louis, have a superior flavor to Missouri River fish.

If the theory of conservationists holds, fish caught in either of the streams might have improved flavor if they are transported to clear water streams, or held in fresh - water traps, for certain periods. In effect, the fish would be put in feed lots, even as livestock is fattened before marketing.

Similar studies at MC on such factors as environment, seasonal variations and different cooking methods with fish led into the new project. Earlier tests showed the flower is not consistent over the full length of the fish. A trained taste panel detected difference as to environement.

As a result, the Conservation Commission will supply the fish and studies on the campus will be directed by Mrs. Berniece Korschen, department of food science and nutrition, to determine if flavor can be improved.

Street Paving Controversy Enlivens Council Meeting

DEXTER -- A controversy developed between the opponents of a more organized plan of street paving for the city and Mayor Willis Conner at a meeting of the city council.

Ward Two Alderman Lehman Godwin suggested to the Council that "some thought be given to a street paving plan whereby certain areas would be paved at designated times and eliminate the block by block haphazard way in which the paving is now done."

He said that "the decision of which streets are to be paved is under the jurisdiction of the city council and the council should exercise this right by planning paving projects for the betterment of everyone concerned."

He also voiced the opinion that "most residents are not against paying their part of the paving but that they would like the best street they can get for their money and added that some inquiries have been made as to widening of certain streests in Ward Two."

Mayor Willis Conner pointed out that "the reason for not planning ahead and outlining certain paving projects is the lack of city funds with which to spend for paving."

He commented that to widen most any city street would require new road beds and extensive cost, which the city cannot bear at this time, the mayor said.

Ward Three Alderman James Williams spoke out in favor of the city planning ahead and designatin which areas should be paved as a project for a particular year. He added that the city should do the planning and forget about petitions for or against certain blocks being paved.

Williams added that if funds were available for the project that paving plans would of course, have to be altered, but a plan, selected by the city, should be put into effect.

The mayor pointed out to the group that the paving scheduled for the next few weeks - on Fannetta Street, One Mile Road and Bain Street - was all requested by petition and was in his opinion "the voice of the people."

The council, in a meeting several months ago, had announced that paving this summer would be done by the request of petitions.

Other paving projects in which the city is involved this summer has included One Mile Road from Highway 114 to Highway 60 and the city will also be spending some of the gasoline tax money earmarked for paving on the Fram factory project.

A city license was granted to Hearn's Tobacco Store, and payment was authorized to Eddie McMullin for work on the Fram project. Due to the absence of City Attorney Paul McGhee, several items were tabled until the next meeting.

At a previous meeting Alderman James Gunn, Ward Three, had requested more information on a speed zone on Highway 114 at the site of the new swimming pool. Mayor Willis Conner informed the Council that a Highway Department representative would attend the next Council meeting, August 5, and outline to the city a "model traffic ordinance."

Discussion of stop or yield signs at various points was tabled, with a decision to be made at the next meeting.

MORRIS

Bill Morris said today he expects to carry Kansas City and will run well in St. Louis against his chief rival Edward Dowd, St. Louis, in the city and county of St. Louis.

Morris said he believes he is the front runner in outstate Missouri.

"I've agreed to spend full time as lieutenant governor, if elected, and would take on any responsibilities requested by the governor, Morris said.

In view of his business experience as vice president of a large Kansas City bank where he served 12 years in the trust department, Morris said, "I feel I could be helpful in bringing new and desireable industry to the state."

Desireable industry would be any industry that employs persons and pays at least a minimum wage, he said.

The picture of outstate Missouri's untapped labor market presents a need for additional industry in all parts of the state, he said.

Persons are moving from the rural areas to the city, not because they prefer it, but because they have to move to survive, he said.

As lieutenant governor, Morris said he would not have a legislative program, this is the role for the governor, but there are several areas where he supports a firm opinion.

He suggests that additional aid is needed to support the state's mental health program, and appropriations to education from pre - school through college should be increased.

More vocational education schools are needed. Sikeston is fortunate to have one here, he said. The average high school graduate is not properly equipped to take a job and hold it as well as graduates of vocational education programs, he said.

Morris said he also would like to see the State Highway Patrol academy at Rolla expand to enable all communities to send peace officers for training at the state's expense.

The state's probation and parole system is good, but it also needs expanding, Morris commented.

On gun control, Morris said, "We have all the laws we need. We need to enforce the existing ones." He added that he saw no need for the registration of shotguns and rifles.

Morris said he was sorry to see the toll road legislation declared unconstitutional and hopes to see a constitutional amendment, or new legislation that is constitutional passed to make the toll roads a reality. Missouri is more than 20 years behind the surrounding states in this area, he said.

"On the whole," Morris said, "I think we are on the move in Missouri and have accomplished great strides under Gov. Hearnes."

Street Paving Controversy Enlivens Council Meeting

DEXTER -- A controversy developed between the opponents of a more organized plan of street paving for the city and Mayor Willis Conner at a meeting of the city council.

Ward Two Alderman Lehman Godwin suggested to the Council that "some thought be given to a street paving plan whereby certain areas would be paved at designated times and eliminate the block by block haphazard way in which the paving is now done."

He said that "the decision of which streets are to be paved is under the jurisdiction of the city council and the council should exercise this right by planning paving projects for the betterment of everyone concerned."

He also voiced the opinion that "most residents are not against paying their part of the paving but that they would like the best street they can get for their money and added that some inquiries have been made as to widening of certain streests in Ward Two."

Mayor Willis Conner pointed out that "the reason for not planning ahead and outlining certain paving projects is the lack of city funds with which to spend for paving."

He commented that to widen most any city street would require new road beds and extensive cost, which the city cannot bear at this time, the mayor said.

Ward Three Alderman James Williams spoke out in favor of the city planning ahead and designatin which areas should be paved as a project for a particular year. He added that the city should do the planning and forget about petitions for or against certain blocks being paved.

Williams added that if funds were available for the project that paving plans would of course, have to be altered, but a plan, selected by the city, should be put into effect.

The mayor pointed out to the group that the paving scheduled for the next few weeks - on Funnetta Street, One Mile Road and Bain Street - was all requested by petition and was in his opinion "the voice of the people."

The council, in a meeting several months ago, had announced that paving this summer would be done by the request of petitions.

Other paving projects in which the city is involved this summer has included One Mile Road from Highway 114 to Highway 60 and the city will also be spending some of the gasoline tax money earmarked for paving on the Fram factory project.

A city license was granted to Hearn's Tobacco Store, and payment was authorized to Eddie McMullin for work on the Fram project. Due to the absence of City Attorney Paul McGhee, several items were tabled until the next meeting.

At a previous meeting Alderman James Gunn, Ward Three, had requested more information on a speed zone on Highway 114 at the site of the new swimming pool. Mayor Willis Conner informed the Council that a Highway Department representative would attend the next Council meeting, August 5, and outline to the city a "model traffic ordinance."

Discussion of stop or yield signs at various points was tabled, with a decision to be made at the next meeting.

He is a former chairman of the Cape County Young Democrats, Boy Scout neighborhood commissioner and is a member of the Elks lodge in Cape.

MORRIS

Bill Morris said today he expects to carry Kansas City and will run well in St. Louis against his chief rival Edward Dowd, St. Louis, in the city and county of St. Louis.

Morris said he believes he is the front runner in outstate Missouri.

"I've agreed to spend full time as lieutenant governor, if elected, and would take on any responsibilities requested by the governor, Morris said.

In view of his business experience as vice president of a large Kansas City bank where he served 12 years in the trust department, Morris said, "I feel I could be helpful in bringing new and desireable industry to the state."

Desireable industry would be any industry that employs persons and pays at least a minimum wage, he said.

The picture of outstate Missouri's untapped labor market presents a need for additional industry in all parts of the state, he said.

Persons are moving from the rural areas to the city, not because they prefer it, but because they have to move to survive, he said.

As lieutenant governor, Morris said he would not have a legislative program, this is the role for the governor, but there are several areas where he supports a firm opinion.

He suggests that additional aid is needed to support the state's mental health program, and appropriations to education from pre - school through college should be increased.

More vocational education schools are needed. Sikeston is fortunate to have one here, he said. The average high school graduate is not properly equipped to take a job and hold it as well as graduates of vocational education programs, he said.

Morris said he also would like to see the State Highway Patrol academy at Rolla expand to enable all communities to send peace officers for training at the state's expense.

The state's probation and parole system is good, but it also needs expanding, Morris commented.

On gun control, Morris said, "We have all the laws we need. We need to enforce the existing ones." He added that he saw no need for the registration of shotguns and rifles.

Morris said he was sorry to see the toll road legislation declared unconstitutional and hopes to see a constitutional amendment, or new legislation that is constitutional passed to make the toll roads a reality. Missouri is more than 20 years behind the surrounding states in this area, he said.

"On the whole," Morris said, "I think we are on the move in Missouri and have accomplished great strides under Gov. Hearnes."
